THE WOMAN IN THE ALCOVE
is the best detective story Anna Katharine Green has ever written, and among American makers of this popular kind of fiction Anna Katharine Green has for a long time been easily first.

THE WOMAN IN THE ALCOVE
is, indeed, one of the most fascinating books of the sort, superior in content, it seems to us, to either The Filigree Ball or The Millionaire Baby, and as absorbing as those or any of their predecessors.—New York Times Saturday Review of Books.

Magnificently illustrated by Arthur I. Keller. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

GREAT NOVEL

THE TIDES OF

Illustrated in color by GEORGE WRIGHT. $1.50

A wonderful story of life on the shores of Barnegat, a tale of love and death, sin and self-sacrifice, lightened by the kindliness and sympathetic humor that characterizes all his writings. The great variety of persons that figure in the story, the splendid open-air tone and spirit of the book, the dramatic scenes and tremendous ending, set it apart from other novels. Its great success as a serial in SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE proves the strong appeal it makes to the hearts and understanding of its readers.

Anna Katharine Green's

THE WOMAN IN THE ALCOVE

"The Woman in the Alcove is the best detective story which Anna Katharine Green has yet written."—Chicago Daily News.

"Both in plausibility of plot and in ingenuity of construction, Anna Katharine Green has outdone herself in The Woman in the Alcove."—Boston Transcript.

"The Woman in the Alcove is superior in content, it seems to us, to either The Filigree Ball or The Millionaire Baby, and as absorbing as those or any of their predecessors."—New York Times Saturday Review of Books.

"America's greatest writer of detective stories has added another volume to her many thrilling books, and this time she surpasses anything she has ever written."—Boston Times.

"Ingenuity and inventiveness, in unusual plot and startling incident, The Woman in the Alcove must be accorded first place in the author's long list of successes."—St. Paul Dispatch.

"The Woman in the Alcove is a novel of exciting charm—so intense that on opening the book one is fairly whipped with curiosity to read it to the end."—Portland Oregonian.

"A story of absorbing interest, baffling mystery, original situations, rapid action and startling climaxes is The Woman in the Alcove."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

NOTES IN SEASON.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have just ready a practical up-to-date book for business men and correspondents in "Success in Letter Writing—Business and Social," by Sherwin Cody. They have also just ready their re-issue of "Wacousta, a Tale of the Pontiac Conspiracy," Major John Richardson's famous romance, with five full-page illustrations by C. W. Jefferys.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish shortly an important library set in "Memoirs of the Pretenders and Their Adherents," by John Heneage Jesse. The three volumes include, beside the known facts of history, all the intimate and secret details of the lives of the Stuart Pretenders to the English throne, and the inner history of the English court obtained from reliable private sources.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish shortly "Principles of English Verse," by Professor Charlton Miner Lewis, of Yale, who treats of rhythm and metre, of blank verse and rhymed verse, and of much more in a manner intelligible to the unlearned. In fact, his book is designed, as he says, chiefly for 'general readers,' and to such he promises material assistance and satisfaction, arguing that English metres are in detail very complicated, but in their fundamental principles very simple.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have in preparation for the fall F. Marion Crawford's new novel, "Prima Donna," which will continue the adventures of the wonderful soprano, "Fair Margaret." It may be recalled that the closing chapter of "Fair Margaret: a Portrait" ended with the soprano's successful debut in Brussels and an unsuccessful attempt on the part of the King of the Belgians to capture her person if not to captivate her affections. The story will not have initial publication as a serial before its appearance in book form. They have also in preparation "White Fang," which is said to be the best work that Jack London has done since "The Call of the Wild." Indeed, it is closely associated with that book, for it treats of a similar theme in the reverse order—from barbaric nature to culture and civilization—the gradual taming of a wolf which has become a starved hanger-on of a dogsled in the frozen North and his gradual adoption of the ways of trained and intelligent canine helpers of man.

DUFFIELD & Co., by special arrangement with the New York Herald Company, are to issue "Little Nemo in Slumberland" in book form. The artist-author of this attractive series, Winsor Macay, is already known as a draughtsman of much skill and imagination, among his creations being "Sammy Sneeze" and "Dreams of the Welsh Rabbit Fiend." They have also made arrangements to publish the autobiography which Geronimo, the famous Apache outlaw, has spent the last two years in writing. By permission of the War Department and President Roosevelt, S. M. Barrett, Superintendent of Schools at Lawton, Oklahoma, has been the medium through which the chief, now seventy-seven years of age, has told the story of his life and that of his people. The object of the autobiography, so the old chief declares, is to aid in freeing his people from the captivity in which they have been held for a score of years. He wants to have lands allotted to them, which they may hold and bequeath to their children. The War Department has allowed Geronimo, Mr. Barrett says, to tell his story in his own simple but picturesque fashion. He goes back over the first thirty years of his life, during which he never saw a "pale face," and of his career as the great war chief of the Apaches, fighting against the encroachments of civilization.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger†. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Butterfield, W. A. The "Bacon nonsense": a review of Mr. Edwin Reed's book "Bacon versus Shakespeare, brief for plaintiff"; reprinted from Birmingham (Eng.) Daily Gazette. Bost., W. A. Butterfield, 1906. 8 p. O. pap., 10 c.

"Bacon vs. Shakespeare" was a collection by Edwin Reed of quotations from 107 authorities, only eleven of whom favored the Baconian theory. From this material, however, Mr. Reed showed the cumulative evidence in favor of Bacon. See notice "Weekly Record," P. W., April 22, 1905, [1734.] He proved there had been an actor at Stratford-on-Avon named William Shakespeare who was totally distinct from the person who wrote the plays under the pen-name Shake-speare. The present writer selects a few of Mr. Reed's points and gives them without comment, merely calling attention to the good historical work shown in "Bacon vs. Shakespeare," which has not yet been refuted by a recognized authority.

To the top of the hill in Old Chester has come Helena Ritchie, a young, beautiful woman, who remains a mystery to Dr. Lavender, Dr. William King and the other old inhabitants with whom Mrs. Deland has made her readers so intimately acquainted. Dr. Lavender has a little child to place, and Dr. King suggests that it would be good for the lonely woman to care for it. The sober, dutiful, obedient child awakens Helena, who has been the evolution of uncontrolled circumstances. Her mysterious husband dies, and her more mysterious "brother," loses control of her life, and she leaves Old Chester with the child to begin a new life under new conditions. Three generations of the Wright men offer remarkable psychological studies.

Author is professor in the University of Berne, and a specialist in the treatment of nervous disorders through psychic suggestion. He has embodied his theories in a book entitled "The psychic treatment of nervous disorders." This lecture points out how by self-control and philosophy we can control the "unhappy passions" of fear, inquietude, discouragement, anger, etc., which all lower the nervous tension and react upon the physical condition.

 Author instructor in entomology at the University of Illinois. A comprehensive and concise account of insects. Though planned primarily for the student, the book is intended also for the general reader. It was written in an effort to meet the growing demand for a biological treatment of entomology. The existence of several excellent works on the classification of insects has enabled the author to omit the multitudinous details of classification and to introduce much material that hitherto has not appeared in text-books. The 300 illustrations are chiefly from the author's original drawings. Classified bibliography (58 p.).

Poe's character and career have for many years been a study with the author, his intention being sometime in the future to make a book of his literary discoveries, that is, to re-write Poe's biography from an entirely new view-point, showing the malice and mistakes of his past biographers. He gives here a few new and interesting facts, in a detached way, about portraits of Poe, the "Lavante" satire, the profile study, the widower year portrait, and a transposable portrait, a mechanical contrivance to prove the perfect regularity of both sides of Poe's physiognomy.

This book takes its title from the founder of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, Richard Allen, who was born in 1760, in Philadelphia, of a slave woman belonging to the household of Benjamin Chew. He bought his freedom, when grown to be a man, and became an itinerant preacher. His life and his great work for his race are traced in a brief sketch. The "sons of Allen," the subjects of 123 sketches, are members of the African Methodist Church of the present generation, who have become lawyers, doctors, ministers, authors, editors, or have otherwise distinguished themselves. Wilberforce University, situated in Ohio and established for colored youth, is the subject of an article depicting its rise and progress.

princess, and Powhatan, down to and including Chief Joseph and Geronimo; also an answer, from the latest research, of the the query, Whence came the Indian?; together with a number of thrillingly interesting Indian stories and anecdotes from history. Aurora, Ill., American Indian Historical Publishing Co., [1906.] c. 11+771 p. il. pors. plan, map, O. cl., $2.50.

Author has written "The white side of a black subject" and "A new negro for a new century," both to vindicate the Afro-American. He now takes up the First American and gives in condensed form the lives of practically all the most famous Indian chiefs from the Colonial period to the present time. He aims to show the brighter, better side of Indian life and character and that the Indian's greatest faults must be traced to a wrong system of governing them.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE H. W. WILSON COMPANY, Minneapolis, Minn., has in press the supplement to the "United States Catalog," covering the years from the issue of that work to 1906, a period of four years.

THE Bibliographie de la France announces that an association entitled Société Française de Bibliographie has been organized in Paris. The object of the society, which has its headquarters in the building of the Cercle de la Librairie, is to bring those people together who take an interest in the study of the proper classification of books, to organize the better production of catalogues, etc., and to place on a uniform footing the issue of all bibliographical publications.

BAILLY-BAILLIÈRE Y HIJOS, of Madrid, announce a "Nueva Biblioteca de Autores Españoles," to be brought out under the direction of Marcelino Menéndez y Pelayo, with the collaboration of such noted specialists as R. Menéndez Pidal, M. Serrano y Sanz, A. Ponilla y San Martín, E. Cotarelo y Mori, M. Mir, and other distinguished Spanish scholars. It is the purpose of the "Nueva Biblioteca" to offer a continuation and complement to the "Biblioteca de Autores Españoles" of Rivadeneira, (which was begun in 1846 and suspended after the death of its founder in 1880, when it had reached the 71st volume,) though not to follow too closely its plan or imitate exactly its methods, particularly in the reproduction of texts. It is the intention of the "Nueva Biblioteca" to fill up the lacunæ of its predecessor, and if the ambitious project is realized, the number of volumes in the collection may easily exceed the 71 of Rivadeneira.

BACKING THE BOOKSELLER.—II.

REALIZING that the booktrade—publisher as well as retailer—was not keeping abreast with the progress made by every other trade, in proportion to the development of the country and the increase of population, the publishers, five years ago, took the initiative in bringing about a reform looking to the building up of an adequate distributing machinery throughout the country. It was the most important step taken by the booktrade in a century, and almost instantly its benign effects were felt. That the American Publishers' Association was not able at once to eliminate all the evils from which the trade had been suffering for a hundred years was natural. The readjustment, to be effectual, must be slow, and justice must be done to every interest concerned in publishing, selling and buying books. We have all confidence that, so far as trade interests may be controlled through rules and regulations, the American Publishers' Association will in time succeed so far as the letter of the law is concerned. But the publishing trade can never hope to develop an effective retail distributing machinery throughout this country so long as its members persist in competing with the bookseller in supplying books to what is properly the bookseller's constituency.

Wherever a bookseller may be established all trade in his locality should, as far as possible, be directed to him; to divert it from him, indeed, to coax it away even by underbidding him in his own field, as has been only too frequently the case in past years, works injury to both parties—because of what profit is a large library or other order to the publisher to-day if to-morrow the bookseller, upon whom he must depend for the distribution of his whole publishing output, and whom he has persuaded to stock up with his publications, is bankrupted by losing his customers through such methods? All the good that might result through trade rules is negated by such a proceeding.

We realize that the re-creating of a retail book distributing machinery, even if undertaken whole-heartedly by the majority of the publishers, will be a slow process, and will undoubtedly meet with many difficulties and discouragements in the initial stages. The field is a large one and must be carefully studied section by section by competent bookmen with the necessary business qualifications. Tentatively every county in every State should be carefully canvassed and measured according to its population, its standard of education and its possibilities of being able to support a well-appointed bookstore. Every large city, even, should be mapped out with the same object in view. Hundreds of capable men could no doubt at any time be encouraged to start bookstores in likely localities, provided they might be assured of their field. Already many are established in so-called bookstores, who, discouraged by present conditions, devote more attention to other lines than to books. These can, no doubt, be stimulated into greater efficiency and activity as booksellers if their hopes of more adequate remuneration in handling books are realized.

In certain cases, it may be necessary to stock up such stores with books "on sale," which thus would probably have a better chance of moving than they now have stored up in the bins of the publishers' stock rooms or warehouses. Indeed, in this direction publishers, if they are really ambitious to develop their business to the highest possible point, may collectively find it necessary in time to follow the lead of certain other large industries which, to create an outlet for their products, were obliged individually to establish retail distributing agencies in localities where they could not induce others to establish them independently. On the whole such an experiment might not prove quite so costly as it has been to cultivate bookbuyers through mail-order canvass and to encourage the many irresponsible co-operative purchasing agencies, reading clubs, etc., which the publishing trade has always more than generously supported in its desire to find an outlet for its book production.

The publishing trade for years has been looking forward to the dawning of the day of large sales of all classes of books; but it has done little in the direction of systematic and concerted action towards bringing about that event. If the publishing trade has succeeded thus far in maintaining itself after a fashion, it has been because a fraction of the public has by its own initiative felt the need of certain books and has sought for them, rather than because the public at large has been trained to a habit of buying books of every kind, as it should and might have been trained by a competent distributing machinery substantially encouraged to maintain itself throughout the country. And all this might have been done with less cost to the publisher and greater gain to the bookseller and to the public than has heretofore been possible.

We have but touched upon the conditions of the present and the possibilities of the future as they present themselves from an objective point of view. It must remain for the publishers to decide whether a feasible and practicable plan can be developed to better these conditions and whether its present machinery can be so adjusted that it may make possible a development of the booktrade that will assure adequate return for the immense amount of capital and labor expended upon it by those interested in its maintenance.

It is, of course, also paramount for the retail booktrade to realize its responsibility in co-operating in the reorganization of the booktrade, as outlined, to relieve the publisher of the necessity of bringing his work directly to the attention of its constituents. If the bookseller fulfils his function to the highest degree in making a market for the publishing output, and thus proves to the publisher that he can do the work thus far done by the publisher more effectively and more economically than it has been done heretofore, he can make demand for better remuneration with greater assurance and greater certainty of recognition than has been possible heretofore. The safeguarding of the interests of the retailer does not lie in the direction of increasing the prices of books and in excessive discounts—that road does not lead to prosperity, as the experience of years has proved; it lies, rather, in the direction of a more economical administration of the business of the publisher and bookseller. If the publisher can be relieved of the burden of expense in marketing his books by the retailer, he can afford to make his books cheaper and to distribute the sums he now is obliged to expend in advertising his books and in getting them to the public through outside channels, to the direct remuneration of the bookseller. If each party concerned in the reform will be true to itself, the publisher will realize that an ably conducted retail bookstore is a great factor in the development of the intelligence and culture of the community, and the bookseller must recognize that in furthering the interests of the publisher he is, above all, guarding his own interest and welfare.

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS, through the Copyright Office, is making an important step forward in national cataloguing in the issue of a new series of the weekly "Catalogue of Copyright Entries," beginning with the first week of the present month. The basis of this bibliography is the material given in full on the Library of Congress card, with publisher's name, paging, size, etc., record of Copyright, and a chronological and an order number. This full entry is supplemented by an index, alphabetically by author, giving the card number, which furnishes an easy clue to the full entry. It is proposed to cumulate this index, but on just what plan is yet to be determined. The actual type used for the card is re-used in this catalogue, so that the card catalogue of a library may now be supplemented by a chronological weekly record on which books in the library may be indicated by shelf number or otherwise. So far, the support of the catalogue has been very meagre, but the new form should commend the publication for practical use, and it is to be hoped that it may receive increasing support from the booktrade and libraries, although it cannot be expected that this issue, any more than that of the catalogue cards, may be made self-sustaining. It is not improbable that this publication may cause a considerable modification in the private enterprises now covering this field, as foreshadowed in the preface to the first volume of the "American Catalog," 1900-05."

A CLOSED SEASON FOR NET BOOKS IN ENGLAND.

THE English Publishers' Association, at a special meeting called to consider ways and means to protect the booktrade against such underselling methods as those practiced by the Times Book Club, to which reference was made in our issue of July 7, adopted the following resolutions:

(1) That second-hand copies of net books shall not be sold under the published price within six months of publication.

(2) That new copies of net books shall not be treated as dead stock within twelve months of the date of purchase, nor shall at any time afterwards be sold at a reduction without having been first offered to the publisher at cost price, or at the proposed reduced price, whichever is the lower.

THE NEW COPYRIGHT CATALOGUE.

WITH the first week in July the Copyright Office began the publication of a new series of the "Catalogue of Copyright Entries," making marked and important changes from the previous system. The weekly catalogue will hereafter be issued in four parts, the classification following in general that adopted for the proposed copyright law, although combining some of these classes for practical purposes. Thus part 1 includes Class A, Books, including Group 1, Books proper, and Group 2, Pamphlets, leaflets, contributions to periodicals, etc.; Class D, Dramatic compositions, and Class E, Maps and Charts. Part 2 includes Class B, Periodicals, that is, the names of periodicals as distinguished from contributions to periodicals included in Group 2 of Class A. Part 3 includes Class C, Musical Compositions. Part 4 includes Class F, Engravings, cuts and prints, Class G, Chromos and lithographs, Class H, Photographs, Class I, Fine arts. The system of arrangement varies in the several parts, but each part, except Part 3, is indexed by authors or copyright proprietors.

Part 1 is, of course, of especial interest to libraries and the book trade. It gives in the first place a reprint of the full entry of the Library of Congress cards from the type used for card purposes—a decided advance in copyright cataloguing. In the case of Group 1, Books proper, figures indicate the number of cards required for complete card catalogue entry, the serial number of the copyright entry, the date, and the card order number. The index gives, under the name of the author, a short title and the card order number, from which easy reference may be had to the full entry. It is proposed to cumulate this index, but to what extent has not been determined upon.

REPORT OF THE REGISTER OF COPYRIGHTS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR

THE report of the Register of Copyrights, Thorvald Solberg, for the fiscal year July 1, 1905, to June 30, 1906, makes the following showing:

COPYRIGHT FEES.

RECORD PRICE FOR OLD PRINT.

THE sales at Sotheby's last week included upward of 1000 engravings from the old masters, from the collection of the late Alfred Morrison. They realized $25,470. They were all rarities, though only duplicates, and aroused much competition, the prices showing a great increase since their last appearance at auction.

The Berlin Museum secured most of the rarities, but for a scarce print by Martin Schongauer they were beaten by Keppel, of New York, who paid $1650 for the print. This was the highest price at the sale. The previous record for this print was $135. Keppel also bought several examples of Lucas van Leyden.

Christie & Co., also last week, sold a self-drawn portrait of Whistler, in chalk, for $405. Rosenbach, of New York, bought a specimen of Stuart needlework for $515.

THE PRINTING PRESS IN 1905.

THERE has been a large growth in the American printing and publishing trade since the census of 1900, according to advance sheets of the census of manufactures for 1905. The figures are:

		Increase since 1900.
Establishments.....	26,427	4,115
Capital.....	$384,021,359	$91,504,287
Officials, clerks, etc.....	64,920	27,121
Yearly salaries.....	$62,727,582	$26,636,863
Wage earners.....	185,190	22,298
Yearly wages.....	$108,871,748	$24,631,794
General expenses.....	$102,469,279	$46,771,350
Materials used.....	$123,474,330	$36,618,040
Yearly receipts.....	$496,087,109	$49,032,059

The yearly receipts, $496,000,000, consisted of $146,000,000 from advertising, $111,000,000 from subscriptions and sales and $239,000,000 from book, job and miscellaneous work.

In the calendar year of 1904 the newspapers and periodicals used 1,819,657,086 pounds of paper, costing $47,239,764. The publications recorded in 1905 numbered 21,400, and consisted of the following:

		Increase over 1900.
News, political and family.....	16,516	1,649
Religious.....	1,287	335
Trade journals.....	627	107
Fraternal.....	450	255
Commercial and financial.....	364	174
Agricultural, dairy, etc.....	360	53
All others.....	1,796	606
Totals.....	21,400	3,174

The dailies, numbering 2455, had an aggregate circulation of 19,624,757 on week days only. The Sunday editions distributed 11,539,521 copies every week. The other circulations were: Semi-weeklies, 2,937,464; weeklies, 36,741,597; monthlies, 62,867,536; quarterlies, 9,709,627; and all other, 3,803,326. The total regular circulation of the 21,400 publications was 146,503,828, equal to nearly two publications for each man, woman and child in the country.

SHAKESPEARE FIRST FOLIOS.

SIDNEY LEE contributes to the April Library Notes and additions to the census of copies of the Shakespeare First Folios, which was published in 1902 by the Oxford Press as a supplement to its facsimile of the Chatsworth copy. In that census Mr. Lee recorded 158 copies, of which 108 had not been publicly described before; and he is now able to raise the number of known copies to 172. As a result of fuller information Mr. Lee transfers No. LIII from the second class to that containing 43 perfect exemplars; No. cxvii is entitled to a somewhat higher place, but not above the second division of the second class; No. xxxvii was overvalued. Several changes of ownership have occurred since the census was compiled. With regard to the newly discovered copies, Mr. Lee ranges them in order of value and interest as follows: Lady Wantage's copy; the Duke of Norfolk's copy; Bishop Gott's copy; the "George C. Thomas" copy (row in U. S. A.)—all in Class I; the "Turbutt" copy (the original Bodleian copy now restored to the library through public generosity); the "Bixby" copy (now in U. S. A.); the "Dawson-Brodie-Folger" copy; Mrs. A. B. Stewart's copy; the "Scott-Folger" copy—all in Class II; and the copy belonging to the Society of Antiquaries of Scotland; W. C. Knight-Clowes's copy; the "Thorpe-Folger" copy; Mr. Waller's copy, and H. R. Davis's copy—all in Class III.

"Somewhere about 1915 America and Great Britain," Mr. Lee prophesies, "will in all likelihood each own the same number of copies. Marsden J. Perry, of Providence, Rhode Island, and H. C. Folger, Jr., of New York, are now the keenest collectors of Shakespeareana in the world. Mr. Folger is to be congratulated on having acquired in the last few years as many as eight copies of the First Folios in all—a record number for any private collector. It was Mr. Perry who paid for a copy of the first four Folios no less than $10,000; at public sales, the four Folios in their rarest states have not fetched a larger aggregate sum than £3380. Since 1902 the Americans have bought ten copies, then in British hands; but it is consoling to British prejudices to know that thirty-two of the British copies are in public institutions whence untold gold or the almighty dollar is not likely to spirit them away.

The New York Sun for July 15 contains an interesting account of the Shakespeare collections in the possession of H. C. Folger, Jr., E. Dwight Church and William A. White, of Brooklyn, N. Y., Robert Hoe, J. Pierpont Morgan, of New York City, and Marsden J. Perry, of Providence, R. I. Of these the Shakespeare collection of Mr. Perry is rapidly becoming the most valuable in existence.

COMMUNICATIONS.

PROTEST AGAINST PREMATURE ADVERTISING OF BOOKS.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Is it possible that publishers do not realize the damage done to retailers by advertising their publications as "out to-day, for sale at all bookstores" in advance of their actual publication? In a recent issue of a prominent New York paper there were advertised no less than six books of the above class, for at least two of which we had demands. It is next to impossible to make the customer understand that the books are not yet published, and, as a rule, he departs with the firm conviction that we have made an error through lack of knowledge of our business in so stating, in which belief he is to a great extent justified.

From our standpoint, we fail to see the advantage, if any, to the publishers in making such announcements. The practice works a hardship on the dealer who prides himself on being up to date. Possibly the publisher hopes to create an inflated demand for the forthcoming book by this method, trusting that the dealer may become impressed with the importance of placing a heavy advance order for a book which bids fair to have a large sale. Again, the publisher may be governed by circumstances over which he may have no control. Whatever the cause or excuse for the practice, it is time for the retailer to demand a halt.

I was very much interested in the suggestions of Mr. W. B. Clarke, of Boston, which appeared in a recent issue of the WEEKLY. To my thinking this was the best exposition of the present status of the condition of the retail trade that I have ever read. I would have liked the gentleman to have given his opinion of the prevailing custom of many publishers, not all, who have entered the mail-order field. Since the retailer is the greatest outlet for all publications, and, according to Mr. Brisbane, of the American, is the "shepherd of the reading public," would it not be in line for publishers to add to their advertisements, "to be had at all booksellers," thus giving the book merchant a chance to participate in the profits accruing from the sale.

Since the annual meeting of the American Booksellers' Association, held in this city, I have received many flattering requests from members of the organization, asking me to make public any methods of original advertising which, in my opinion, would be conducive to good results in the matter of increasing the business of the merchant who depended solely on the sale of books. In conforming to these requests, I desire to state as a prologue that the value of an advertisement depends largely on local conditions; what would be of sterling merit in cities would be impotent in towns and villages. My firm belief is that the whole secret of effective advertising schemes is the use of methods which bring a maximum number of people to your store; once this is accomplished you have overcome the majority of difficulties. This result cannot be acquired by advertising that "John Smith is selling good books below cost," or "that John Smith's bookstore is the cheapest place in town to buy books." Such an advertisement promulgated in these days would tend to impress the public that the advertiser is a liar, a poor business man, or that he is trying to foist on it something of no value. In regard to the "selling below cost" ad., the public, almost to a man, is aware that the average cost of selling in almost any retail business is twenty per cent., consequently he would be a poor business man who could not see commercial disaster pending for an institution conducted along the lines mentioned above.

In conversation one day last week with an enterprising young manager of the book department of a large Sixth Avenue store, I elicited the information that his firm demanded, or rather desired, that his department show an annual profit of twenty-eight per cent. gross of the total sales — understand, not on cost price of the goods, but of the selling price. "This," said he, "is impossible, for the reason that sixty per cent. (estimated) of our sales is recent fiction, on which the average gross profit is about fifteen per cent., and, if we are unlucky in having a large amount of copyright remainders left on our hands, the net profit amounts to practically nothing, because of the shrinkage in value." Admitting his statement to be true, and from my own experience I am constrained to believe it is true, it would seem that the greatest leak in book merchandizing lies in this direction. To stop this leak the retailer must either increase the selling price of this class of literature, or obtain a better discount from the publisher. As to the latter, I do not believe the concession can be had to any great extent, considering the expense of royalties to the author, cost of paper, printing, binding, and elaborate advertising, to which must be added the expense of bringing out "first editions" of "dead ones."

Some questions may be raised as to whether or not a general increase of the selling price may not have the effect of curtailing the total amount of copies sold. I think not, as I have found, generally, that people who follow up and buy recent fiction are of that class who have sufficient means to gratify their desires, and a matter of a few cents' increase would not deter them from purchasing what they thing they want.

One of the most salient arguments in favor of the fixed minimum price system is that it establishes a known market value, by means of which the dealer is able to successfully refute any statement made by the prospective customer to the effect that a lower quotation is made by the dealer's competitor. This system also prevents the dealer from falling into the bad practice, common to many, of putting a low price on good sellers. When copyright books become passé, we are forced to sell them at any price they will bring; why then do we desire to put low prices on good sellers?

To those who wrote me regarding novel advertising I desire to say that the amount of time at my disposal will not permit me to write to them severally, but at some time in the near future, through the medium of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, I will exert my best efforts in this direction.

In recapitulation (1) I am in favor of the publishing and selling of all books at a net price, giving a discount to the trade that will give the dealer a living profit; (2) refusing to give an order for any book prematurely advertised as published in advance of the actual publication.

It seems to me these questions might be settled if informally debated upon at an early meeting of the New York Booksellers' Association, to which all the booktrade in New York and vicinity might be invited. Let us "get together" and come to a final conclusion before the issue of fall and winter books, and not wait to get into the predicament of the Arkansas Traveller, who, when asked why he did not put a new roof on his house, replied, "Well, stranger, in wet weather we kaint and in dry weather we don't want none."

Yours sincerely,

R. E. SHERWOOD.

NEW YORK CITY, July 16, 1906.

THE BOOKSELLERS' "WAY OUT."

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Is there a way out from the present unprofitable, demoralized and seemingly hopeless situation?

There is, and it is plain and easy. It seems fairly amazing the way has not been seen and availed of long ago.

The publishers could cure the trouble in thirty days, if they would. They have already taken the first step, in the "A. P. A.," but, strangely, they don't seem to see the second step.

Or the booksellers can do it without waiting for the publishers—not so easily—but they can do it—easily enough.

How? Pshaw! Aesop showed how—away back—in that little fable about the bundle of sticks.

The writer's little personal experience, twenty-six years ago, gave a demonstration of the way as plain, simple and sure as 2+2=4.

Frank Lovel, in his last scheme, after twenty-five years' plain view of that Alden "demonstration," has "got onto" a hint of the successful way.

THE WAY OUT, on the publisher's initiative, in the interest of publisher, dealer and bookbuyer, is:

Appoint one Bookseller exclusive local agent in each place (except large cities, possibly more than one), deal with him direct, give him bottom price, don't load him up, but make him carry respectable stock, and give him a free hand so long as he treats the public fair and sells at retail, only, one price for quantity, at home and abroad.

That plan "worked" in 1880-81. It gave Alden his "pick"—the "best" Bookseller in each town, as Agent. The Bookseller liked it—the bookbuyer liked it—there was no "cutting prices" and no "kicking" because prices were high.

That plan adopted by the "A. P. A." to-day would make business lively and settled in short order. Equity would require that the "A. P. A." should see that the appointed local agent should buy out or make a "square deal" with other local dealers.

THE WAY OUT on the Booksellers' initiative, is for Booksellers to "get together," one dealer in each place joining with one in each of several thousand other places and buy together for cash, (no investment and no one responsible for any other.) United, thus, they could, easily, secure, directly or indirectly, for each member of the "Associated Booksellers" bottom jobbers' price on everything and would gradually be able to secure "exclusive" local agencies from leading publishers.

The demoralizing "mail order" book business and "book butchering" generally would be quickly diminished, and in time wiped out, even on the "non-copyrights."

The above is not all. The millions of dollars a year now going past the booksellers from bookbuyers to publishers through "agents" and the humbug, often fraudulent "instalment plans," can be got by legitimate dealers, as well as not. The writer's knowledge of the immense cyclopedia trade, for instance, is such that it seems to him almost "silly" that dealers don't have it all—they can have it, inside of the next five years, if they choose to take it—and without any real investment or risk of money.

Of course there are "details" to be worked out. But they are already thoroughly thought out, and are very simple.

The publishers do not now seem likely to take the initiative in this "way out." Will the booksellers? Will those who are interested, even a few, get together and consult? The "ball" will not be difficult to "roll" and will grow like the snowball at every turn.

Very respectfully,

JOHN B. ALDEN.

BIBLE HOUSE, New York City, July, 1906.

HOPEFUL FOR SAN FRANCISCO.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: Here, at the present time, business of all sorts is being conducted in temporary quarters of all kinds—in basements, in sheds, barns and tents; and, where the individual has been so fortunate as to have retained it, the private residence has been utilized, independently, and indifferent as to location.

Four years ago I closed the store that I had for several years occupied, and removed most of my stock to my residence, to the general discomfort of the other members of the Cowan family, and where in the meantime business has been conducted mainly by correspondence.

There are few in this city that have not lost more or less heavily in the recent disaster, and while my house with its contents fortunately escaped the fire, about two-thirds of my stock was stored within the burned district, and so shared in the general fate. Most of this was strictly local material and its loss is to be regretted.

It has been stated that the American people are born gamblers, and nowhere has that instinct been so strong as in California. Nowhere is it stronger to-day. There is no mourners' bench in San Francisco, and if there were the dust would cover it more thickly than any occupants could. Everywhere cheerfulness (among the people—the burned district is not so encouraging) prevails, and most of the population rejoice in possessing a whole skin. The thousands who yesterday were well-to-do are to-day "busted wide open," but with the old California spirit they return to the game confident of winning.

The book business itself is somewhat superfluous at the present time, but when the period of fever will have subsided, and conditions are nearly normal, we may look for a state of affairs in trade and otherwise quite as good as before.

ROBERT E. COWAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, July, 1906.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

ENGLISH MUSICAL COPYRIGHT BILL TO PASS.

THE British government has consented to support T. P. O'Connor's Musical Copyright bill, which insures its passage. It passed the committee stage in the House of Commons, on July 17, amid enthusiastic cheering. It is believed that the enactment of the measure will end the piracy of music and insure protection of foreign composers. American composers and publishers are concerned in the measure because of recent years much American music has been stolen and republished here.

POSTAL MATTERS.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE SECOND-CLASS MAIL MATTER.

ACCORDING to an announcement by Henry H. Glassie, secretary of the commission to inquire into and report to Congress its conclusions concerning the laws relative to second-class mail matter, the first session of the commission will be held at the Holland House, New York City, at noon October 1 next. In the announcement Mr. Glassie says in part:

"The report of the Postmaster-General for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1905, shows that the cost of maintaining the entire postal service for that year was approximately $167,000,000, and that the revenue from all sources was approximately $153,000,000. Of all the mail matter handled during that year by this costly service second-class matter constituted approximately two-thirds, while it yielded, on the other hand, but $6,186,647.54, or about one-twenty-fourth of the revenue derived from postage. Not only has the postal revenue suffered by reason of the undue expansion of this class of matter as compared with other classes, but in dealing with the matter itself the postal service is hampered at every step by difficulties and perplexities of administration.

"The rates governing second-class matter are both numerous and involved, and the application of them seems to require a constant inquiry into matters for which an administrative office is not properly equipped. The system as a whole has been repeatedly condemned by Postmasters-General as lacking in simplicity and uniformity and as being confusing to the publishing world as well as to the officials of the service.

"Having these facts in mind, the commission deems it advisable to direct its inquiries especially along the following lines:

"1. Whether the revenue from the second class of mail matter should not be made commensurate with the actual cost of the service rendered in handling it, and whether its classification should not accordingly be grounded upon practical rather than ideal distinctions?

"2. In case second-class matter is not put upon a cost-paying basis, what limitations should be placed upon the matter which may properly be embraced in that class?

"3. By what amendments of existing law may the changes which appear to be advisable be most effectually brought about?

"Owing to the great number of publications concerned, it is obviously impracticable for the commission indiscriminately to extend the privilege of the hearing to individual publishers. Each national organization will be heard orally by not to exceed three representatives designated by the organization, and those classes of publications not having regular organizations will be heard through persons who may be regarded as fairly representative."

OBITUARY NOTES.

BENJAMIN T. REDMAN, one of the earliest publishers of city directories in this country, died on July 18 at the Widows' and Old Men's Home in Cincinnati, aged ninety-three years. "The Old Colonial Directory," a combined directory of Philadelphia and New York, reputed to be one of the first of its kind in America, was issued by Redman.

CHARLES J. ZINGG, president of the Printers' Ink Publishing Company, and editor of Printers' Ink, died in New York City on July 14. Mr. Zingg was born in Switzerland. He was educated in the University of Zurich, and came to this country about ten years ago. Before coming here he travelled extensively in Africa under the auspices of a geographical society of which King Leopold of Belgium was the head. Printers' Ink was established by George P. Rowell. He was still conducting it when Mr. Zingg came to this country, who subsequently acquired the controlling interest.

JOSEPH ASHER SMITH, vice-president and treasurer of E. P. Dutton & Co., died suddenly on Tuesday, July 17, at Bad-Nauheim, in Germany. He had been suffering since April from nervous breakdown and had gone abroad with his wife to recover his health. He was born in New York, January 23, 1858. His father was the founder of Smith & McNell's restaurant. In 1884 he married Emma Clapp, daughter of Charles A. Clapp, of E. P. Dutton & Co., and when Mr. Clapp died, in 1900, his son-in-law was made treasurer. He had been connected with the firm since 1893. Before then he was a broker. Mrs. Smith will sail from Europe on July 24 on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse with the body.

THOMAS LONGWORTH DAVIS, for upwards of twenty-seven years in the book and stationery business at 481 Sixth Avenue, New York City, died in his native city, Waterbury, Conn., July 16. In 1895 he returned to Waterbury, bought some property and married a young woman who had a candy store in his building. They were not happy, and the old man was legally separated from his young wife, who remarried. He then wrote several poems, two of which were "The Old Horse, Little Mare and Colt" and "My Praying Little Devil." His "Advice to Men About to Marry" and "The Ingrate Rose—a Poet's Farewell to His Faithless Flower," were considered by many as having strong and pointed references to his matrimonial woes. Three years ago Mr. Davis gained some notoriety when an old friend, William King, took him to several New York banks and insisted on transferring some $20,000 to Mr. Davis, his affection being the only consideration.

ALBERT SOREL, the famous French historian, professor at the École Libre des Sciences Politiques, died in Paris, June 30. Professor Sorel was born at Honfleur on August 13, 1842, and obtained a post in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, of which during the Franco-German war he was chief secretary to the Government of National Defense. He not only took a prominent part in the making of the history of that eventful period, but was also destined to become its historian, for in 1875 he published his comprehensive "Histoire diplomatique de la Guerre franco-allemande." During the succeeding years he wrote a number of other books, notably, in collaboration with Funck-Brentano, a "Précis du Droit des Gens" (1876). His other books included "Essais d'Histoire et de Critique" (1883); and a monograph on Montequieu (1887), which is the only one of his writings yet translated into English. It was not, however, until 1885 that his full powers as an historian revealed themselves, when he published the first volume of his great work "L'Europe et la Révolution française." This work, which occupied its author for just twenty years, is regarded by all competent authorities as a monument of minute research and energy.

JOHN WILLIAM DE FOREST, the well-known author, died July 18, in New Haven, Conn. Mr. De Forest was born in Humphreyville, (now Seymour,) Conn., March 31, 1826. He attended no college, but pursued independent studies, mainly abroad, where he studied Latin, and became a fluent speaker of French, Italian and Spanish. In 1861, as captain, he recruited a company for the Twelfth Connecticut Volunteers, and served constantly in the field till January, 1865. Since 1868 he has resided in New Haven, except when travelling in Europe. Besides a few poems and about fifty short stories, many military sketches, and book reviews, most of which were anonymous, he, in 1873, contributed to the Atlantic Monthly a short serial story, entitled "The Lauson Tragedy." He has published "The History of the Indians of Connecticut, from the Earliest Period to 1850;" "Oriental Acquaintances," a sketch of travels in Asia Minor; "Witching Times," "European Acquaintance," "Seacliff," a novel; "Miss Ravenel's Conversion," "Overland," "Kate Beaumont," "The Wetherell Affair," "Honest John Vane," "Justine Vane," "Playing the Mischief," "Irene Vane," "Irene, the Missionary," "The Oddest of Courtships, or, the Bloody Chasm," "A Lover's Revolt," "The De Forests of Avesnes, and New Netherland," "The Downing Legends," etc.

CAPTAIN BENJAMIN MASSENBURG PARHAM, one of the "Old Guard" of the Virginia book-trade, died on July 10 in the Virginia Hospital, Richmond. Captain Parham was born in Sussex County, July 17, 1826, and was raised in Petersburg, where he entered the employ of E. P. Nash & Co., then one of the leading bookselling firms in the South. About 1846 Mr. Nash, who was a partner in the firm of Nash & Woodhouse, in Richmond, sent his promising young clerk to that city. After the death of Mr. Nash, in 1855, his partner continued the business under the firm name of Jas. Woodhouse & Co., which remained in existence until 1865. When the war between the States broke out Parham entered the cavalry service of the Southern army and served as captain throughout the whole war. After the war Captain Parham rejoined his old firm, which then became Woodhouse & Parham. In 1882 T. S. Beckwith, Jr., now the senior member of the firm of T. S. Beckwith & Co., of Petersburg, Va., succeeded Mr. Woodhouse, the firm becoming Beckwith & Parham. In 1887 Mr. Beckwith retired and the firm then became Parham & Co. Captain Parham wound up the business some years ago, and was at the time of his death sergeant-major in Lee Camp of Confederate Veterans, in which he took much interest and to which he was greatly devoted up to the time of his death. Captain Parham was never married, and with him passes away the last of his generation. He was a noble-hearted gentleman, beloved by a host of friends. His death leaves but one of his generation in the book business in Richmond, not in years, but so far as active continuous service is concerned, namely, J. J. English, of the Bell Book and Stationery Company.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

EDEN PHILLPOTTS is at work on a new novel to be entitled "The Preacher's Wife."

S. E. CROCKETT will have ready for fall publication a story of Spain and of France in the days of Philip II., to be entitled "The White Plumes of Navarre."

JOHN OLIVER HOBBS's new novel, "The Dream and the Business," is a study of character and its development. It also depicts a conflict between two religious ideals, those of Roman Catholicism and of English Non-conformity.

JAMES W. HARKINS, JR., the well-known dramatist, and Charles Clark Munn, the popular author, are writing a romantic drama of New England life and character for George W. Wilson, which will have an elaborate production the coming season with a cast of exceptional excellence.

SIR GILBERT PARKER's new novel, "The Weavers," will begin its serial publication in Harpers Magazine for October. The principal scenes of the story are laid in England and Egypt, and it is said that all the glamour and mystery of the latter country are richly portrayed in its breathless chapters. The hero is a young English Quaker, who, by some strange irony of fate, is forced to become an overlord in Egypt, and the important actor in a romance of thrilling interest.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

WITH its issue for July 19 The Independent takes over The Search-Light and will fill all subscriptions for the unexpired term of The Search-Light.

THE UNIVERSITY PRESS, of Sewanee, Tenn., has begun the publication of The Pathfinder Magazine, which is intended to take the place of the late Chap Book of Chicago. Its contents will be brief and will include short essays, a connected run of pithy paragraphs, original poems, selections, or translations from great prose and verse writers, etc.

THE July Arena, which opens Volume XXXVI of this able review, is a number of special general interest, containing a wide range of interesting subjects discussed in an authoritative yet popular manner. Among articles of interest to the trade is that by Professor Archibald Henderson, Ph.D., on "Aspects of Contemporary Fiction," which should be widely read by lovers of good literature, as it is able, discriminating and informing. In the department of "In the Mirror of the Present" Mr. Flower devotes about thirty pages to the discussion of present-day political, social and economic problems from the standpoint of progressive and fundamental democracy.

It is The International Studio for July, and not The Studio, as noted by us in a recent issue, that in its American section gives an article on the Rembrandt Tercentenary and the reproduction of Rembrandt's famous painting, "The Night Watch." The International Studio has the American territory for the magazine, and in itself consists of all the plates, text, etc., of The Studio, with the addition of the American Section. The American Section is not found under any circumstances in The Studio, and the John Lane Company are emphasizing such features as the Rembrandt reproduction with the special purpose of calling attention to this advantage of The International Studio over the other.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AUBURN, N. Y.—Frederick G. Allen has purchased the book and stationery store of W. R. Keyes at 70 Genessee Street and 1 South Street.

BLUFF CITY, KAN.—A. J. Athay, bookseller, has sold out to the National Drug and Mercantile Co.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—A meeting of the creditors of the Henry B. Brown Company will be held on the 23d inst., at the Bankruptcy Court Room in the Morgan Building. There will come up for consideration a proposed sale of the stock of books and stationery belonging to the Henry B. Brown Company, including fixtures and all other property, excepting book accounts. The property designated will be sold to the highest bidder on the following terms: 20 per cent. down and the balance within five days thereafter, subject to confirmation of W. H. Hotchkiss, the referee.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—The P. L. Barnes Co., P. L. Barnes and W. T. Holder, proprietors, have opened up a book, stationery and printing business here.

COLUMBUS, GA.—The Antiquarian Book Concern of Americus has removed to this city.

CORPUS CHRISTI, TEX.—R. O. Cook, bookseller, has sold out.

DAYTON, O.—Albert Dittmar, bookseller, has been incorporated as The Albert Dittmar Company.

OMAHA, NEB.—W. J. Stacey, for eleven years a newsdealer at 1711 Leavenworth Street, has sold out to W. W. McLain. Mr. Stacey has opened a back number magazine business at 316 South Thirteenth Street.

SUSQUEHANNA, N. Y.—M. H. Watrous has opened a news and stationery store here.

WATERBURY, CONN.—The Book Novelty Company is to erect a new building in connection with its present plant.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE original manuscript of Scott's song, "The Bonnets of Bonnie Dundee," in a handsome case by Rivi re, is for sale in Liverpool at $875.

HURST & Co. have added to their popular Log Cabin to White House series "From Ranch to White House," by Edward S. Ellis, of which President Roosevelt is the hero.

THE W. A. WILDE COMPANY have just brought out "Select Notes," for 1907, for the use of teachers of the International Sunday-school lessons. Besides the regular edition, a convenient interleaved edition and an edition bound in French morocco are provided.

WILLIAM HEINEMANN, London, has in preparation for the fall a translation of Herriot's "Madame R camier and Her Friends." At the last meeting of the French Academy it was decided to award 1000 francs of the Bordin Prize to Mr. Herriot for this book.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have in preparation for the fall "The Subjection of Isabel Carnaby," by Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler, a sequel to the author's former story, "Isabel Carnaby;" also, a new collection of essays by Maurice Maeterlinck, author of "The Life of a Bee," the title of which will be announced later.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just ready the fifth edition of the "Colonel of the Red Hussars," four editions of the book having been exhausted in as many weeks. They have also just brought out the third edition of E. F. Benson's latest novel, "The Angel of Pain," the demand for which has been increasing steadily.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish early in the fall Molly Elliot Seawell's new story, "The Victory," which gives an intimate picture of life on a great Virginia plantation during the days of the war between the States, and which is said to be unusual in its denouement of the baleful effect of the war upon social life. They have also in preparation "Truthful Jane," by Florence Morse Kingsley.

MISS LIDA A. CHURCHILL is bringing out her books, previously published by the Abbey Press and the Alliance Press, under the imprint of The New Tide Publishing House, New York City. Her published works include "A Grain of Madness," a novel which has received favorable comment both here and abroad, and "The Magnet" and "The Magic Seven," little philosophical books, which have run into several editions, having gained a circulation chiefly on their own merits.

FREDERICK H. HITCHCOCK, president of the Grafton Press, was recently awarded the degree of A.M. by Amherst College for his work on copyright law. Mr. Hitchcock, who is a member of the New York Bar, has written the article on "Copyrighting" in the forthcoming volume on "The Building of a Book," to be published by his firm, which is to deal with every phase of bookmaking—the author, the literary agent and adviser, composing room, proofroom, paper, printing, illustrating, reviewing, selling, etc.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish at once "A Child's Recollections of Tennyson," by Edith Nichol! Ellison; "Court Life in the Dutch Republic, 1638-1689," by the Baroness Szizette Van Zalen Van Nyvelt; "Sigismonde Malatesta," by Edward Hutton; a new English version, by Ethel Wedgwood, of "The Memoirs of the Lord of Joinville," "Truth and Falsehood in Religion," by William Ralph Inge; also, "The Shores of the Adriatic—the Italian side, architectural and archaeological," by F. Hamilton Jackson.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just ready a translation from the fifth French edition, by L. B. Gallatin, of "The Influence of the Mind on the Body," by Dr. Paul Dubois, author of "The Psychic Treatment of Nervous Disorders," who has a well-earned reputation as a specialist in the treatment of nervous disorders through psychic suggestion. They will publish shortly a work on "The Mechanism of Speech," by Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, in which the famous scientist and inventor of the telephone and gramophone will give a complete explanation of the most modern methods of teaching speech to the deaf.

CHATTO & WINDUS, London, will publish immediately a new edition of Swinburne's famous study, "William Blake: a Critical Essay." The text will remain unaltered, but there will be a new preface, in which Mr. Swinburne will discuss what he considers to be the fantastic theories concerning the meaning and value of the prophetic books which have lately been advanced. Alluding to the fact that some of these critics have claimed for Blake a Celtic origin, Mr. Swinburne emphasizes an opinion which he has before expressed, that the existence of a Celtic literature is the misleading theory of an eminent writer who knew nothing about the subject—Matthew Arnold. Mr. Swinburne contends that as a matter of fact there is no Celtic literature at all of the smallest value.

JOHN LANE COMPANY have just brought out Oscar Wilde's tragedy in one act, "Salome," in the translation into English by Lord Alfred Douglas. The play was written in French in 1892, and was in full rehearsal by Madame Bernhardt at the Palace Theatre when it was prohibited by the censor. For the past five years it has been performed from time to time in Holland, Sweden, Italy, France and Russia. It has been translated into every European language, including the Czech. It forms part of the repertory of the German stage. Dr. Strauss has written an opera, using as libretto the translation of the play by Madam Hedwig Lachmann. This opera was produced in Dresden last December. The play was first produced in Paris at the Théâtre Libre by Luigne Poe with Lina Muntz in the title rôle.

McLOUGHLIN BROTHERS will add to their Young Folks' Colonial Library "The Story of John Paul Jones," "The Story of Ethan Allen, the Green Mountain Boy," "The Story of Anthony Wayne, ('Mad Anthony,')" and "The Story of General Francis Marion, the Rayard of the South." These stories are written in a style that will appeal especially to young people, and each book will contain suitable illustrations in tint and frontispieces lithographed in colors. They are also preparing a half dozen classics for their Story Tellers' Book-Shelf, to include George MacDonald's "The Fairy Fleet," "Rab and His Friends," "A Dog of Flanders," Grimm's "Household Tales," and Mrs. Ewing's "Jack-anapes" and "Daddy Darwin's Dovecote." These books will be printed from new plates and will be illustrated with original drawings by well-known artists.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD COMPANY this fall will publish the initial volume of a new series by Margaret Sidney, whose famous Little Peppers have won and are still finding their way into the hearts of thousands of young people and their elders. The new series will be named Two Little Friends Series, and the first volume will be entitled "Two Little Friends in Norway." The heroine is a bright little American girl who, while travelling in Norway with her parents, becomes acquainted with a little Norwegian girl of the same age. As their families agree to travel together the two become intimate, and their friendship divides the interest of the book with the descriptive parts. The book is to be illustrated by Herman Heyer. They will also publish this fall a holiday edition of Mrs. Lothrop's "Five Little Peppers and How They Grew," with eight illustrations in color by Herman Heyer and a handsomely decorated cover.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will shortly publish a book entitled "Playright and Copyright in All Countries," by W. Morris Colles and Harold Hardy, barristers-at-law. The primary object of the work is to enable authors to see at a glance what steps must be taken, before or after publication, to secure international protection of their copyright and dramatic rights in books and plays throughout the world. The formalities as to registration and delivery of copies, in all countries where copyright is recognized, are set out in detail; and the requirements of the British colonial laws, including the Australian Commonwealth Copyright Act, 1905, are specifically dealt with. The new volume in their Highways and Byways series, shortly to be published, will be on "Dorset," by Sir Frederick Treves, with many illustrations by Joseph Pennell. "The county of Dorset is small," says the author, "but is yet so varied in its configuration as to present an epitome of the scenery of Southern England. It is a land of moods and changes that knows no monotony, and is indeed so full of hills and dales that there is scarcely a level road within its confines, save by the banks of the streams."

THE BELMONT PUBLISHING COMPANY, 29 Paternoster Row, London, has put on the market "The Belmont (late Symons' Patent) Magazine and Pamphlet Binder." The binder is made in any size desired of strong boards, with a stiff, rounded back, and a simple metal device for filing periodicals, pamphlets, music, minutes, proceedings, sermons, essays—in fact anything or everything which it is desirable to file in book form. The papers are filed by perforating them in three places on the sides with a punch provided for the purpose and are held by steel bands, which pass through the paper and two tin guides, the length of the binder. While the binder is filling the papers are held in perfect and firm position by a flexible steel spring, so that whether the binder contains only one paper or magazine, or whether it is only partly filled, the contents are always held firmly in their place. The binder is simple and excellently serves the purposes for which it is intended. The great advantage is that its contents may easily be removed from either side, the steel bands being detachable both at the front and the back. The prices range from 2s. 8d., for a binder 10¾ x 7¼ inches, upwards.

PICK-UPS.

MRS. WARD'S AMERICAN GEOGRAPHY.—A correspondent of the New York Times has discovered the following error in "Fenwick's Career:"

"In the first place, the following is found on page 317:

"... photograph ... of a white-walled farm ... and gleaming beneath it the wide waters of Lake Superior. ... Twelve years of her [Phoebe's] life had been wasted there.

"On page 339, 'I've been in Canada—on a farm—near Montreal,' Phoebe is represented as saying, and on page 341, 'an apple farm running down to Lake Superior.'"

Mrs. Ward probably has the same idea of the "fine distances" in America entertained by one of her countrymen, the manager of an English company of barnstormers, who seriously proposed to give one performance in New York, one the next night in Boston, one the next night in Chicago and one on the following night in San Francisco.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The ORIENTAL RUBÁIYÁT

Every day adds to the popularity of Miss Hanscom's beautifully illustrated edition of the Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám.

One of the leading photographic magazines in England recently gave four pages to a review of this wonderful edition. A buyer of a large department store said it was the most "talked about" book he had last holiday season.

The sale has not yet been large due to the fact that it has sold well in certain towns only, but as people learn about it the sale grows. We are going to spend considerable money to make it known. We know the book is good---that has been proved---now we will spend money to send people to you for the book.

The Lady Evelyn MAX PEMBERTON'S Greatest Work

Charming Romance, Lightning Action and Baffling Mystery
Here is a Problem for Every Girl to Solve for Herself

If your father were in the power of an unscrupulous but brilliant man, and that man were in love with you, in spite of yourself, feared you might perhaps be more than half in love with him; and, if the man made your acceptance of his hand in marriage the price of your father's safety—would you marry him or would you not?

If, however, something within you alternately bade you yield to your infatuation for him, while something equally strong warned you to beware of him as untrustworthy, to which inner voice would you listen?

- New York World:
"This is a novel that will make the critics sit up and take notice."
- Baltimore American:
"Absolutely nothing so good for vacation reading. The masterpiece of this famous English novelist."

Added to this, suppose another man—a clean, manly, plucky young fellow who honestly loved—appeared on the scene just then, to complicate matters, could you force yourself to care for him?

Those are the various phases of a problem that might well puzzle any girl. Imagine then how they affected the original girl to whom they presented themselves, not as theories but as very real facts!

That girl was the heroine of Max Pemberton's newest and most absorbingly interesting novel. The foregoing heart-problem is entrancingly dealt with in "The Lady Evelyn."

- St. Louis Post-Dispatch:
"There is not a commonplace or unexciting line in the whole book."
- Toronto Mail:
"There is not a dull line in the whole work. A delightful love-interest, blended with lightning action and mystery."

Historical and Biographical Readers.....	62 Volumes
Geographical Readers.....	17 Volumes
Nature Readers.....	28 Volumes
Patriotic and Ethical Readers.....	5 Volumes

The 174 volumes of Supplementary Reading published by the American Book Company form by far the largest and most complete list of its kind ever issued. They embrace the subjects generally recognized by educators to be those best adapted for children's reading. The needs of each grade in the elementary schools are amply provided for. Not only are the books instructive, supplementing the work in the regular branches, but they appeal to the child and provide reading which is unusually entertaining. Mechanically they are attractive and with very few exceptions beautifully illustrated. No other books of their kind have ever met with so great popularity and success.

LONGMANS' TEXT-BOOKS

NEW

ALEXANDER'S SPELLING BOOK. By GEORGIA ALEXANDER, Supervising Principal in the Indianapolis Public Schools. Complete, 25 cents. Part I., 14 cents. Part II., 18 cents.

Adopted on May 14th, 1906, for ten years by the State of Indiana

This book sets a new standard in the teaching of spelling. The words are very carefully graded both as to difficulty in spelling and difficulty in comprehension. In all the work the pupil is taught the meaning as well as the spelling. A special effort has been made to make the study of spelling interesting as well as instructive.

LONGMANS' ENGLISH LESSONS. By GEORGE JAMES SMITH, Ph.D., Member of the Board of Examiners, Department of Education, New York City. 40 cents

A preparatory book of English Lessons covering the entire work in English from the 4th to the 7th grades. The author has combined, from the beginning, the work of Composition with a progressive study of the Sentence. This book and Longmans' English Grammar, which is edited by Dr. Smith, offer a complete and practical solution of the problem of English instruction in the elementary school. A prospectus of the Course will be gladly sent upon application.

WOODBURN AND MORAN'S AMERICAN HISTORY AND GOVERNMENT. By JAMES ALBERT WOODBURN, Ph.D., Professor of American History and Politics in Indiana University, and THOMAS FRANCIS MORAN, Ph.D., Professor of History and Economics in Purdue University. 590 pages. $1.00

The combination of United States History and Civil Government in one volume is the distinguishing feature of this work. The two subjects are developed together, throwing light upon each other, and by their combination the presentation of each is strengthened as each is vitalized by reason of its contact with the other. Thus in this book, Civil Government is placed where it should logically belong. It appears in its natural setting.

BOURNE'S HISTORY OF MEDIEVAL AND MODERN EUROPE.

By HENRY E. BOURNE, Professor in the College for Women, Western Reserve University. Author of "The Teaching of History and Civics." With Maps and Illustrations. 502 pages. $1.50

This book differs from most school histories. It deals with the subject by a method which, it is believed, will make the study easier for the pupil because the text is so arranged that the necessary correlation of events can hardly be escaped. The author's method requires the pupil constantly to group events, thus forcing him to try to discover their relations and gain more of their meaning. The teacher, therefore, should obtain greater results.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation "The Little King of Angel's Landing," by Elmore Elliott Peake, author of "The House of Hawley."

HENRY HOLT & Co. will bring out at once "Audrey Craven," another one of the earlier works by Miss May Sinclair, author of "The Divine Fire." The forthcoming story is ranked by some of the most discriminating admirers of Miss Sinclair even higher than "Superseded," which has been so favorably received.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS will publish immediately "The Canadian War of 1812," by C. P. Lucas. The book has been compiled as far as possible from the despatches on both sides relating to the war. Six out of the eight maps which accompany the letterpress are contemporary American maps reproduced from a little volume in the Colonial Office Library.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will bring out next month "The Airship Dragonfly," by William John Hopkins, with illustrations by Ruth M. Hallock. This is a story for boys and girls, and deals with the adventures of three children and an airship, which breaks loose a couple of times. Among the characters in the book are some "gentlemanly" smugglers, wonderful horses, a dog, a whale and an Irish hostler.

McLOUGHLIN BROTHERS will publish shortly an attractive inexpensive edition of Stevenson's "A Child's Garden of Verses," with illustrations in colors by Frederick J. Edgars and a cloth cover stamped in colors; Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare," with illustrations in half-tone and lithographed frontispieces; also, "The Girls of Dickens" and "The Boys of Dickens," two volumes containing the stories of the boys and girls of Dickens, retold for the young people, fully illustrated with half-tones and lithographed frontispieces.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish presently a volume on "Historical Greek Coins," by G. F. Hill, of the British Museum. There will be thirteen plates in the volume, besides illustrations in the text. The pieces discussed have been selected because they add their quantum to our knowledge of the period to which they belong. Sometimes, as in the case of the coins struck after the Battle of Cnidus, the amount added is considerable. They will publish, in all probability on October 13, the anniversary of Irving's death, Bram Stoker's "Reminiscences of Sir Henry Irving." The two volumes will be fully illustrated with portraits and views connected with the great actor's life. This seems likely to prove one of the most memorable and widely read biographies of the year. They also announce for the fall Pierre Loti's new novel, "Disenchanted," which deals with harem life in Constantinople. The work has roused a great deal of discussion during its run, which is not yet concluded, in the pages of the Revue des Deux Mondes. They have undertaken the issue of a new series of Latin classics, prepared, with special consideration for the needs of the younger students in our colleges, under the editorial supervision of James C. Egbert, Professor of Latin in Columbia University. They will contain a brief introduction, the standard text, and a commentary helpful to the student in the interpretation of the text, and set forth in the simplest and briefest form.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY American Educational List, 1906

This List plans to include all textbooks used in American schools and academic institutions (not in universities, professional or technical schools) and books prepared especially for supplementary reading in primary and grammar schools; also classical and foreign texts, as noted for schools, officially recommended for school use, and such English texts as are required for college entrance examinations, 1906-11. Entries are under authors or editors; classical texts are entered under editor's name, foreign and English texts under author's name, with editor's name in parenthesis. For subject classification, and for collective reference to classical authors entered under editors, see the second part of this List, following the main alphabet. The List does not include other English texts (except comprehensive school editions of Shakespeare); works of reference for schools (except dictionaries); nor teachers' aids (except teachers' manuals forming part of a textbook series). It is also intended to exclude imported textbooks, except such as are printed with American imprint or sold here in class quantities.

The List omits works out of print or superseded by newer editions, or works obsolete in the sense of being no longer sold in quantities for class introduction, but only in individual copies to schools having the book already in use. For such works see the American Educational List of previous years.

The price given is the "net" or introduction price made by the publisher (with close trade discount only), for which a copy is sent to a teacher postpaid. Where an additional mailing charge is made for postage on single copies, an asterisk () precedes the price. Books priced at retail, with regular trade discount, are designated by a dagger (†) in the price column. When there is a blank in price column the publisher failed to give information. A double asterisk () designates books forthcoming and yet unpriced. New books issued since the List of 1905 are designated by a single asterisk () before title.

Be particular in ordering to specify edition, and to give the full name of the book as entered in this List.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYFOLDT.

JULY 28, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SUPPLEMENTARY READING.

"THERE is no royal road to learning," said the old proverb. But there has been a good deal of impossible road-building in modern times, and the writers and publishers of modern school-books have triumphed in intellectual road-building as Napoleon triumphed in overcoming the Alps with his Simplon road.

Of all modern devices for making the path of education pleasant and alluring, the scheme of supplementary reading is the most notable. In the last few years the most enterprising publishers have given their attention largely to the work of preparing standard literature and general knowledge in such shape as not only to round out the ordinary school course with instructive reading, but in some measure to supplant as well as supplement the ordinary textbook by this new kind of school-book. By selection or condensation the treasures of English literature, and, in fact, of other literatures, have thus been brought within the scope of the juvenile mind, and in many cases this is supplemented by illustration both artistic and lavish. This class of educational literature has been peculiarly a development of American enterprise.

With the present issue of the "American Educational List" we have extended its scope in accordance with the frequently expressed desire of publishers, booksellers and teachers, to cover this increasing division of educational literature. It cannot be overlooked, and we have been forced to the conclusion that the Educational List is incomplete without it. The material is somewhat difficult of classification, but we have endeavored in the Classified Index at the end of the list to make suitable reference from the several topics to this class of books. Supplementary reading includes to a considerable extent stories which have a moral aim and can be classified only under morals or ethics or like headings. Such stories, in fact, take the place of early elementary treatises on moral philosophy, which were often rather ludicrous in their presentation of truisms. We recall one textbook of this sort, arranged with great show of logical divisions, which was popularly known by schoolboys as "Keep your face clean under three heads."

There is one use of these educational publications which we may point out to the book-trade and to libraries. These books of supplementary reading are useful and should be saleable not only in connection with schools where they are used directly as class books, but wherever there is an intelligent endeavor to reach children of school age with the best class of reading. The bookseller may therefore wisely keep in stock a selection of such supplementary reading wherever there are wise parents and eager children; and the library, which is giving now so much attention to the intelligent cultivation of children's reading, should make liberal selection for its shelves from this same class of books. The local bookseller should take advantage of this opportunity and be prepared to present to the libraries and to individual buyers the advantages of these books, and he can scarcely do this unless he keeps a fair variety constantly on his shelves and on his counters.

It is worth while for those interested in education to get the uplift which comes from the inspiration of great educators, and no recent book is more fruitful in this direction than the biography of Sir Joshua Fitch, written by A. L. Lilley and recently published in this country by the Longmans. Associated with Matthew Arnold as an inspector under the English Department of Education, Sir Joshua Fitch made it his life work to mould the educational system with the highest inspiration, and this biography well sets forth his purposes and how he realized them in practice. Most teachers know his excellent books, and many heard the addresses which he delivered in America during his sojourn here some years since. We cordially commend this delightful book to all interested in education.

LIBRARIES IN RELATION TO SCHOOLS.

A LARGE gathering of the members of the American Library Association during its conference at Narragansett Pier assembled on July 6 in a joint general session with the National Educational Association, Dr. James H. Canfield, librarian Columbia University and chairman of the committee on co-operation with the library department of the New England association, in the chair. An address was delivered by Dr. Nathan C. Schaeffer, superintendent of public instruction, Pennsylvania, and president of the New England association, showing the importance of co-operation between the school and library. This address was followed by one from Dr. James N. Wilkinson, president of the Kansas State Normal College, also a member of the New England association. As this meeting was entirely along educational lines, papers were read emphasizing the necessity of the library's responsibility in directing the reading of children along the right lines. Miss Clara W. Hunt, superintendent of the children's department of the Public Library, Brooklyn, N. Y., made a plea for better and more careful book selection in our children's rooms, and more rigidly shutting out the mediocre and trash, emphasizing the fact that the children's library is a moral force.

The problem of the girl just growing out of the children's library into the adult department was handled by Miss Lutie E. Stearns, library visitor of the Wisconsin Free Library Commission. She pointed out that the problem to be solved is how to guide her and how to win her attention to a love of the best standard fiction, together with a taste for biography and travel.

The third general session opened at 8 p.m. Monday. The subject was the public library as a municipal institution. David A. Boody, president of the board of trustees, Brooklyn Public Library, showed its relation to the city as an educational institution. Horace G. Wadlin, librarian of the Boston Public Library, showed how the public library as a municipal institution meets conditions essentially modern, fixes its policies and determines its administration. He pointed out the outlook for the future and prospect of success. Charles S. Green, librarian of Oakland Library, California, told of the effects of the earthquake and fire on San Francisco libraries. The meeting closed with the reports of the committees.

PUTNAM'S MONTHLY.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce that in October next they will begin the publication of Putnam's Monthly, which will constitute a reissue of the magazine first published by the late George Palmer Putnam in 1853. With the new Putnam's will be incorporated The Critic magazine, which has been issued by Putnam's Sons since 1898.

It is a little more than half a century since the late George P. Putnam issued the first series of the magazine that bore his name.

The editorial responsibility was placed in the hands of Charles F. Briggs, ("Harry Franco,") but the publisher himself gave valuable service as counselling editor, and it was largely owing to his initiative that Putnam's became the first distinctively American magazine.

While the greater number of the magazines printed at that time in the United States were made up of clippings from English magazines, Putnam's contained no material that was not prepared expressly for its pages. Its appeal to the patriotic pride alike of its readers and contributors constituted an important factor in securing for the new periodical a cordial reception. While the rule was adopted of publishing all the contributions anonymously, it was well known that the magazine had secured from the start writers who had already won distinction, while in the course of the succeeding years it brought to the knowledge of the reading public a number of promising new-comers.

"The Potiphar Papers" and "Prue and I" of George William Curtis, "Fireside Travels" and "The Moosehead Journal" of James Russell Lowell, the "Cape Cod" of Thoreau, the "Have We a Bourbon Among Us?" by Dr. Hawks and Mr. Hanson, and the spirited political articles in which Parke Godwin outlined the principles and formulated the platform of the coming Republican party—these and many similar noteworthy contributions were hailed as constituting a new departure and as establishing a new standard for American magazine literature. Like its forerunner of the earlier Victorian period, (the suspension of which was an incident of the commercial panic of 1857,) the new Putnam's will be a magazine of general interest, but of a decided literary character. Precedence will, as before, be given to American themes and writers, but contributions from over the sea will be welcomed whenever they seem likely to meet the special interests of American readers. Social topics and questions of the day will be considered, with due philosophical detachment, by writers who have given special attention to the essay form of literature. Politics, in the more local or partisan sense of the term, will lie outside of the general purpose or range of the magazine, but space will from time to time be made for studies of national and of international policies, and for analyses of political tendencies on both sides of the Atlantic.

While fiction is not to be the special characteristic of the new Putnam's, place will be reserved for stories of a distinctive character. New books which in subject matter and in character appear to possess more than ephemeral interest and importance will be reviewed at length; others will be recorded, classified, and, so far as space permits, criticised. In short, the editors hope, as many editors have hoped before to produce a magazine that shall be at once authoritative and attractive, and that shall leave untouched few themes that are of essential or vital interest, while they hope no subject will be touched that will not be both illuminated and adorned.

The regular contributors to The Critic, whose papers have won an increasing circle of appreciative readers, will be retained for the new magazine. The department which has for a number of years been included in The Critic under the title of "The Lounger," the responsibility for which has rested with Miss Jeannette L. Gilder, will be retained in Putnam's, finding place at the close of the number. It is proposed in the new magazine to include artistically produced illustrations for all articles the subjects of which can thereby be more effectively presented.

The names of the contributors whose co-operation has been promised and the titles of the papers that will come into print in the first numbers will be announced shortly.

H. H. McCCLURE & COMPANY.

H. H. McCCLURE & Co. was incorporated at Albany, N. Y., on July 23, as a publishing concern, capitalized at $10,000, with offices at No. 1 Madison Avenue, New York City.

H. H. McClure, who is a nephew of S. S. McClure, senior member of the firm of McClure, Phillips & Co., has been the editor of the newspaper syndicate conducted by the S. S. McClure Company. The other incorporators are E. S. McClure, a brother of H. H. McClure, who has also been connected with the S. S. McClure Company, and D. A. McKinlay, who was associated with McClure, Phillips & Co. until Mr. Phillips withdrew from the firm a few months ago.

The new concern's principal business for the present will be to prepare a four-page weekly supplement for country papers and the minor daily papers throughout the United States.

CONVENTION OF THE ENGLISH BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE ASSOCIATED BOOKSELLERS OF GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND held its annual meeting at Oxford on July 6 and 7. H. W. Keay, the president, called the meeting to order Friday afternoon, the 6th inst., about 100 members answering to the roll call.

The report of the Council for the year congratulated the members on the continued success of the net system, and noted that the number of net books published during the year was over 300 more than the year before, while the total published price of the net books was nearly £1500, as compared with about £850, the total published price of the subject works. The report further noted the continued friendly feeling between the Publishers' Association and the Associated Booksellers, and the welcome fact that map publishers have become members of the association, so that their publications now come under the net book schedule.

In moving the adoption of the report, Mr. Keay congratulated the members on the steady growth of the "net" system, which had now plainly come to stay, and was gradually taking the lead. They all looked upon it as essential, and they were determined to allow nothing to prejudice or hinder its continued success. To any such attempt they would cry, "Hands off!" During the year they had seen attempts to tamper with it, and to meet that danger new rules and regulations had become necessary. The past year had been a year of trial, and their difficulty was that they had had two policies before them. Some wished the threatened danger, [the Times Book Club,] to be dealt with immediately. Others, of whom he was one, took the view that caution was desirable, and he thought that events had shown that they had not been unwise. The danger had come close home to the publishers, and the waiting policy had now been justified. He was glad that the Society of Authors, who formerly held a rather different view, had come over to their way of thinking, and had passed a resolution of sympathy. It was, of course, obvious that in these matters the interests of booksellers, publishers and authors were identical, and if one suffered all must suffer together. Passing to the subject of the change in the Railway Bookstall contract, he was glad to say that the new contractors had every wish to work with them, while W. H. Smith & Sons and also Mudie's Library had become members. . . .

Mr. Keay pointed out that the subscription method of publishing seemed strikingly successful. A publisher had shown him some remarkable figures, and when he was asked how far booksellers would co-operate in such methods he had replied that for his part, if the profit to be obtained was made sufficient he was sure they would.

Mr. Keay was re-elected president by acclamation. Messrs. Harrison and Denny were re-elected as vice-presidents and Messrs. Calder Turner and E. Pearce as hon. treasurer and hon. secretary. The retiring Council were all re-elected, and Mr. Squires, of Woolwich, added to the number.

The convention concluded with a dinner, given on the evening of the 6th inst. On the following day, the 7th inst., the members of the Association attended a lecture on "The Early History of Oxford," by James Parker, in Trinity Hall, and a visit to the Clarendon Press, where they were generously entertained by Mr. Frowde and Mr. Horace Hart and the Delegates of the Press.

HOW "TESS" CAME TO BE WRITTEN.

ACCORDING to Harper's Weekly "the first book Thomas Hardy ever wrote has never been published, and the man who persuaded him not to publish it was no other than George Meredith. The book was called 'The Poor Man and the Lady,' and contained some strong revolutionary principles.

"Tess," the most dramatic of Hardy's books, was inspired by the sight of a girl's face. Its author was walking down a lane in West Dorset when a farmer's cart rumbled past on which was seated the original of Tess. The novelist never saw her again, but he found himself weaving a romance around the girl, and in due time 'Tess of the D'Urbervilles' appeared."

COMMUNICATIONS.

WHY FIRST-CLASS FREIGHT ON BOOKS?

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: It is strange that the publishers and booksellers of this country should so long have submitted to the exorbitant freight rates charged them by the railroad and steamship companies, through the system of classification now in use, which places printed books in the highest class, along with light, bulky and fragile articles of merchandise.

Tablets, blank books and other articles of about the same bulk as printed books may be shipped at much lower rates, and why the discrimination should be made on printed matter I cannot understand.

As every one knows, books are very heavy, of small bulk and easily packed without any waste space, and, being considered "disseminators of knowledge," are carried by both the mail and express at the very lowest rates—probably not more than half the rates of ordinary merchandise.

As freight rates in general throughout the United States have slowly but steadily increased during the past twenty years, the percentage to be added to the cost of books has increased in proportion, and the poor bookseller, who already has seen his profits cut down materially by the competition of the department store, almost "groans" under the weight of his burdens.

I have spoken to several prominent railroad men here about the possibility of obtaining a reduction in the freight rate on books and other printed matter, and they were all of the opinion that this would be easy if the matter were only properly placed before the railroad officials and the reduction asked in the right way.

Would it not be well for the publishers and booksellers to take up this matter through their associations, and thus put enough pressure to bear to obtain the desired results? I should like, either through the columns of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY or through personal letters, to learn the views of others interested in this matter.

H. A. MOOS.

OBITUARY NOTES.

HENRI PÈNE DU BOIS, art editor and critic of the New York American, died on board the incoming steamer New York, of the American line, on July 20, aged forty-seven. Mr. du Bois was born in Paris, France, and came to this country about twenty years ago. During that time he was connected with several newspapers—for the last ten permanently with the New York Journal and American. In addition to his newspaper work he produced "Four Private Libraries of New York," in which are described the collection of Messrs. Jolly, Avery, de Forest and V. Blaque; "Love in Letters," "Princesses in Love," and compiled and edited "Pearl Necklaces of Thoughts of Women," and "French Folly in Maxims of Philosophers." Mr. du Bois had been in ill health a long time, and about four months ago went to Europe to recuperate.

DR. WALTER GRAHAM BLACKIE, of the publishing firm of Blackie & Son, Glasgow, died on the 5th of June, aged ninety. His father, John Blackie, who died in 1874, at the age of ninety-two, commenced business in Glasgow as publisher at the beginning of the last century. He took into partnership his three sons, of whom Dr. Blackie was the last. After a good education, Walter Blackie entered his father's printing office, and at the same time attended classes at the university, and soon was placed in charge of the printing branch of the business. Later, he spent some time in Germany, where he made himself familiar with the language, and on his return he became editor of the Imperial Gazetteer. In order to help him in this work he learned many of the Continental languages, for which, indeed, he had a great natural faculty. He took much interest in geography, and the activity of the firm in this direction was very marked. Together with his editorial work, he continued for many years his supervision of the printing branch, but afterwards he gave most of his attention to the literary work of the firm. He was active in many directions—in public and educational affairs, etc., until within a few days of his death.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MRS. GRACE S. RICHMOND has just sailed for England, where she will gather material for another one of the "Juliet" books. The forthcoming one, which will be brought out next year by Doubleday, Page & Co., will be entitled "Juliet in England," and will deal with the adventures of that fascinating lady abroad.

EZRA BRUDNO, the young Jewish author of "The Fugitive" and "The Little Consort," returned to New York this week after a year's stay abroad. He visited nearly all the continental countries of Europe and spent some time in Egypt and the Holy Land. One result of his trip abroad is a novel which he expects to place in the hands of his publishers, (Doubleday, Page & Co.) shortly. Unlike his other books, however, this book will scarcely touch on the Jewish problem.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

BEGINNING with the August issue Pearson's Magazine will be fifteen cents a number, or $1.50 for a year's subscription.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY announce that they will start the publication of a new monthly magazine beginning with the new year. It will be entitled The Circle.

The Bellman is the title of a new weekly journal of miscellaneous information, edited by William C. Edgar and published by The Bellman Company, 118 South Sixth Street, Minneapolis, Minn. The Bellman is very attractively gotten up and gives promise of maintaining itself as a high-toned periodical.

AGNES REPLIER and Andrew S. Draper make a strange contrast, as they discuss two phases of the educational problem in Appleton's Magazine for August. Yet it is hard to say which is the more cheerful reading, Miss Repplier's sparkling irony which makes us glad to have escaped from the past, or Dr. Draper's superb optimism which makes us proud of the present and hopeful of the future.

The Library for July, edited by J. Y. W. MacAlister and published by Alexander Moring, London, contains seven personal sketches of the late Dr. Richard Garnett, of the British Museum, by G. K. Fortescue, John Ballinger, Henry T. Tedder, F. T. Barrett, Edward Dowden, Arthur Symonds and Alfred W. Pollard, prefaced with a sonnet by Andrew Lang. Other articles of interest in this issue are "Patrons and Professional Writers Under Elizabeth and James I.," by Ph. Sheavyn; "Responsibility for the Public Taste," by Alex. Hill; and "The Lady Dilke Gift to the National Art Library," by Gilbert R. Redgrave.

IN the July number of the Burlington Magazine, published in this country by Robert Grier Cooke, Inc., New York City, the American section, edited by Frank J. Mather, Jr., contains an article on "The Puzzle of Recent Auction Prices," [of paintings,] accompanied by a tabulated list of the principal sales of the year. William Rankin contributes a preliminary note and list to a series of articles descriptive of "Cassone Fronts in American Collections," the charming panels and salvers of the quattrocento; the Lucretia panel from the Ashburnham collection, now owned by Mrs. John L. Gardner, is described, and illustrated by a full-page plate in collotype, and there is a supplementary note on the later work of Botticelli. Under the title "Modern Pictures in 1906" Bernard Sickert contributes a caustic article on the Royal Academy and on the two Paris salons. An account is given of the superb and famous collection of objects of art acquired by J. Pierpont Morgan which belonged to Baron Oppenheim, of Cologne. Eight of the finest objects in it, (now on view at the Victoria and Albert Museum, South Kensington,) are reproduced by full-page collotype plates. The frontispiece, a fine plate in full colors, accompanies an article by M. L. Solon on "Colored Pottery of the Renaissance in the Austrian Country."

BUSINESS NOTES.

CINCINNATI, O.—The Warren Book Store is advertised to be sold.

DALLAS, TEX.—The Committee of Creditors of the Ginn, Myers & Perry Book and Stationery Company has declared a dividend of ten per cent., which is now being paid to the creditors of the firm.

NEW YORK CITY.—William H. Willis, referee in bankruptcy, has declared a dividend out of the estate of the United Educational Co. of twenty-five per cent. John K. Creevey, 60 Wall Street, on or after July 30, will receive warrants for the dividend between 10 A.M. and 3 P.M.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. will open on August 1 a London office at 5 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY will publish in September "In London Town," by F. Berkeley Smith, whose books of Paris life have attracted considerable attention; also, "The Incubator Baby," by Ellis Parker Butler.

THE H. W. WILSON COMPANY, of Minneapolis, has published "Studies in Constitutional History," by James O. Pierce. The subject is treated in a popular manner and adapted to the "busy man's" needs, being free from technical phraseology.

THE business of B. T. Batsford, publisher and bookseller, High Holborn, London, since the death of the senior partner, Bradley Batsford, on the 10th inst., will be continued by his younger brother, Herbert, and his nephew, Harry Batsford, and Mr. Smith, the head of the staff, who have been engaged in the business for some years.

THERE seems to be a revival of interest in the works of Edgar Saltus, judging by the new editions of his works brought out by Mitchell Kennerley. Two months ago "Imperial Purple," originally published in 1892, was reissued, and now there is announced for August 1 a new edition of "Mary Magdalen," first published in 1891, which has been out of print since the original publishers failed in 1892.

GAY & BIRD, the well-known English publishers of American books and periodicals, have dissolved partnership. S. B. Walter Gay has taken over the publishing part of the business, which he will continue under the old firm name at 12 Henrietta Street, Strand, London. Arthur F. Bird will continue the general American agency, the importation of American books, etc., at the old address, 22 Bedford Street.

THE INTERNATIONAL ART PUBLISHING CO., 3 Waverly Place, New York City, are the agents of Dean's Rag Books, patented in this country and abroad. These books were the first of their kind to be put on the market, are artistically printed in colors, will stand washing and are practically indestructible. There are nearly fifty separate titles in sizes 3 x 4¾ inches to 11¾ x 8 inches, including all the popular nursery rhymes, the English "Struwpeter," with Dr. Hoffmann's original designs, animal books, etc.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. are bringing out a Historical Series which will include some of their successful fiction. The interesting thing about this series is that each book deals with romance and adventure in a picturesque locality. The series include the following: "The Wav of the North," by Warren Cheney; "The Wooing of Judith," by Sarah Beaumont Kennedy; "Sons of Strength," by W. R. Lighton; "The Colonials," by Allen French; "Lords of the North," by Agnes C. Laut; and "Diane," by Katherine Holland Brown.

"OLD CHESTER," as readers of Mrs. Deland's charming creation will be interested to learn again, is an imaginative town, based on the real town of Manchester, an old and charming suburb of Alleghany, Pennsylvania. There Mrs. Deland passed her childhood, and her loving portraiture of familiar scenes has—as is not usual among authors—the more endeared her to the inhabitants of that town and vicinity. By analogy, the town of "Mercer," also familiar to Mrs. Deland's readers, can be none other than Pittsburg.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish in the fall, probably in October, "The Far Horizon," a new book by Lucas Malet, (Mrs. St. Leger Harrison, the daughter of Charles Kingsley,) author of "Sir Richard Calmady," etc. The story, the author's first book in five years, deals with the acts and opinions of a foreign-born man, who, after many years of hard work, becomes suddenly possessed of a moderate fortune and leisure. The time covered is from 1899 to 1901. Matters of modern finance, manners and morals, theatrical and religious, are touched upon. Readers familiar with Lucas Malet's other writings will renew acquaintance with some of her characters.

THE LEGAL LITERATURE COMPANY, of Chicago, are publishing the first of a series of small volumes written by Henry S. Wilcox, of the Chicago Bar. They are designed to point out in an entertaining manner the follies and frailties of judges, lawyers and juries which have come to the notice of the author during his many years of experience as a trial lawyer. The book is entitled "Foibles of the Bench," and contains sketches of typical good and bad judges, and points out abuses which have become prevalent in judicial proceedings and suggests remedies. It abounds in humorous incidents illustrating the points made, and is calculated to interest the general reader as well as the members of the legal profession. The other volumes to follow will be entitled "Foibles of the Bar," "Frailties of the Jury" and "Fallacies of the Law."

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY have just brought out a new volume for their Roses of Saint Elizabeth Series for young people, entitled "Gabriel and the Hour-Book," by Evalene Stein. The scene of the story is laid in old Provence, which has hitherto usually served as a setting for mediæval love stories. Miss Stein has demonstrated that its romantic atmosphere is admirable as a background for children's books as well, and her story of the child illuminator is a clear and true reflection of the Middle Ages. They announce that Professor Charles G. D. Roberts is making the final revision on his new story, "The Heart That Knows," originally announced as "By the Waters of Fundy." The story deals with the fisher and sailor folk of the Tan-tramar Marsh region about the head of the Bay of Fundy, and its main theme is the mystery of fatherhood. In a sense the new book will be a companion volume to "The Heart of the Ancient Wood," but it will be an "idyl of the sea" rather than of the woods.

P. BLAKISTON'S SON & Co., who have hitherto confined their publications almost entirely to medicine and chemistry, are now widening their field by the addition of several text-books of biology. They have just published "Entomology, with special reference to its biological and economic aspects," by Justus W. Folsom, Instructor in Entomology at the University of Illinois; also, Boettger's "Qualitative Analysis," translated by Professor W. G. Smeaton, of the University of Michigan, and new editions of two books by Professor J. H. Long, of the Northwestern University, Chicago; "Elements of General Chemistry," (4th edition,) and "A Text-book of Elementary Analytical Chemistry," (3d edition.) They will issue during August "The Foundations of Zoology," by T. W. Galloway, Professor of Biology in the James Milliken University, Decatur, Ill.; and "Laboratory Zoology, a loose-leaf system of laboratory notes," by Professor T. H. Scheffer, of the Kansas State Agricultural College.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD have in preparation "The Camp on Letter K," by Clarence B. Burleigh, the well-known editor of the Kennebec Journal, and the son of ex-Governor Edwin C. Burleigh. The book, which will be the first of the Raymond Benson Series, deals with two active boys in Aroostook County close to the northeastern boundary of our country, where smuggling across the Canadian line has been prevalent. Equally ready in athletics, hunting, or helping their families on the rich farms of that section, these good chums have many exciting adventures, the most important of which directly concerns the leading smugglers of the district, and an important public service is rendered by the boys. L. J. Bridgman has illustrated the story. They are also making ready for the fall "Four Boys in the Yellowstone, how they went and what they did," by Everett T. Tomlinson, the first volume of Our Own Land Series, which shall acquaint our young people with the beauties and wonders of their own country, with illustrations by H. C. Edwards; "When I Was a Boy in Japan," by Sakae Shioya, who was born near Tokyo, and at the age of eleven began the study of English, coming in 1901 to America, where he received the degree of Master of Arts at the University of Chicago; "Jimmie Suter," by Martha James, the first volume of the Pigeon Camp Series, a good book which will interest a live boy of twelve, with illustrations by G. W. Picknell; also, "Two Cadets with Washington," a story of the siege of Boston, by W. O. Stoddard, the second volume of the Revolutionary Series, with illustrations by J. W. Kennedy.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish early in September a biography of John Calvin, by Professor Williston Walker, which is the first biography of this doughty organizer of reformed Protestantism to appear in English in well-nigh fifty years, and is based on much new material that has been brought to light during that period; "The Essentials of Æsthetics," as applied to music, poetry, painting, sculpture and architecture, by Professor George Lansing Raymond, of the George Washington University, the object of which is to determine for the reader the qualities causing excellence in the higher arts and to increase his appreciation of them; "The Family," an ethnographical and historical outline, with descriptive notes, by Elsie Clews Parsons, planned as a text-book for the use of college lecturers and directors of home-reading clubs; also, "Diagnosis of Organic Nervous Diseases," by Christian A. Herter, M.D., Professor of Pharmacology and Therapeutics at Columbia University, revised by L. Pierce Clark, M.D., Visiting Neurologist to the Randall's Island Hospital and School, and Consulting Neurologist at the Manhattan State Hospital, with about 100 illustrations. In the fall, probably in November, they will bring out "The Censorship of the Church and Its Influence Upon the Production and Distribution of Literature," by George Haven Putnam. The author of this work has been engaged upon it for years, and the problem with which it is chiefly concerned—the question of the part played by the censorship of the Roman Church in the history of literature, philosophy and theology—is today a living question and one well worth the pains and scholarly method which have here been applied to the study of it.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

EDUCATIONAL WORKS OF VALUE

(FOR THE YOUNG)

Saturday Mornings

A Little Girl's Experiments and Discoveries; or, How Margaret Learned to Keep House. By CAROLINE FRENCH BENTON, author of "A Little Cook-Book for a Little Girl."

A little girl, home from school on Saturday mornings, finds out how to make helpful use of her spare time, and also how to take proper pride and pleasure in good housework. Cloth, 12mo, 75 cents.

Young Folks' Nature Field Book

By J. ALDEN LORING. (Ready Next Month.)

A short, timely nature story, or seasonable hint for every calendar day in the year, telling the reader just what time in the successive seasons to look for the different birds, beasts, flowers, etc., how to recognize and study them when taking observation walks for pleasure or instruction. Recognition of different creatures, etc., is assisted by numerous excellent illustrations, and alternate pages are left blank for reader's notes or record of things seen. A yearly record so kept, either by a single young person or a small group or club, cannot fail to be a source of continuous interest, not only while being made but after its completion. A club competing for the best and most complete record so made should produce pleasure and instruction throughout the year. Cloth, illustrated, $1.00.

THE RECITATION

By SAMUEL HAMILTON, Ph.D., Supt. of Schools, Allegheny Co., Pa.

Vol. V. in Lippincott's Educational Series

This volume will be of great assistance to young teachers in the study of the practical phases of school work, and will also be very helpful to older teachers who have not yet reached the point of perfection.

The author is sound in theory, simple in treatment, clear and concise in presentation, brief and pointed in discussion, and withal, practical and helpful.

SIMPLE GRAMMAIRE FRANÇAISE. Accompagnée d'un Questionnaire et Basée sur la Réforme de la Syntaxe. Cloth, 220 pages, $1.00.

First, it is in French; difficult words and sentences are translated into English and placed in parentheses. Second, rules and exceptions are based upon the "Reform of the Syntax." Third, English exercises to be translated into French are invaluable. Fourth, the "Questionnaire" of great assistance to teachers and pupils, can be used for conversation, as questions and answers are in simple form; pedagogy avoided. Fifth, the chapter on distinction between masculine and feminine nouns will be much appreciated.

Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $3.00 a year; to foreign countries, $4.00 a year.

The American Catalog, 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $12.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Annual American Catalog, 1905

Contains in one alphabet a record of all books published that year, under author, title, subject and series entries; also under author's name an alphabetical list of the same titles with descriptive annotations from The Publishers' Weekly, etc. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists, fully indexed, at the end of the volume. Indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Index to the Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1902, out of print.

The Supplementary Index, 1903-1904, 500 pages, 8vo, cloth, with thumb index, $3.00. The alphabet in this volume is supplementary to the original Index of 1902.

The American Educational List

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

Whitaker's Reference Catalogue of Current Literature, 1906. (London, J. Whitaker & Sons.)

(The English publishers' "Trade List.") 2 vols., half leather binding, $5.00.

The Library Journal

Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription $4.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 35 cents. Price to Europe or other countries in the Union, 16s. a year; single numbers, 1s. 6d.

The Library Index to Periodicals and Current Events

Published monthly, with a quarterly cumulation (indexing the periodicals taken in most libraries, large and small). Subscription, $3.00 per year. Single monthly numbers, 25 cents; quarterly numbers, 50 cents each.

The Annual Library Index

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. (Published annually) 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

English Catalogue of Books (Annual)

Containing a complete list of all the books published in Great Britain and Ireland in the calendar year, with index to subjects. (London, Sampson Low, Marston & Co.) 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

Directory of Publishers

Contains names and addresses of 3876 firms and individuals who issued books in the U. S. from Jan. 1, 1900 to Jan. 1, 1905. (Reprinted from The American Catalog.) 8vo, leatherette, red edges, $1.00.

The Profession of Bookselling

A handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GAOWELL, managing editor of The Publishers' Weekly, author of "A Bookseller's Library." "Three Centuries of English Booktrade Bibliography," etc. Parts 1 and 2. 8vo boards, each $2.00. (Concluding part in preparation.)

Publications of Societies

A provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary and other societies, from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules nearly 1,000 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 8vo, paper, $2.50.

Smith's Arithmetics

By DAVID EUGENE SMITH

Professor of Mathematics in Teachers College, Columbia University

These arithmetics are intended to vitalize the teaching of elementary mathematics. They preserve the best of the old-time books with their topical method and their abundant drill and at the same time include material that is thoroughly modern in arrangement and in treatment.

They furnish simple, rational and practical work which will fit the pupil for the business world in which he is to live.

In the selection of problems those against which teachers have long protested have been replaced by those appealing to the life, the interests, and the powers of children.

THE FIGHTING CHANCE

THIS IS A SOCIETY NOVEL, sparkling with the gay thrust and counter, the delicate intuitions, the pleasant inconsequences of life frivolous.

THIS IS A DRAMA, moving lightly and airily at first, then gaining intensity in a cloudier atmosphere of anger, hopeless love and sordid motives; until it bursts into a tremendous period of financial storm and stress. And at last the clouds break in a thrilling, fascinating denouement.

THIS IS A LOVE STORY, the sweetest and the most powerful that has yet come from Mr. Chambers' pen.

THE BEST SUNDAY-SCHOOL COMMENTARY

TARBELL'S TEACHERS GUIDE

To the International Sunday-School Lessons

Praised by Great Clergymen

REV. DR. NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS, of Brooklyn:

"The Tarbell Guide is a most scholarly, helpful and suggestive book."

REV. DR. CHARLES H. PARKHURST, of New York:

"The author has brought to her undertaking earnestness of thought and carefulness of research; teachers will find the volume both suggestive and stimulating."

REV. DR. WAYLAND HOYT, of Philadelphia:

"I have only satisfaction and delight to express. The whole volume is most admirable. I shall myself steadily use it. I know nothing better for the Sunday-school teacher."

REV. DR. R. S. MacARTHUR, of New York:

"I commend the Tarbell Guide without a single qualification and with hearty appreciation of its varied excellencies."

REV. DR. AMORY H. BRADFORD, of Montclair:

"On general principles I am pleased with Tarbell's Guide. It is an admirable collection of illustrations and will doubtless be valuable for all who use the International Lessons."

REV. DR. P. S. HENSON, of Boston:

"In clearness and comprehensiveness of presentation and in felicity of illustration it is positively the best thing of the kind I have ever seen."

REV. DR. J. ROSS STEVENSON, of New York:

"The teacher who has once used the book will regard it as an indispensable guide to his work."

By Martha Tarbell, Ph. D.

THE LION AND THE MOUSE

By CHARLES KLEIN and ARTHUR HORNBLow

THIS book deals with the biggest question that confronts the American people to-day, a question which President Roosevelt, in a recent remarkable speech, declared must ultimately be regulated by the State—the checking of the colossal fortunes, the curbing of our multi-millionaires. It is a vividly drawn picture of our American life presented in the form of powerful fiction.

Given first to the public in the form of a play by Charles Klein, it attracted wide-spread attention. The play has been performed all this season at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, to enormous receipts, and in other cities its popularity has been no less. In Chicago, three performances a day were given to accommodate the vast crowds eager to see the drama. This coming Fall there will be four theatrical companies presenting "The Lion and the Mouse" in different territory of the United States.

It is a great story and is bound to become one of the "Best Sellers of the year."

12mo. Cloth bound, Beautifully illustrated, $1.50

STEP BY STEP

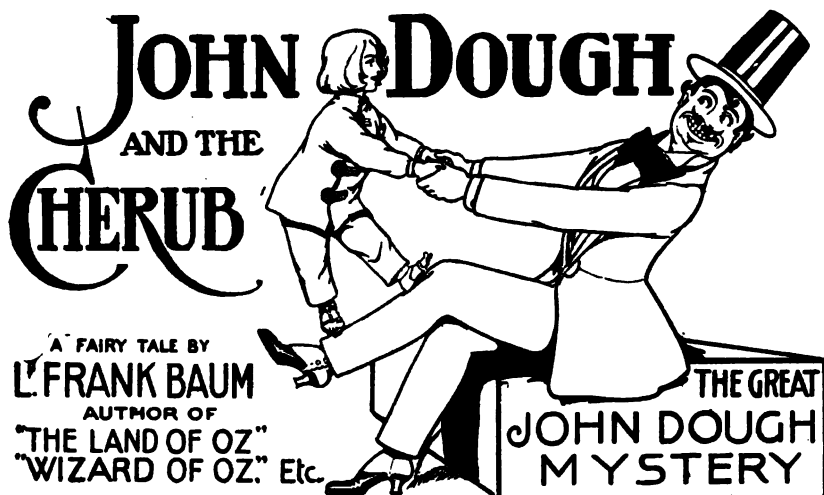

By MRS. GEORGE SHELDON DOWNS

JUDGED as a story, pure and simple, "Step by Step" is altogether delightful. But it is not merely a charming piece of fiction. Ethical in its nature, the underlying thought shows throughout the lofty purpose and high ideals of the author and exhales a wholesome atmosphere, while the element of romance pervading it is both elevated and enriched by its purity and simplicity.

Mrs. Down's recent book "KATHERINE'S SHEAVES," so widely read and endorsed by Christian Scientists, has paved the way for an enormous sale of STEP BY STEP.

12mo. Cloth bound, illustrated, $1.50

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY, Publishers, New York

Will be Published August 15th

Critics who have read the advance sheets pronounce it Baum's best story. We say it is as good as either of the "Oz" books. In it the author easily maintains his reputation as the foremost writer of children's stories. "John Dough" has a clever plot, many novel character creations quite as fascinating as The Scarecrow and The Tin Woodman, and displays throughout great ingenuity of invention.

The Feature of the Book is a Mystery Concerning the Cherub.

We have brought out the book in lavish form with pictures by John R. Neill—illustrator of "The Land of Oz"—40 full pages in color, 20 chapter headings in color and 150 text pictures. Then there are colored pictorial end sheets, title page, page of contents, dedication page, copyright page, etc.

? IS THE CHERUB ? BOY OR GIRL ?

One of the most important characters is "Chick the Cherub," and as the author has not seen fit to reveal whether Chick is a boy or a girl, the solution will be left to the children who read the story. Accordingly we shall largely advertise "John Dough and the Cherub" and offer a goodly sum for the best answers to the question "Is the Cherub girl or boy?" An answer coupon is to be found in each book. Dealers are certain of a brisk demand.

NOTES IN SEASON.

DANA ESTES & Co. will publish during the fall a translation of Gustav Frenssen's latest success, "Holy Land," ("Hilligenlei," which has had almost as large a sale in Germany as the author's "Jörn Uhl," a translation of which was published by this firm last year.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. have a new sea story by W. Clark Russell, entitled "The Yarn of Old Harbour Town," which is said to be just the book to read by the seaside or on an ocean voyage. "The Girl Out There," Karl Edwin Harriman's human lovable little story, is daily winning admirers.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation a volume to be entitled "Thirteen Men," by W. A. Fraser, a collection of short stories of Canadian and East Indian life that are said to be of unique interest. They will publish on the 24th inst. "The Fighting Chance," by Robert W. Chambers, a study of the upper social life of America of the present age.

THE OUTING PUBLISHING COMPANY announce "The Story of Martin Coe," by Ralph D. Paine, author of "The Praying Skipper," which has to do with a young deserter and filibuster who is regenerated by the influence of two women, one a girl whom he loves, and the other an elderly spinster who has befriended him and whom he has befriended; also, a novel by Arthur Goodrich, entitled "The Balance of Power," the story of the loves of two friends for the same girl, with a gripping, vital struggle of every-day American life as a background.

THE REILLY & BRITTON Co. will have ready on August 15 L. Frank Baum's new wonder book for children—"John Dough and the Cherub." This story has been more lavishly illustrated than any of Mr. Baum's previous productions. The pictures are by John R. Neill, who illustrated "The Land of Oz." There are forty full pages in color, twenty chapter-headings in color, and 150 text illustrations. The story contains a great mystery, the author having failed to reveal whether or not "Chick, the Cherub," who is one of the most important characters, is a boy or a girl. The publishers have decided that the children may solve the problem for themselves and will offer a goodly sum in prizes for best answers.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will inaugurate their fall publishing season on September 6. On this date the monumental "Dog Book," in two massive volumes, will be brought out. This is by far the most comprehensive work on the dog ever published. Other books to be brought out on this day are Mary Dillon's political novel, "The Leader;" "The Airship Dragon Flyer," by W. J. Hopkins, a story for boys and girls telling about the adventures of three children in an airship; "Songs Every Child Should Know," edited by Dolores Bacon and illustrated by B. Ostertag; also, "Dixie After the War," Myrta Lockett Avery's reconstruction book which portrays the Southern situation just after the war with a remarkable vividness. Later in the month they will bring out "Witch's Gold," a new edition, rewritten and enlarged, of Hamlin Garland's little story, originally entitled "The Spirit of Sweetwater," with illustrations by W. L. Taylor and colored decorations by H. A. Linnell. It is the story of the moral development of a man who has become the possessor of much money.

Ellis, Ellen Deborah. An introduction to the history of sugar as a commodity. [Phil., John C. Winston Co.,] 1905. 4+117 p. 8°, (Bryn Mawr College monographs, Monograph ser.) cl., $1.

Begins with a study of the wants of man and a study of the various classes of economic goods. Then sugar is examined as a commodity with regard to those qualities which it possesses or is believed to possess; this is followed by the history of sugar as a commodity in its various phases of production and consumption throughout the world. In a future essay the writer will examine the part played by sugar in the political and economic history of England in the 17th and 18th centuries; its influence in navigation and the colonial policies. - Meyer, Max Wilhelm. The making of the world; tr. by Ernest Unterman. Chic., Charles H. Kerr & Co., 1906. c. 150 p. nar. S. (Library of science for the workers.) cl., 50 c.
Author has written "The end of the world," in which he showed that worlds come to an end and that this world will cease to have existence. He believes that from these defunct world systems new worlds will germinate and blossom and that we also will rise to higher stages of evolution in the universe. He gives a scientific treatise on the matter and motion which create, and claims another element superior to these but does not teach that this guiding principle of the universe is a supernatural entity. He does not solve the "great puzzle," but simply refers it to eternity.
- Milne, W. Ja. Progressive arithmetic: First to Third books. N. Y., American Book Co., [1906. J116.] c. 3 bks.: 1st bk., 35 c.; 2d bk., 40 c.; 3d bk., 45 c.
The desirability of gathering together the information acquired in the first two books of the series and of including the essentials of arithmetic in one volume has led to the adoption of a purely topical method of presentation. The problems have been made both rational and practical, and they relate to a wide range of subjects drawn from modern life and industries. Algebra has been drawn upon to solve some of the more intricate problems.

Calls attention to the combination of national racial and religious types found in America such as the world has never seen before under one government. Hopes to animate readers with the purpose and hope of producing an ultimate type of Christian manhood of which the United States may be justly proud. Describes specially what each form of worship has done for the country.
- Piramus, Denis. La vie Seint Edmund le Rei: an Anglo-Norman poem of the twelfth century, by Denis Piramus; ed., with introd. and critical notes, by Florence Leftwich Ravenel. [Phil., John C. Winston Co.,] 1906. 2+174 p. O. (Bryn Mawr College monographs.) pap., $1.
The manuscript in which this work is preserved was found in 1838 in the British Museum by Francisque Michel. St. Edmund was a Saxon king, who reigned in the ninth century and whose accepted date of martyrdom is 870 A.D. The poem is written in octosyllable rhymed verse. The editor has made an exhaustive study of Anglo-Saxon poetry based on the peculiarities of Denis Piramus' use of words and metres. She claims evidence of language makes it almost certain poem was composed between 1170 and 1200; evidence of matter makes it probable it was written between 1190 and 1200.

Richardson, Major J: Wacousta: a tale of the Pontiac conspiracy; with il. by C. W. Jeffreys. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1906. 12+454 p. D. cl., $1.50.

First published in 1832 in London and in 1834 in New York City by Dewitt & Davenport. The story is founded on the artifice of Pontiac, the Indian chief, to possess himself of the last British forts in Canada established along the Western frontier. When the Pontiac Confederacy had been dissolved, the English began the first commercial shipping on the great lakes. Upon the background of history the author has thrown an imaginative picture of love and loyalty.

Author holds that all scientific research reaches some point where knowledge and investigation have brought students to the unknowable. He believes a wise knowledge of the physical elements of life and an understanding of its highest spiritual meanings will lead to a natural death at ripe age, which will be robbed of all its terrors.

Thorne, Guy, [Filson Young.] The sands of pleasure. Bost., Dana Estes & Co., [1906. N23.] 5-397 p. col. front. D. cl., $1.50.

The hero was a builder of lighthouses. The first part of the story gives a vivid picture of his lonely life following this occupation, and also gives many details of lighthouses, lightships and fog signals around the British Islands. After long years of work he goes to Paris for change and rest. He falls under the influence of a woman of the demi-monde, and his life in those surroundings is also told in detail. Finally, as a sadder and wiser man he returns to one of his lighthouses on the rock and finds lasting satisfaction in the work of his brain and hands.

Wilcox, H: S. Foibles of the bench. Chic., Legal Literature Co., [1906.] c. 3-144 p. D. cl., $1.

It has long been the purpose of the author, who is of the Chicago bar, to call public attention to such defects, abuses and weaknesses as he has noticed, and to propose such improvements as seem fit. This work will be followed by "The foibles of the bar," "The frailties of the jury," "The fallacies of the law," etc. The types of judges he criticises here appear under the names of Judges Knowall, Doall, Wasp, Fearful, Wabblor, Graft, Whiffet and Wind.

Zimmerman, Eugene, ["Zim," pseud.] This & that about caricature. N. Y., [Eugene Zimmerman,] [1905.] c. 78+1 p. il. D. hf. leath., ribbon tied, $1.50.

Writer and designer is supposed to be "Jester to His Majesty, the King of 'Spuds.'" Pretends to be written "expressly for the young student bent in the direction of comic art and caricature, and incidentally, for the coin consideration or compensation which it may yield." The rules and specimen designs are worded and drawn with rollicking wit and humor.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATHENS, GA.—D. W. McGregor, printer and bookseller, has incorporated his business as the McGregor Company, with a paid-up capital of $25,000. The stockholders in the McGregor press will exchange their holdings for stock in the new company. The incorporators are D. W. McGregor, who is the founder of the business and its president; George H. Thornton, who has been in the employ of the concern for eighteen years and who has contributed much to the upbuilding of the business of which he is now vice-president; Fred. Whitehead, who has been with the business five years and is now its secretary; E. R. McGregor, the founder's son, who is treasurer, and C. D. Flanagan. The McGregor Company under its new incorporation will be pushed forward vigorously by its members.

CHEHALIS, WASH.—Duncan & Stawally, booksellers, have sold out to W. B. Charles.

CHERRYVALE, KAN.—L. I. Purcell has bought the book business formerly owned by E. Thompson.

KEOKUK, IA.—The Keokuk Book Company has sold out to the Collier Stationery Company.

LAWRENCE, KAN.—Rowlands & Stevenson have been succeeded by the Stevenson-Hopper Book Company, which has been recently incorporated.

NEW HAVEN, CONN.—H. J. Augur, bookseller, it is reported, has gone into voluntary bankruptcy.

OWEGO, N. Y.—Horgan & Co. have succeeded to A. W. Parmlee, bookseller.

TOLEDO, O.—W. D. Mudge, of Weston, Ohio, has become a member of the firm of the Brown, Eager & Hull Company, and with E. B. Eusworth will have charge of the jobbing department of the firm. They have also purchased the stock of H. O. Pratt, an old employee of the firm, who, with W. H. Eager, will have charge of their retail department. The firm is also to make a change in their place of business such as remodeling the first floor, putting a new front in the store and changing the exterior of the building.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYFOLDT.

AUGUST 4, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE MACY PRONUNCIAMENTO.

We reprint elsewhere in full a recent advertisement of the Macy store, that our readers may hear both sides of the important question involved. The Macy advertisement says frankly: "Books serve as a peg on which we hang a general story. While the saving on late books may not average more than 10 per cent., on other lines of merchandise it is very much greater." This is the key to the Macy position, as the pronouncement elsewhere states: the concern is willing to pay more for recent novels than it otherwise need, and to sell them at less than cost, for the advertising in it. The "principle" for which the house claims to be fighting, "the right to sell goods as cheaply as we choose," is the principle adopted by the Standard Oil Company in fighting dealers by the device of underselling through subsidiary companies, which Attorney General Hadley, of Missouri, has efficiently exposed.

The advertisement sets forth calmly that the cost of the books in question, namely, $1.50 novels sold generally at $1.08, is an average of 20 cents each for printing and binding, with a possible royalty of 10 or 15 cents to the author. This is the truth that is half a truth, which is a harder matter to fight than an outright lie. Books that can be sold the same as groceries or dry goods, that is, books which have made their market and are out of copyright, may to some extent be reasoned about on this basis of mere duplicating cost. If publishers could make new books at 20 cents or 25 cents a copy, and after paying a royalty of 10 cents or 15 cents to the author sell to the dealer at a wholesale price represented by a retail price of $1.08, publishers would certainly be rolling in wealth and their numbers would be legion. But this argument presupposes that there is no element of cost in a book other than the duplicating cost, and that there is no risk in selling new books. The Macy house could not exist if its proprietors were not more clear-headed business men than this advertisement suggests. Their profits must cover not only the cost of the individual goods, but store rent, administration, advertising, risks and losses, and if they did business throughout other departments as they claim to do business in their book department, they would not long be competitors in any field.

A straightforward, honest statement of the publishers' side of the case would be sufficient justification to the public of the endeavor of publishers to make and protect an honest price for new books. We should like to see such a statement in a Macy advertisement.

CONTRACT TO PROTECT SELLING PRICE OF BOOKS UPHELD.

JUDGE A. L. BROWN, of the United States Circuit Court in Providence, R. I., on July 24 granted the petition for a preliminary injunction against the O'Gorman Company, of Providence, asked by the Authors and Newspapers Association of New York City, restraining the O'Gorman Company from selling its copyrighted book entitled "A Rock in the Baltic."

According to the opinion, the O'Gorman Company is forbidden selling the book for the reason that it knew that the publishers had printed within the cover of the volume the following:

NOTICE TO PURCHASER.

"This copyright volume is offered for sale to the public only through the authorized agents of the publishers, who are permitted to sell it only at retail and at fifty cents per copy, and with the express condition and reservation that it shall not, prior to August 1, 1907, be resold, or offered or advertised for resale. The purchaser from them agrees to this condition and reservation by the acceptance of this copy. In case of any breach thereof, the title to this book immediately reverts to the publishers. Any defacement, alteration or removal of this notice will be prosecuted by the publishers to the full extent of the law.

"THE AUTHORS AND NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION."

The Court practically held that if a person bought the book without knowing of the contract inside, the provision as to sale, etc., was not binding, but that when he purchased the volume, knowing these conditions, he had not the right to violate them.

The opinion is interesting, also, because it covers contentions that have come up many times with reference to stipulations on tickets and so forth, as to which the interpretation of the law has not always been in accordance with that adopted by Judge Brown.

Judge Brown's opinion is summed up as follows:

"It is contended by the defendant that, even if the purchaser's attention is called to the notice in the book, and he is informed that the agent has but a limited authority, the purchaser nevertheless acquires a full and unrestricted title, and full right of transfer of such title. It is said that this restraint or alienation is contrary to public policy. I am unable to see any iniquity or violation of public policy in the agreement by the purchaser of a chattel that he will not resell it within a reasonable period. The purchaser gets all that was offered him, and all that he paid for, and the vendor maintains the market price by an agreement that the purchaser will not compete with him by selling the book within a limited period. To consider this is an unlawful agreement in restraint of trade would be straining the matter.

"I am of the opinion that, while it is possible that the defendant may have acquired a good and transferable title to some of the books which it has disposed of, it is highly improbable that this is the case with so many as 55 copies. It is sufficiently proved that the defendant, having knowledge of the complainant's plan of sale, and of the restrictions placed upon its agents, has instigated the purchase of at least 55 copies in New York. Whether the defendant's agents, or persons induced by them to become purchasers, were expressly informed of the notice becomes immaterial; for if the defendant had actual knowledge of the limited authority of complainant's agents such knowledge must be attributed to defendant's agents and to persons instigated by such agents to make the purchases.

"I am of the opinion that the defendant, being apprised of the agent's limited authority, could not, by procuring or inducing the agent to break his agreement with complainant, secure a better title than the agent was actually authorized to convey. While the ordinary purchaser of a book over the counter is not bound to anticipate or look for a restriction or notice of this kind, and while it seems to me rather more probable that he would not himself discover a notice of this character than that he would, yet if before purchasing he has knowledge of the restriction, I fail at present to see why it is not binding on him. While I should give little assistance to an attempt to incorporate in a contract of sale terms of which the purchaser was ignorant, and while the mere fact that a book contains a printed notice of this kind seems to me altogether insufficient evidence that the purchaser knew of it or assented to it, yet I am of the opinion that a contract between vendor and vendee that the vendee will not within a year resell, is not unreasonable nor against public policy, as applied to books of this character, and, if actually made, is entitled to protection.

"Upon the question of granting a preliminary injunction a further fact is of some importance. The books were sold by the defendant for 49 cents. They doubtless cost 50 cents, and, therefore, were not sold as a matter of ordinary business, for the sake of making a profit, but were sold at a loss for the sake of competing with the complainant. The defendant will suffer no substantial harm from being restrained from selling these books at a pecuniary loss; and to deprive it of such trade advantage as may result from breaking the price on the books, and thereby advertising the defendant's store does not, under the circumstances, seem a hardship to the defendant which should deprive the complainant of temporary relief.

"As to the terms of the injunction: It is possible that the defendant may have acquired a transferable title to some of these books, but, as it appears that the defendant, with knowledge, has instigated the purchase of, or purchased a large number of books to which it can have only the limited title of one who purchased with notice, I think the case must be treated in a practical way, and that the complainant is entitled to an injunction in general terms, but subject to the right of the defendant to apply to the court for a modification as to such books as it may be able to show were procured from persons who were not directly or indirectly instigated by the defendant to purchase them, and who purchased them without knowledge of a restriction of the right to resell. In Social Register Association v. Murphy, 128 Fed. 116, the injunction was made general, with liberty to the defendant to apply for a modification; and I think a similar course is proper in this case.

"The complainant is entitled to a preliminary injunction, and a draft decree may be presented accordingly."

BRONX (N. Y.) NEWSDEALERS' ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting held on July 26 at Schall's Lodge and Assembly Rooms, 393 Third Avenue, New York City, the Bronx Newsdealers' and Stationers' Protective Association was reorganized with the following officers: Cornelius Sweeney, president, 968 Westchester Avenue; Max Von Radowitz, vice-president, Jackson Avenue and Westchester Avenue; Charles W. Derleth, recording secretary, 1016 Westchester Avenue; John Smith, treasurer, 680 East One Hundred and Thirty-eighth Street; Isaac Turbin, sergeant-at-arms, 1046 Franklin Avenue. The following were elected trustees: George P. Michel, One Hundred and Fifty-sixth Street and Third Avenue; Oswald Preiss, 974 Rogers Place, and A. Rouette, 167 St. Ann's Avenue.

The secretary was instructed to apply to the Secretary of State at Albany for a charter.

PUBLISHING AND BOOKSELLING FROM MACY'S POINT OF VIEW.

THE following is a reprint of one of Macy's recent advertisements, as printed in the New York daily papers:

THE BOOK TRUST FIGHT FROM THE READER'S AND AUTHOR'S VIEW- POINT.

Simmered down, the Book Trust attempt to maintain prices on late Books affects nobody so much as the READER of late Books. Dealers who maintain Trust prices—and ALL but Macy's do—are rewarded with an extra profit that ALWAYS COMES OUT OF THE READER'S POCKET.

If we consented to sell late Books at the Trust price—$1.08 a copy—the Trust would gladly supply us with all the Books we could handle.

Considering the actual COST OF PRODUCING a Book, the price the TRUST gets for it and the price the DEALER pays, $1.08, seems like an OUTRAGEOUS price for the READER TO PAY.

It is pretty generally understood that the Books in question cost the Trust publishers an average of 20c each to print and bind. The author's royalty, it is asserted, averages 10c to 15c a copy, bringing the total cost up to 30c or 35c a copy. Allow the publishers a fair profit and the retailer a fair profit and you must wonder WHY late Books retail for MORE THAN THREE TIMES THEIR COST.

With everybody concerned getting a GENEEROUS PROFIT, the Book Trust's fixed price could be HALVED—the reader of late Books could buy them for 54c, instead of $1.08.

Grant the publishers a profit of 10c on their outlay of 20c; allow the author a royalty of 12c a copy and the retailer a profit of 12c a copy. This is a liberal allowance all around, yet it totals only 54c. But it is evidently NOT liberal enough for the Trust members or the stores that CANNOT SELL MERCHANDISE AS CHEAPLY AS MACY'S.

Publishers ought to wax fat and prosperous on the profits they now derive. But, dissatisfied with such great returns from their comparatively small investments, they overstep the line, seeking ABSOLUTE CONTROL of a Book until it is owned by a reader.

Banded together as a Trust, they become dictators. They sell their product only to dealers who SIGN THEIR AGREEMENT TO MAINTAIN THE TRUST PRICE—$1.08. We are not in that agreement; we cannot buy Books direct, yet we get them and sell them at 98c a copy. Buying Books in a roundabout way, they cost us MORE than other dealers pay, it is true, yet we sell them for 10 PER CENT. LESS than any other store.

For several years the Book Trust has been striving to drive us out of the business. At great expense we have waged our battle in the courts, and most SUCCESSFULLY. The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals rendered a decision in our favor only a few weeks ago. There is one step more—the U. S. Supreme Court—then the Book Trust fight will be over.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, in its decision, says:

"The constitution grants to Congress power to legislate FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE AUTHOR. It is by no means clear that a free and unrestricted alienation of the Book at a reduced price would not be more beneficial to the author than the higher prices provided for by the publishers' combination for the benefit of a certain class of dealers."

This monopoly, therefore, is for the BENEFIT OF THE BOOK PUBLISHER and to the DETRIMENT OF THE AUTHOR. The latter gets only his stipulated royalty out of a Book, whatever its selling-price may be; and he gets LESS than he is entitled to by the exorbitant profit exacted by the publishers, for it is an accepted truism that THE LOWER THE PRICE THE GREATER THE CONSUMPTION.

With us it is a fight for a PRINCIPLE—THE RIGHT TO SELL GOODS AS CHEAPLY AS WE CHOOSE.

Selling for CASH, giving NO DISCOUNTS and PAYING NO COMMISSIONS, we are EASILY ABLE TO UNDERSELL ALL OTHER STORES.

Books serve as a peg on which we hang a general story. While the saving on late Books may not average more than 10 per cent., on other lines of merchandise it is very much greater. On high class imported goods, for example, you frequently find Macy prices just HALF what other stores ask for similar merchandise.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE VIRGINIA BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE VIRGINIA BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION, the oldest booktrade association in this country, made up of the wholesale and jobbing houses of Virginia, held its annual convention on July 18 at the T. P. A. headquarters in Richmond. There were present either the principals or representatives of the following firms: T. S. Beckwith, Jr., and T. Stanley Beckwith, of the firm of T. S. Beckwith & Co., of Petersburg; C. R. Caldwell, of Staunton and Roanoke; A. C. Brechin, of Charlottesville; J. E. Abbe, of Newport News; R. J. Alfriend, of Vickery & Co., Norfolk; P. H. Broulett, of Berkeley; A. Hartung, J. L. Schofield, and Hunter & Co., of Richmond; and J. O. Boatwright, of Danville. There were also present R. C. Stearnes, of the State Board of Education, and H. M. Starke, the latter being one of the founders and an honorary member of the Virginia Booksellers' Association.

The convention was called to order at 10 A.M. by the president, T. S. Beckwith, Jr. After the roll call, questions relating to the betterment of the wholesale business in the State were informally discussed.

At one o'clock the convention was adjourned. Luncheon was served in an adjoining room, and several hours passed quickly in making new and renewing old acquaintances, in relating past experiences and reminiscences.

The time taken up for rest and refreshment among any number of men is bound to be a profitable and enjoyable one, but this break in the business programme is made an especially enjoyable one by the Virginia Booksellers' Association—a "means of grace," as some one once said, "of forming life-long friendships."

During the afternoon session Mr. Stearnes, representing Mr. Eggleston, the State Superintendent of Education, addressed the convention on the "Supply of School Books." The members then discussed the subject of the prompt supply of school books at contract prices, the Association assuring the State Board of Education of its readiness to see to it that prompt supply was made. If the county dealers would not keep proper supply of books on hand, the teachers and other school officers will be supplied direct from the nearest wholesale dealer. It was also suggested that the teachers of schools in the rural sections be advised to secure their books from the booksellers and to distribute them to their pupils well in advance of the school season to prevent the habitual delay in obtaining school books when they are needed.

The election of officers resulted in the choice of T. S. Beckwith as president, C. R. Caldwell as vice-president, and J. O. Boatwright as secretary and treasurer. The following were elected members of the Executive Board: R. J. Alfriend, A. C. Brechin and J. L. Schofield. It was also voted that a special committee be appointed later to attend to such business as might arise, especially as to relations with publishers.

This meeting was a most satisfactory one. Each member seemed determined with enthusiasm to push forward and to make Virginia lead all other States in the satisfactory handling and supplying school books and school supplies. Having the earnest co-operation of the State Board of Education, the Association feels that it can materially aid in advancing the interest of the public school system.

The convention adjourned to meet at the call of the Executive Board. B. B.

THE ENGLISH MUSICAL COPYRIGHT BILL.

THE Musical Copyright bill passed its third reading in the House of Commons, on August 1, without division.

BOOKS PRINTED PARTLY IN ENGLISH DUTIABLE.

IN a decision by I. F. Fischer, the Board of United States General Appraisers overruled on July 30 a claim filed by F. Michel, of New York, it being held that books of poems printed partly in the English language are dutiable. The board interprets the tariff law to exempt from duty only publications printed exclusively in languages other than English. On this account the protest is denied.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just brought out a work on "Diet and Dietetics, by A. Gauthier, and one on "The Elements of Chemical Engineering," by J. Grossmann.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just brought out "The Man and the Master," a series of studies of the cardinal characteristics of the life of Christ. The author is the Rev. James E. Freeman, rector of St. Andrew's Church, Yonkers, who has some repute as a successful sociologist on church lines.

J. BERTRAM LIPPINCOTT, of J. B. Lippincott Company, has contributed to "The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science" for July an interesting account of "Book Publishing," touching on publishing in all its branches and phases. The same number also contains a readable article on "Journalism," by George W. Ochs, publisher of the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

CUPPLES & LEON call attention to the fact that their rights to publish "Buster Brown, His Dog Tige, and Their Jolly Times" have been established by recent decisions by Judges of the United States Court and by the Supreme Court of the State of New York, as well as by their contract with the New York Herald, who are the owners of the copyrights and trademarks of "Buster Brown."

ROBSON & ADEE, Schenectady, N. Y., have just ready an interesting work on the "Historic Towns of the Connecticut River Valley," by George S. Roberts, describing in the most delightful manner a number of the old Connecticut River towns. The book is fully illustrated and attractively gotten up. The publishers elsewhere call attention to their plan of marketing this book through bookstores only.

JOHN W. LUCE & Co., who are now settled in their new quarters on Beacon Street, Boston, have just ready the third volume of Oscar Wilde's plays, "Salome," "The Duchess of Padua" and "Vera the Nihilist." They will publish shortly an edition of "Salome," printed in a separate volume illustrated by Beardsley's pictures. Their first holiday book will be "The Misfit Christmas Pudding," written by the "Consolation Club," with illustrations deemed suitable for the season and an elaborate binding. "The Foolish Almanac for 1907" will be the sixth of the Foolish Series.

IN connection with the George Buchanan Quatercentenary Celebrations at St. Andrews a volume will be published at once by Henderson & Son, University Press, St. Andrews.

to be entitled "George Buchanan: a Memorial, 1506-1906." It will contain papers on the various aspects of the great Scottish scholar's life and work, as well as translations of his verse by students of St. Andrews, Paris and Bordeaux, and by others. The contributors include prominent professors of Scottish and French universities. An appendix will give an account of the St. Andrews celebrations, including Lord Reay's oration.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish on the 9th inst. Justus Miles Forman's new novel, "Buchanan's Wife." The story deals with modern life, the chief figure being a young and beautiful woman who has married unhappily. As a last refinement of cruelty the husband decides to evade his burdens and responsibilities, and disappears in such a manner that the wife cannot find out whether he is living or dead. The way in which the woman dares to face the cruel fate that mocks her, and to wrest to herself the happiness that should have been hers by right, makes up a novel and thrilling romance.

A. C. McCLURG & Co., of Chicago, announce among other important features for the fall a new book by Randall Parrish, to be called "Bob Hampton of Placer, a tale of Two Soldiers of the Seventh." In a general way this is a novel of what might be called Bret Harte flavor, with several characters decidedly of that sort. The scenes are laid in the Bad Lands of Dakota in the '70's. There are several exciting episodes of the kind that Mr. Parrish knows so well how to work up, culminating in a splendid description of the Custer massacre at Little Big Horn. The book will be illustrated with four full-page pictures in colors by Arthur I. Keller.

LAIRD & LEE will publish, about the 10th inst., a new book by Opie Read, entitled "By the Eternal." The story deals with an early period in American history, and depicts one of the great characters in American statesmanship—a hero who has received the homage of the nation. Although the story deals with a historical character and period, it is not, strictly speaking, a historical novel, but rather a silhouette from the past, reviving many quaint characters who sought fame and fortune among the mountains of Tennessee at the opening of the past century. The volume will have a frontispiece in three colors and a number of half-tone illustrations.

MITCHELL KENNERLEY, New York City, will publish at once "The Life of Oscar Wilde," by R. H. Sherard. It is promised that this volume will give the true facts of Wilde's career as a writer, his biography, and an account of his literary work in the many fields in which he so greatly distinguished himself. One strong purpose of the book is to dispel a number of reports which have associated themselves with his life and work. This book will give a full and detailed account of Wilde's death, gathered from the lips of the man who was holding him in his arms when he died. Mr. Sherard tells a great deal about the career of Wilde's father, which will be of interest to students of heredity. The volume contains many illustrations and facsimile documents of considerable interest.

THE art revival in Austria is the subject of the forthcoming special number of the International Studio. During recent years Austrian art has undergone remarkable development, especially in architecture and other forms of constructive and decorative art, and is particularly remarkable in comparison with other modern work in its greater freedom from eccentricity. The collateral development in pictorial art is also of exceptional interest. In this publication "Modern Painting" will be treated by Ludwig Hevesi; "Modern Plastic Art" and the "Architectural Revival in Austria," by Dr. Hugo Heberfeld, and "Decorative Art," by A. S. Levetus. This publication will contain a large number of illustrations selected from the works of acknowledged leaders, together with a number of plates in facsimile colors and photogravure.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish early in the fall Mrs. Hugh Fraser's new story, "In the Shadow of the Lord," the central figure of which is Mary Washington, the mother of the first President of the United States. The story opens in London and is continued in Virginia. Amid stirring and romantic episodes it does much to clear up the enigmas in the career of the mother of "The Father of His Country." Her husband, Augustine Washington, and her son, the young George, are also among the characters. They also announce "Everyday Ethics," by Ella Lyman Cabot, with a Key for teachers, separated from the body of the text, made up of questions, suggestions for illustrations and a bibliography; also, "Forty Lessons in Physics," by L. D. McMullen, the material of which is presented in such a manner that it may readily be made to fit the needs of individuals of varying capacity.

THE MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION of the city of New York has entered a formal protest against the continuation all summer of performances of the play "The Lion and the Mouse," on the ground that it hurts their interests. They say that at this season of the year buyers come to New York from all parts of the country, and when the local merchants offer to show them courtesies they invariably express a wish to go and see "The Lion and the Mouse." Anxious to please, the merchant has to get the seats, and one cravat manufacturer complains that he has been to see the play no fewer than forty-seven times. It was upon his protest that the Merchants Association based its action. The coming publication of "The Lion and the Mouse" in book form will relieve the pressure to some extent, as instead of spending four dollars on two seats the merchant will only have to spend $1.50 for a copy of the novel.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have just ready William Jennings Bryan's new book, "Letters to a Chinese Official," which is in some sort a reply to the "Letters from a Chinese Official" published some years ago. The story of the writing of Mr. Bryan's book has a peculiar interest of its own. Mr. Bryan was in China when the "Letters to a Chinese Official" was brought to his attention; and because he felt that the case against his own race was overstated, and too glowing a picture was painted of the condition of affairs in the Celestial Empire, he sat down in an interval, on ship-board, and wrote a reply, sending it to this country from Suez, Egypt. Mr. Bryan's book is more than a mere reply to another book. It is a glowing confession of faith in the ideals and purposes of our race, and more particularly those of the American people. It is a statement of the grounds of his own patriotism, and is permeated with a spirit of wise and serene optimism.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. will publish shortly a novel entitled "Richard the Brazen," by Cyrus Townsend Brady and Edward Peple, the author of "The Prince Chap." The characters of the story are two financial magnates, one a New Yorker and the other a Texan, with a finish feud between them, and their daughter and son, respectively, deeply in love but uncertain of each other's identities. Richard the Texan tackles the complicated problem of Eastern finance, society and love making with genuine Texan fervor, and there results such a tangle of trouble that the reader's brain fairly reels with its difficulties. They also announce Marguerite Merington's new book, "Scarlett of the Mounted," a story of "the gold-lined and ice-plated Northwest," also, a popular book on "Wireless Telegraphy," by Professor A. E. Kennelly, of Harvard, who makes the whole subject absolutely clear to the unscientific mind, sketches its history and dwells in some detail on its development in America.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish early next month a work entitled "Through Five Republics of South America," by Percy F. Martin, in which the author gives a critical description of Brazil, Chile, Uruguay, Argentine Republic and Venezuela as they came under his notice during a visit in 1905, with a description of the manners and customs and the life of the people. The volume has been adequately illustrated and also contains numerous statistical tables on the railway, financial, commercial, and sociological conditions of the countries described. They have in preparation a college story entitled "The Seventh Person," by Benjamin Brace, author of "Sunrise Acres," etc., which is based on the requirements imposed after graduation upon the life members of a college fraternity; also "Billy Boy," the story of a tender-hearted fellow and his influence on his father, with colored illustrations by Jessie Willcox Smith. Maeterlinck's new volume of essays to be published by this firm in the fall will be entitled "The Swarm."

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON will publish on August 15 a new book by S. D. Gordon, author of "Quiet Talks on Prayer," etc. The new book is entitled "Quiet Talks About Jesus," and groups in the simplest language the statements of the Bible regarding Jesus. The one thought of the author is to get a clear, simple outline, with the warm natural coloring of life of what the earnest devout Hebrew was expecting, and of what the earnest follower actually found, with an explanation of the difference. The work is arranged under four heads: (1) The purpose of Christ's coming; (2) the person of Jesus from three points of view—the human, the divine and the winsomeness of his personality; (3) the seven great outstanding experiences which reveal Jesus—his baptism, temptation, transfiguration, the Gethsemane struggle, Calvary, resurrection and ascension; (4) study notes which enable the reader to follow for himself Mr. Gordon's essential methods and thus profitably apply them to his own work and experience.

THE FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have in preparation a work in ten volumes entitled "The World's Greatest Orations," prepared by William Jennings Bryan. It is the aim of Mr. Bryan to cover practically the field of oratory from the ancient times to the present, devoting one volume to the leading Grecian orators, one volume to the Roman, two volumes to the orators of Continental Europe, two volumes to the English, one volume to the Irish, and three to the American. Some of the orations will be somewhat abridged and, when necessary, annotated. It is the purpose of Mr. Bryan to give an introduction to the "orations" of each country, elaborating his views as to the characteristics, etc., of the oratory of each nation. Francis W. Halsey, the founder and for six years the editor of the "Saturday Book Review" of the New York Times, is associated with Mr. Bryan in this work on the "Orations," and is now with him in Europe. It is proposed to publish a popular edition of the work to sell at as low a price as $10 per set. The work will be ready for delivery this fall or early winter.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. announce for immediate publication a new volume by Madison Cawein. The book, which contains the first prose work of the poet, is called "Nature Notes and Impressions," and consists of moods, fancies, descriptions, etc., sometimes in verse but oftener in prose—transcripts from nature—jotted down by the author in his note books while wandering among the woods and fields. Of Mr. Cawein's nature work John Burroughs has recently said in his volume "Far and Near" that it contains some of the "best descriptive lines in recent nature poetry." And Mr. Ferris Greenslet, the eminent critic, and an authority on poetry, whose word carries considerable weight with it, and who read Mr. Cawein's latest work in manuscript, pronounces it as one containing "a wealth of imagination and poetic observation." They also announce a volume entitled "A Woman of Wit and Wisdom," a memoir of Elizabeth Carter, by Alice C. C. Gaussen, author of "A Later Pepys." Miss Carter lived from 1717 to 1806, and was a member of the famous "Bas Bleu" society. She was a learned woman, and the translator of Epictetus. She had the warmest friendship of Horace Walpole, was adored by the Marquis of Bath, and admired by Dr. Johnson. Another book to be brought out shortly is "A Toy Tragedy," by Mrs. Henry de la Pasture, a story of children for children and their fathers and mothers.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

"A New Jane Austen"

The New York Sun says that "Superseded" by May Sinclair is "a feat that makes one wonder if in future years the quiet little English woman . . . may not be recognized as a new 'Jane Austen.'"

"Superseded" has been so favorably received that we are encouraged to issue at once (August 4th) AUDREY CRAVEN, which some of the most discriminating admirers of Miss Sinclair rank even higher than "Superseded"

Among the novels on our list most in demand are those notable pictures of English life, The Professor's Legacy and the Misses Makebelieve.

The Sun recently devoted 11 columns to a review of Alexander's A POLITICAL HISTORY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK (1774-1861) (2 vols., $5.00 net), and said this "meets a want widely felt, repeatedly expressed during the last hundred years." The sales indicate a ready market. Have you called it to the attention of customers likely to be interested? Its brilliant character studies of such leaders as Burr, Hamilton, the Clintons, etc., and its explanations of state politics make it a book to interest lawyers, politicians and students of history everywhere.

Orders from certain dealers indicate the selling possibilities in our new fern book, SLOSSON'S HOW FERNS GROW, with 46 plates, $3.00 net. Do your interested customers know that its striking plates reproduce ferns at life size and that it is, we think, the only fern book which in pictures and text treats of ferns at all stages of development and shows the relation between different ferns and between ferns and the rest of plant life?

Notwithstanding the fact that we are informed by some of our trade that our competitors have been indulging in misleading statements, regarding our right to publish the above named book, we beg to say that every Court decision has been in our favor.

Our legal and moral rights to publish have been positively established by recent decisions by Judges of the United States Court, and by the Supreme Court of New York State.

The right to publish this book was granted to us exclusively by the New York Herald Co., who are the sole owners of the copyright and trade mark of "BUSTER BROWN."

CUPPLES & LEON, 101 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

grim's Progress" and Cervantes wrote part of "Don Quixote" in jail. Defoe planned "Robinson Crusoe" during a term of enforced confinement, during which time he also founded and edited The Review, and wrote besides other pamphlets, etc., a "Collection of Casualties and Disasters." Leigh Hunt, under the same circumstances, wrote "Rimini." The few peaceful years of Raleigh's storm-tossed life which he spent as a prisoner in the Tower of London were given in large part to the writing of his glowing if inaccurate "History of the World." Tasso composed the best of his "Dialoghi" and much of the "Jerusalem Delivered" in the jail at Ferrara, and Silvio Pellico touched the heart of Europe with words that he penned in a cell. Severinus Boethius, the Roman statesman and philosopher, in the prison at Paria, composed his "De consolatione philosophiae," in 525, and Schubart, the hero of Schiller's "Die Räuber," composed much of his lyric work and his autobiography during his confinement at the Hohenasperg.

"There must be something in this," according to a writer in a recent issue of the New York Sun. "So many examples should not go for naught. Man is supposed to learn from the history which is behind him. Might one then venture the opinion that if every one of our present day authors who is laboring so hard to establish a bank account and a standard American literature could be put in jail the result would be highly beneficial, and in ten years America would be aesthetically improved a hundred per cent.? The plan looks feasible. As a beginning, it is suggested that we 'send up' Cyrus Townsend Brady. The pen, as Tom Hood would say, is the place for the devotees of the pen."

COMMUNICATIONS.

BOOKS AND UTOPIA.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I am quite delighted to see at last, by your issue of September 1, some serious consideration of the "Way Out" question.

How you have "squelched" me! "The law of the land, economic law and human nature" the only obstacles in the way of working on the plans outlined? Then it's easy!

Perhaps there is room for discussing the points raised and questioning the fact of those obstacles existing.

As to the law of the land, legal lights must settle legal details. But a large part of the little education of the writer was in the law, before business, and he has had a very considerable amount of strenuous experience in connection with organizing and managing corporations—and lawyers he has come in contact with, as counsel and opposing, have never called him "chimerical."

I think it is quite safe to say it will not be hard to find a legal way of reaching beneficent ends; and there can be no question that the ends sought by plans outlined are for the good of all concerned—publisher, dealer and buyer. They eliminate waste, secure stability and make possible reduction in price to consumers.

If "Standard Oil," the "Steel Corporation," the leather trade, and others can "get together," is it not on its face absurd to assume that book interests cannot find a way of working together for mutual advantage, and the injury of no one?

At the time of the effort to organize book interests years ago which resulted in the United States Book Co. fiasco, as a sort of mental exercise and satisfaction of curiosity, having only trifling personal interest in the practical question, I made as close a study of the subject as I was capable of, with the help of two most competent corporation lawyers, (James B. Dill was one of them, for years, before and after, my attorney,) and reached the conclusion that publishing was probably, of all business interests, the easiest to effectually combine and control. One day Lovell, having been, up to that time, unsuccessful in working up his "combination," authorized me to have incorporation papers drawn for organizing on plans I had developed; the next day he had "raised the wind" and rushed through his "Gobble" scheme, and my "co-operation" plan was put aside.

Here is the nutshell of it, put as near as possible in A B C simplicity:

Scribner and Putnam, publishers of books not in competition, wish to co-operate and eliminate waste. Scribner for many years has had a subscription department in which the exclusive agency principle has always been fundamental. They decide to apply the same principle to their general trade.

Now note: In typewriter-selling it is quite out of the question for the "Remington" and the "Oliver" to employ the same exclusive agent, as it is also for the "New York" and the "Equitable" Life companies.

But in books it is a positive advantage for Scribner and Putnam to use the same dealer as exclusive local bookstore, and a further advantage if seven other "sane" publishers, or seventy-seven, join them.

Every bookbuyer of the town and tributary country soon learns that there is one place where he can get any book of theirs, and see most popular books; he saves shoe leather and self-respect in "shopping" for "inducements" among several petty bookstores, none of which, probably, will have in hand what he wants.

The local dealer is obliged, in consideration of "exclusive" arrangement, to carry liberal stock, and is made safe in doing so. His profits, as now, depend on the extent of his sales, and he will "push," especially as he knows he and not a local competitor will reap the result of any effort he makes.

As to your "economic law" and "human nature" obstacles, I think it would be very easy to show the difficulties to be imaginary, and if permitted, and it seems worth while, I may discuss those points later. But I cannot believe that hard-headed, successful business men will study the question seriously and fail to recognize the simple common sense of the essential features of the plans proposed. Details may be varied indefinitely.

There is surely no better reason why specified books shall not be sold at uniform price than that specified railroad tickets shall not.

My plan leaves the questions of prices and discounts in the hands of each individual publisher.

Second printing before publication

THERE can be little doubt that the author who charmed thousands of readers with her child stories of "The Wouldbegoods," has scored an even greater success in the field of story telling for grown-ups.

The Incomplete Amorist

Through Bookstores Only

Roberts' new book is ready, and we sidestep an old practice of the publishing trade and sell the book through bookstores only. In no case is the transportation charged to the retailer, and the discounts are: $\frac{1}{4}$ on single copies, $\frac{1}{4}$ and 5 on five, $\frac{1}{4}$ and 10 on ten copies.

We want the bookseller's co-operation to the fullest extent. Our advertising will be directed to bring inquiries to us, then the order is turned over to a local bookseller. In most cases the book is sent on the purchaser's approval—any that are returned may be shipped back charges collect.

This is the book:

"Historic Towns of the Connecticut River Valley," by Geo. S. Roberts, is just what its title implies, a delightful description of the old Connecticut River towns. It is a beautiful book, and fairly abounds with illustrations. It is receiving more favorable reviews than any previous Connecticut Valley history.

The price is $3.50 net. Order a copy to show those of your customers who know a "good thing"—every bookseller has a few such.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $12.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $13.00 each.

The Annual American Catalog, 1905

Contains in one alphabet a record of all books published that year, under author, title, subject and series entries; also under author's name an alphabetical list of the same titles with descriptive annotations from The Publishers' Weekly, etc. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists, fully indexed, at the end of the volume. Indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Index to the Publishers' Trade List Annual, 1902, out of print.

The Supplementary Index, 1903-1904, 500 pages, 8vo, cloth, with thumb index, $3.00. The alphabet in this volume is supplementary to the original Index of 1902.

The American Educational List

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

Whitaker's Reference Catalogue of Current Literature, 1906. (London, J. Whitaker & Sons.)

The Library Journal

Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription $4.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 35 cents. Price to Europe or other countries in the Union, 16s. a year; single numbers, 1s. 6d.

The Library Index to Periodicals and Current Events

Published monthly, with a quarterly cumulation (indexing the periodicals taken in most libraries, large and small). Subscription, $3.00 per year. Single monthly numbers, 25 cents; quarterly numbers, 50 cents each.

The Annual Library Index

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. (Published annually) 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

English Catalogue of Books (Annual)

Containing a complete list of all the books published in Great Britain and Ireland in the calendar year, with index to subjects. (London, Sampson Low, Marston & Co.) 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

Directory of Publishers

Contains names and addresses of 3876 firms and individuals who issued books in the U. S. from Jan. 1, 1900 to Jan. 1, 1905. (Reprinted from The American Catalog.) 8vo, leatherette, red edges, $1.00.

The Profession of Bookselling

A handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GROWL, managing editor of The Publishers' Weekly, author of "A Bookseller's Library," "Three Centuries of English Booktrade Bibliography," etc. Parts 1 and 2. 8vo boards, each $2.00. (Concluding part in preparation.)

Publications of Societies

A provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary and other societies, from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules nearly 1,000 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 8vo, paper, $2.50.

State Publications

A provisional list of the official publications of the several States of the United States from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Part 1: New England States. The Notable Novels of the Season

Owen Wister's LADY BALTIMORE

Winston Churchill's CONISTON

"It ought to give heart to the most pessimistic to find two such books from American hands in one season as 'LADY BALTIMORE,' with its refinement of style, charm of characterization, and emphasis on the pieties of social life—reverence, courtesy and idealism expressed in human relations, and Mr. Winston Churchill's very effective types in 'CONISTON' of American rural character, as original and distinctive as they are entertaining and convincing."—The Outlook, New York.

"It is remarkable that two such novels as 'LADY BALTIMORE' and 'CONISTON' should have appeared in the same year. Both are superb portrayals, in low tints and exquisite shadings, of distinctive and picturesque phases of American life, . . . the finest and truest transcripts of modern American life thus far achieved in our fiction."—Record-Herald, Chicago.

ANNABEL

SUZANNE METCALF

The First
Young Folks

Little men and women of today are reading selected novels with the consent of parents. ANNABEL breathes the purest thoughts and impulses of a girl blossoming into womanhood and portrays her gentle influence on the life of a struggling boy. The love thread has "no beginning and no ending," but its subtle existence between the lines appeals to the noblest instincts of boy or girl. Parents enjoy and recommend this book.

AUNT JANE'S NIECES

BY

A Fascinating
Character Story
About Real Girls

This is the best girl's story to appear since "Little Women." It is about a rich aunt, hitherto neglectful, who desires to leave her large estate to one of her kin. Three nieces are invited to stay a month with her. The visit is full of real girl doings. Interest never lags, as the author cleverly conceals until the very last what everyone wants to know.

 LITTLE BOOKS OF ART. This series forms an exquisitely artistic little library of art. Daintily bound, artistically printed and copiously illustrated, they are practically indispensable to the art lover. Four new titles are now ready—"Raphael," "Greek Art," "Van Dyke," "Millet." Cloth, $1.50. (Ready.)

 HUMPTY DUMPTY AND OTHER SONGS. By Joseph Moorat. A very beautiful child's book, containing many of the old favorite nursery rhymes set to music, with illustrations by Paul Woodroffe. Among the compositions are: The King of France, Hush-a-Bye Baby, Rub a Dub Dub, Humpty Dumpty, Bye Baby Bunting, There Was a Crooked Man, Three Little Mice, etc., etc. Boards, $1.25. (Ready.)

 TOASTS. Compiled by William Ramsey. A clever little volume, artistically decorated by Gerta Schroedter. Printed in green and black, with colored frontispiece and cover design. Cloth, 50 cents. (Ready.)

 A PRAYER. By Max Ehrmann. This beautiful prayer, which has had a circulation of about half a million copies, is printed with several other choice prose poems by the same author in an artistic little volume in gold and two colors. One of the most successful books made this year. Leatherette, 75 cents; ooze leather, $1.50. (Ready.)

 TOLD TO THE LITTLE TOT. Edmund Vance Cooke's first book for children is going to make a decided hit everywhere. Bound uniform with his volume of poems about children, "Chronicles of the Little Tot," and containing thirty-nine illustrations by Bessie Collins Pease, nine in full color. There is probably no one in the world better fitted to tell stories to children than Mr. Cooke. His recent poems about children show a wonderful insight and a thorough knowledge of child-life and character, and in a very short time Mr. Cooke's poems have obtained a wide and cordial reception. Cloth, $1.50. (Ready.)

Mr. Cooke's other works are "Rimes to be Read," miscellaneous poems, cloth, $1.50; "Chronicles of the Little Tot," poems about children, cloth, $1.50.

NOTES IN SEASON.

MATTHEW BENDER & Co., Albany, N. Y., have just ready a timely book in "The Law of Automobiles," by Xenophon P. Huddy, of the New York Bar, a comprehensive and complete presentation of the Common and Statutory law governing the operation of motor vehicles in the United States and England, including the reported cases. Among the subjects treated are Evidence and Proof of Speed, Rights of the Automobile on Public Streets and Highways, Operation of Motor Cars, etc.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish in September "Set in Authority," the new story by Sara Jeanette Cotes, author of "A Social Departure," etc. The story deals with the life of the English in India and of the social set which dominates English politics. They will publish later in the fall "Confessions to a Heathen Idol," by Marian Lee. The story is told by the heroine, who is just past forty, and who relates her experiences and observations in the guise of confessions to a teakwood idol on her desk. The scenes of the story unfolded in these confessions are in an inland college town.

H. M. CALDWELL COMPANY offer for the "Dog Days" the "Recollections of a Gold-Cure Graduate: being extracts from the Journal of Phillip Allin," by Newton Newkirk, with illustrations by Wallace Goldsmith. The first edition of this book, which is dedicated "to the man who can take the book or leave it alone," was ten thousand copies, and was taken up at once. A second edition is now in press. Uniform with the above are "Reflections of the Morning After," by Herman Lee Meader, and "The Log of the Water Wagon, or, the Cruise of the Good Ship Lithia," by Bert Leston Taylor and W. C. Gibson.

THE MONARCH BOOK COMPANY, Chicago, announce a new novel by Stanley Waterloo, author of "The Story of Ab," entitled "The Cassowary," a love story which, while entirely different in plot and in all essential features, will remind the reader of the author's first novel, "A Man and a Woman," because of its intensity and vigor. The book will have twelve illustrations in color. They also announce "John Dorn, Promoter," by Charles Eugene Banks, author of "In Hampton Roads," etc., a story of modern finance with an idealistic trend, illustrated by August Abelmann; and "Poker Jim, Gentleman," by G. Frank Lydston, a story of the old-time California mining camps by a native son of the "Golden West."

THE REILLY & BRITTON COMPANY, Chicago, announce a novelty in the shape of a novel for little folks by Suzanne Metcalf, entitled "Annabel." The story traces the development of a girl into womanhood and portrays her gentle influence on the life of a struggling boy. A love thread runs through the story that is calculated to appeal to the noblest instinct of any boy or girl. The book will have six duo-tone illustrations by H. Putnam Hall, and will be daintily bound in cloth with inlaid picture on the cover. They also announce "Aunt Jane's Nieces," by Edith Van Dyne, a character story about real girls. The story tells of the visit of three girls who are invited to spend a month with their rich aunt, hitherto neglectful, who desires to leave her large estate to one of her kin. The visit is full of real girl doings and interest never lags, as the author cleverly conceals until the end what the reader wishes to know. The book will have six illustrations by E. A. Nelson.

By the author of "Walks and rides in the country about Boston," "Historic pilgrimages in New England," etc. There are mingled, with descriptions of the longest river in New England and one of the fairest valleys of the country, narratives of Indian and colonial wars, of evolution of democratic government, of the pioneer development of industries, of the upbuilding of many institutions of learning and of the growth and unfolding of the genuine American character. The writer has gone to original authorities, and some long believed historical facts have been relegated to their place among inspiring legends.

Bartlett, Maro Loomis. Chic., W. M. Welch Co., 1906. c. 144 p. O. cl., 35 c.

The author and compiler was formerly instructor in music in the public schools of New York City. He is now Director of Des Moines Musical College, Des Moines, Ia., of which he was the founder in 1888. He believes children should learn to sing musically and clearly with fitting expression before they learn to sing by note, holding that "music is of more importance than the symbols that represent it."

Boissier, Gaston. Tacitus, and other Roman studies; tr. by W. G. Hutchinson. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. 6+277 p. D. cl., $1.75.

The author of these essays is professor of Latin eloquence at the Collège de France and Perpetual Secretary of the Académie Française. In his study of Tacitus, at this day the most read of Roman classics, he emphasizes questions discussed in Germany and France respecting the manner in which Tacitus conceived of history and respecting his way of judging events and men. The other essays are entitled: The schools of declamation at Rome; The Roman journal; The poet Martial. All serve for the elucidation of the first essay.

- Christian science and legislation: The endeavor to handicap truth, by E. A. Kimball; Christian science and legislation, by Judge Clifford P. Smith; Christian science: a practical religion, by Judge Septimus J. Hanna; with testimonies, editorial comments and appendix. Bost., Christian Science Publishing Society, 1905. c. 112 p. 12°, pap., 10 c.
The medical profession has asked nearly every legislature of the United States to prohibit the practice of Christian Science mind-healing, but the law-making departments have refused to enact such laws because such legislation would interfere with individual liberty. This book is specially published by the Christian Scientists to prove their right to practice healing without college learning or any examination before the medical profession. Judge Clifford P. Smith, of the Iowa Bench, for many years a Christian Scientist, sums up the case of Christian Science. Much of the book is given up to cases of healing performed by Christian Science when long years of other methods had failed. The appendix sums up the unsuccessful attempts to obtain legislation against Christian Science.

Francis B. Crocker is professor of electrical engineering, Columbia University; Schuyler S. Wheeler is president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. Since the appearance of the first edition in 1892, one complete revision has been made and corrections have been introduced from time to time. This is another thorough and radical revision. Obsolete matter, especially that relating to constant-current motors and constant-current machines, has been almost eliminated. The new material relates to the management of alternating-current generators and motors, both single and in polyphase; also to railway motors. A great deal of the work has been done by Morton Arendt, of the electrical department of Columbia University.

Freeman, Rev. Ja. E. The man and the Master. N. Y., T. Whittaker, [1906.] c. 11+127 p. D. cl., *75 c. net.

Author is rector of St. Andrew's Memorial Church, Yonkers, N. Y. The book does not set forth in any chronological order the life of Jesus; it simply deals with certain phases of that life and seeks to lay emphasis upon its cardinal characteristics. That Jesus became man unfitted Him in the Hebrew mind for Messiahship. The author points out that no religion is complete without a relation to every department of life, and that the man and the Master fulfilled every condition that can arise here and hereafter.

A leisurely voyage, stopping at everything that presents interest in the remote shires of Gloucester, Worcester and Warwick. The voyagers loiter to talk about birds, beasts and flowers, to converse with the rustics about local histories and legends and to sing songs and sonnets identified with Shakespeare's river. Much space is devoted to Stratford-on-Avon, ancient and modern. History, legend and literature have been searched for the events that have made this river famous.

Granger, Anna D. Skat and how to play it. Buffalo, N. Y., Matthews-Northrup Works, [1906.] c. 5-79 p. S. cl., $1.

An old German game of cards, played with a euchre deck by three people, two always playing against one. Each game is complete in itself. The amount of mathematical induction required in the player, the high score possible, and the elements of chance in the game, lead the author to designate Skat the most scientific game of cards. The player may announce one of ten versions of the game he will play and he must make 61 points or count nothing. It is said Skat is to supersede Bridge. A tournament is now going on in Buffalo, N. Y., where Miss Granger is a teacher of the game. William II. of Germany is a scientific Skat player.

Author is editor of The Modern Heretic, published at Los Angeles, Cal. He has long held that "there must be something wrong with the evolution theory," and some years ago he discovered "the phenomenal weakness of the geological argument." The results of his investigations have grown into the present work. He thought "the twentieth century could afford at least one book built up from the present, instead of being postulated from the past."

- Smith, C. E. Cumulative speller and short-hand vocabulary; designed for use in business colleges, academies, etc. N. Y., Sir I: Fitman & Sons, [1906.] 3+145 p. S. cl. 75 c.
Each lesson consists of sixteen new words, the first twelve of which are respelled phonetically and defined. The syllabication, pronunciation and definition of the remaining four words are assigned as home-work. A home-work dictionary, covering all these words, is included in the speller. The average shorthand writer is weak in spelling, and the exercises of this book are designed by constant repetition to impress correct spelling with the art of stenography. Spelling and pronunciation are according to the "Standard dictionary."

Author is president of the Association Phonétique Internationale and professor of English Philology in the University of Marburg, Prussia. To the last moment he has turned every book on his subject to account. He is not treating of Modern English, nor even of Elizabethan, phonology but of the pronunciation adopted by Shakespeare in his published works. The rime-index to the poems therefore forms an integral part of the work. The second volume is to be "A Shakespeare reader in the old spelling and with phonetic transcription." It is already in press.

Washington, G: Letters and recollections of George Washington: being letters to Tobias Lear and others between 1790 and 1799, showing the first American in the management of his estate and domestic affairs; with a diary of Washington's last days kept by Mr. Lear; il. from rare old photographs and engravings. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. c. '05, '06. 11+289 p. O. cl., $2.50 net.

Tobias Lear was born in 1760 in Portsmouth,

N. H., graduated from Hartford in 1783 and entered at once as tutor to Washington's adopted children. Afterwards he became Washington's private secretary, which he remained for sixteen years, till Washington's death. The letters to Tobias Lear contained in this volume were copied from the originals and furnished to Jared Sparks in 1852 by the son of Tobias Lear while he was preparing Washington's writings for the press. The book contains chiefly information about Washington as a country gentleman, and brings out his marvelous knowledge of detail on a vast variety of domestic, industrial and social subjects.

Webster, Noah. Webster's condensed dictionary: a condensed dictionary of the English language, giving the correct spelling, pronunciation and definitions of words, based on the unabridged dictionary of Noah Webster; ed. under the supervision of Noah Porter, president of Yale University, by Dorsey Gardner, with 1500 il. Chic., Reilly & Britton Co., 1906. c. 794 p. col. front. map, D. cl., $1.25; hf. mor., $1.50; leath., $2.

With an appendix comprising a pronouncing vocabulary of biblical, classical, mythological, historical and geographical proper names; abbreviations used in writing and printing; and arbitrary signs used in writing and printing.

Webster, Noah. Webster's new standard dictionary of the English language, adapted for all intermediate grades; thirty thousand words, with pronunciations, definitions, synonyms, plurals of nouns, degrees of adjectives, irregular forms of verbs, including hundreds of new words, key to pronunciation foot of each page, abbreviations in common use and other encyclopedic features; comp. by E: T: Roe. Intermediate school ed. Chic., Laird & Lee, [1906.] c. 454 p. S. cl., 50 c.

Contains 30,000 vocabulary words and over 5000 synonyms; proper nouns are indicated by capital initials and degrees of adjectives, plurals of nouns and irregular forms of verbs are given. Hand composition, new plates, good legible type and special paper. 600 text engravings arranged in direct connection with the words to be illustrated.

Webster, Noah. Webster's practical dictionary: a practical dictionary of the English language, giving the correct spelling, pronunciation and definitions of words based on the unabridged dictionary of Noah Webster; ed. under the supervision of Noah Porter by Dorsey Gardner, with nearly 1500 il. Chic., Reilly & Britton Co., 1906. c. 634 p. D. Ideal ed., cl., 80 c.; Concise ed., 65 c.; Popular ed., 40 c.

The practical dictionary is an abridgment of the well-known Webster's "Condensed dictionary." The appendix of the Ideal ed. consists of a pronouncing vocabulary, alphabetical list of abbreviations, arbitrary signs, metric system of weights and measures, etc. The Concise ed. corresponds exactly to the Ideal ed., except that the 106 pages of appendix are omitted. The Popular ed. is identical with the Concise ed., except it is not printed on paper of quite so high a grade.

Author is conductor of Teachers' Institute, State of New York, Education Department. He points out that the early inhabitants of New England kept diaries, and their descendants have written histories which have made the history of these states familiar to boys and girls. The Dutch, Irish, Scotch, Germans, Welsh, French and other nationalities who settled the great state of New York talked less of their deeds. To make these familiar also this book is written. Bibliography of works consulted (2 p.). Valuable appendices.

World (The) and its peoples photographed and described: a political, geographical, social, and commercial history of the various countries of the world and their political dependencies; with more than one thousand excellent half-tone illustrations from rare photographs and containing one hundred and fourteen pages of maps from original drawings representing all the countries of the globe. BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE OFFICE OF THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has published "The American Educational List" for 1906, in substantial leatherette binding. The list contains in one alphabet the titles of current school books and their prices, with a Key to Publishers and a classified index of subjects. Preserved in this permanent form the list will be found useful for reference throughout the coming year. (112 p. 8°, 50 cents.)

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Americus Book Co., Americus, Ga., Americana. (No. 20, 24 p. 8°).—Albert Britnell, 241 Yonge St., Toronto, Canada, Clearance catalogue of interesting books. (No. 68, 1007 titles).—Burgersdijk & Niermans, Leyden, Holland, Bibliotheca Philologica Classica. Pars I., Scriptores Græci. (No. 50, 5026 titles).—Arthur H. Clark Co., Caxton Building, Cleveland, O., Americana. (No. 16, 578 titles).—The Franklin Bookshop, 1105 Walnut St., Philadelphia, Natural history, foreign travels, etc. (No. 158, 425 titles).—Henry R. Huntington, 317 Main St., Springfield, Mass., Clearance catalogue of second-hand and new books, relating mostly to America. (285 titles).—Bernard Quaritch, 15 Piccadilly, London, Rare and valuable books on America and Australasia, Bibles, classics, cookery, Early printed books, English history and literature, etc., Numismata, Oriental history and literature, political history, typography, woodcuts, etc. (No. 251, 1004 titles. 1s.)

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE Twentieth Century has been sold by John Brisben Walker to a new company, which proposes to make it a magazine of general interest.

WALTER A. JOHNSON, for five years connected with Doubleday, Page & Co.'s Country Life in America, the Garden Magazine, etc., and others have purchased the Four Track News from George H. Daniels, and beginning with the October issue the new publishers will change the name to the Travel Magazine.

AN interesting series is to be begun in the September issue of Scribner's Magazine—a description of the first forty years of Washington society. It will be from the diaries and letters of Mrs. Samuel Harrison Smith, a member of the well-known Bayard family. The first article will deal with "Washington in Jefferson's Time." An account will be given of the social and political life of the capital, a first inaugural ball, and impressions of Jefferson. The article will be illustrated with portraits and contemporary silhouettes.

PERSONAL NOTES.

DON M. PARKER, for some time with McClure, Phillips & Co., has been appointed Eastern agent of The House Beautiful, with offices at No. 1 Madison Square, New York City.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 11, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE VACATION SEASON.

SOME time ago, in conversation with an old-time bookseller, when Saturday half-holidays, and vacations in general, were among subjects discussed, the old-time bookseller waxed wroth and, pounding a pile of dusty books near which he stood, fumed that "this talk about shutting up the shop a half day on Saturdays and giving his people a vacation is all rot." He had been in business forty years, he continued, and had never taken a rest in the day time, not even on Sundays nor holidays; and as for deliberately shutting up his place of business on a week-day, why, he considered it "suicide—suicide!" Nor would he grant his help a vacation. Vacations he considered a device of the devil to tempt idle folks to ruin. If any of his people wanted a vacation, let them so much as hint at it and they might know that their walking-papers were ready for them. And, indeed, the man, his shop and his help all gave mute evidence of the need of a change. The man, in his isolation, had grown crabbed, narrow-minded, and had remained fully forty years behind the times. His store looked unkempt, and his ever-changing help was unready and, in deportment, an echo of their chief. When Saturday half-holidays became popular, and this old-time bookseller's neighbors during the summer months closed their stores on Saturday afternoons, his store did not, as he expected it would, overrun with the customers of his competitors in search of the books they could not obtain in the closed shops; on the contrary. As the patrons of his competitors' stores were notified in time that no business would be done on Saturday afternoons, they frequented that neighborhood only on Saturday mornings, and after that very likely sought the cool shades of the woods. So the streets were deserted, and our friend, the old-time bookseller, and his help were doomed to swelter alone and forsaken in their den. Yet he persistently harangued against holidays and begrudged himself and all around him a rest until the Reaper gathered him in.

We have cited perhaps an extreme case; but there are still too many, especially booksellers, who, though they put up with the Saturday half-holidays and the legal holidays, and grudgingly grant to their help a brief respite from their trying work, scoff at the notion of taking a rest themselves. Yet, aside from the physical benefits derived from a temporary withdrawal from active business life, these persons who argue that they cannot afford to leave their business, overlook the greater benefit that may be derived from roaming abroad in "rubbing up against" other people and rubbing off some of their own rough edges, in imbibing other ideas, in short, in broadening their point of view and in enlarging their horizon.

It were well for a bookseller, even if he cannot take enjoyment, as Walt Whitman did, in loafing and inviting his soul, in "the great green miles of the forests and meadows," or at the shores of the lakes or the boundless sea, to break away from his environment, and in other cities and towns observe the methods of doing business practiced by his confrères. He may thus, while enjoying a change of scene and environment gain knowledge that will broaden him in the conduct and improvement of his own business for another year. A month's trip to foreign lands in these days of cheap and quick travel, especially the time taken up by the voyage across the sea and back, would help wonderfully to brush the cobwebs out of the brain of any bookseller who must keep shop during the remaining eleven months of the year; and a few weeks spent at some book centre like London, Paris or Leipzig, would not only add to his store of information, but yield valuable and profitable additions to his book stock as well.

Finally, the greatest advantage that the head of any business may derive from a season of rest, away from the distractions and worry of his environment, is the opportunity it affords of thinking out quietly and deliberately accumulated and undigested plans for the future. "Working like a piece of machinery driven by an 'individual motor' the year through without rest," as The American Printer has truly said, "will in time land its victim on a sick bed or in a sanitarium, without having afforded him an hour's time for careful consideration—for the mental digestion—of the numerous schemes and plans for the improvement and development of his business that may have been for years running wild through his active brain."

As for the threadbare excuse of vacations interfering with business, we offer the cheerful paradox: "If fishing interferes with your business, quit your business."

OCCASIONALLY the officers of the American Publishers' Association are appealed to by booksellers to take action against members of the Association for favoring certain of their constituents in the matter of discounts, etc. As there seems to be a doubt in the minds of some of the trade as to the scope of the Association, it should be clearly understood that the American Publishers' Association does not undertake to regulate either the price of a book or the discount at which it is sold to the trade, that is to say, the price at which the book is to be sold to the public or the price at which it is to be sold to the trade. It is in this respect that it differs from a "trust," which fixes as well as maintains prices. The American Publishers' Association confines itself to providing that after the publisher has, according to his individual judgment, fixed the price of a book, that price shall be maintained for a specified time, in justice to the retail trade, in sales from the retail trade to the public. Of course, excessive discounts tend to induce price-breaking and underselling, and are therefore dangerous, and if any agent of a publisher uses such a discount to break prices he should be subject to prompt discipline by the publisher thus misrepresented. We may add our own expression of opinion, outside any questions concerning the American Publishers' Association, that a discount to an "agent" larger than that allowed to the retail trade is most unwise and, we think, unjust, and that over-"liberal" discounts instead of giving a retailer a "living" profit defeat their aim, because either they invite price-breaking or they lead the public to conclude, not without reason, that the retail price fixed for the book is larger than it ought to be if so much discount can be permitted.

THE VOYNICH COLLECTION OF LOST AND UNKNOWN BOOKS.

Just four years ago Wilfrid M. Voynich, the well-known London dealer in rare books, had on exhibition a collection of lost or unknown books. None of them had ever been described by bibliographers, and their rarity is attested by the fact that since the exhibition was closed not more than two or three of them have been duplicated. The collection was offered for sale as a whole in the hope that it would be acquired by some public institution, and, though this has not precisely occurred, the collection has been purchased by private subscription and offered to the trustees of the British Museum for their acceptance.

The collection, according to the London Athenæum, "contains several very rare incunabula; three issues of Magini's famous atlas, which will form a useful addition to the Museum copy; some early Icelandic tracts; one of the earliest popular guides to Rome in English; and some early editions of the famous 'Dictionary of Six Languages.' . . . Since the donation of the Grenville collection, sixty years ago, no gift approaching this in importance has been made to the British Museum Library, with the single exception of the Ashby Collection of Cervantes Literature."

LITHOGRAPHERS ON STRIKE.

THE Executive Council of the Lithographers' International Protective Association of the United States and Canada on the 1st inst. ordered a strike of all the men employed in every plant in both countries where the employers are members of the National Association of Employing Lithographers.

The employers have an association made up of most of the large lithographing firms, its members representing more than 75 per cent. of the trade in America. The employees' association, one of the strongest union bodies in this country and Canada, includes the artists' union, the stonegrinders' union, the pressmen, transferers and provers, and is affiliated with the Federation of Labor. The trouble between the employers and their men dates from July 9, when the men demanded a 48-hour instead of a 53-hour week of work.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE PUBLISHERS BLAMED.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: The disastrous demoralization in the booktrade, lasting these many years, is chargeable directly to the publishers.

The fact that it is disastrous, or most injurious to them, as well as to the dealers and to book readers, makes it only the more remarkable that they should not have cured the trouble long ago when "the way out" is so plain and easy, as pointed out in a recent communication from the writer to your paper.

Why "guilty" publishers?

Because the publishing business is in its essential nature monopolistic in character—more than almost any other line of trade—and publishers control the situation—they can do what they will, therefore are blamable for not having done the right thing long ago.

They are not only "guilty" as a class, but in large measure as individuals, since it does not require that all publishers shall "combine" to secure in large measure the desired results. Even alone any large publisher would exercise immense influence toward a sane settlement of the difficulties, by acting on the lines of "the way out," and three or ten leading publishers acting together would achieve for themselves such great and special advantages over "outside" publishers as practically to "compel" all publishers to join them.

What advantages?

Cost of handling books would be greatly diminished.

Cost of "drumming" would be reduced half to three-fourths.

Cost of advertising would come down 50 to 75 per cent.

Publishers, and this long-continued, foolish, humiliating "child's play" at bookselling!

Put a thriving, genuine bookstore, where books are carried in stock into every town of 5000 or more population on the continent, and the healthy nucleus of another in every village of 500 or more.

You can do it. It is a shame to you that it is not so now. It will "pay" you to do so—and "what are you there for?"

Very truly yours,

JOHN B. ALDEN.

BIBLE HOUSE, N. Y. CITY, Aug., 1906.

ALDEN'S WAY NOT THE "WAY OUT."

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I have waded through that remarkable compilation of italics, interrogations, quotations, exclamations and equations which appeared in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of July 21, under the heading "The Way Out." In order to comprehensively express my opinion of the value of the scheme as set forth, I must also use an equation, viz., $0+0=$ "The Way Out."

My understanding of the object of the A. P. A., is to the effect that the organization was founded with the distinct idea of encouraging the small dealer to continue in business; consequently, were they to operate after the plan suggested by Mr. Alden, they would be at direct variance with their declared purpose.

It is a fact well known to all publishers and jobbers that in order to secure a maximum output a maximum number of retail distributing agencies must be maintained, (this is ably set forth in Section II. of your editorial "Backing the Bookseller;") hence the appointing of an agency which would have the exclusive sale of all books published by the members of the A. P. A. would have the effect of curtailing the total number of books sold, the very opposite of that which is desired.

"Frank Lovell, in his last scheme . . . has 'got onto' a hint of the successful way." Did he? Well, let us see if he did it. Mr. Lovell's scheme, according to his announcement, was to bring out in book form a number of novels, by representative (?) authors, which were first to be run serially in a number of syndicate newspapers; the book when published to be sold by an exclusive agent in each city, said agent to be appointed by the publisher, provided—er—well—that he bought a sufficient number of copies.

After much talk "The Rock in the Baltic," by Robert Barr, was published and put on sale and advertised "to be had only of the agent at the list price, fifty cents," no more, no less. In less than twenty-four hours local dealers other than the agent were offering the work for sale as low as forty-five cents. Where their supply came from was a mystery to the majority. Acting under the rule of exemption in law, I refuse to give any evidence on the ground that it would tend to incriminate me.

This was being clubbed by your own price quotations with a vengeance. Report has it that the second book of the series, by Amelia Barr, has been published, although I have not seen it nor have we had any demand for it. Judging from my knowledge of the perspicacity of the gentleman who was appointed the local agent for New York, I should say that the promoter of the scheme will not be able to "hand him another lemon" like the first.

"Equity," says the article, "would require that the A. P. A. should see that the appointed local agent should buy out or make a square deal with other local dealers." In this connection it would be interesting to note the number of "Gastons" and "Alphonsees" which would immediately make their appearance in the booktrade. Imagine "Gaston" D. saying to "Alphonse" J. R. W., "I beg that you will accept the exclusive agency for Pittsburg;" or our baseball loving friend, Gaston De W. F. importuning Alphonse L. to allow him to "strike out" in his favor for Boston! Beside all this, how many dealers in the small towns would be financially able to buy out their competitors?

As a finale, the gentleman says, "The ball will not be difficult to roll, and will grow like the snow-ball at every turn."

Seems to me that I have heard of snow-balls before; in fact, I was forced to eat them, as a regular diet, for at least two winters in my life; so please count me out when it comes to snow-balls. In starting them to roll we must remember the old adage, couched in Bostonese, "A revolving fragment of the palæozoic age collects no cryptogamous vegetation."

The ball will undoubtedly grow at every turn; but when subjected to the hot sun of competition it will last about as long as the epidermal growth of a Cincinnati Regius would resist incineration when subjected to the torrid atmosphere of the realm supposed to be presided over by Mephistopheles.

Yours sincerely,

R. E. SHERWOOD.

A SUGGESTION FOR CONTROLLING PRICES. To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I have noticed several articles in the WEEKLY recently about the conditions of the booktrade, and, especially, those relating to the price-cutting movement practiced by those retailing books during the past few years. Legitimate booksellers have found it difficult to make any money and to meet the competition of unscrupulous price-cutters. Is there no possible hope of a betterment of these conditions among retailers? If anything is accomplished it must be done by the publishers. And I will call the attention of these latter to the methods of the Eastman Kodak Company, dealing in kodaks and photographic supplies. This company without any doubt has a system of distribution which has been declared lawful, which does not violate the anti-trust law, and which accomplishes the best results for both the manufacturer and the retailer. With one or more dealers in each town, according to size, they supply exclusively their dealers, encourage and help to advertise their goods, allow fair discounts, and hold back a percentage of profit for 90 days to make certain the dealer complies with his agreements.

Why could not the publishers in time reach this perfection for the distribution and advertisement of their publications? Then department stores and price-cutters generally would or might look for some other article of merchandise to put out as leaders to catch the dear public. The bookseller, if he were an agent, would be safely beyond harm. And the publisher would get his money, and be surer of knowing what he could do with a new publication.

OBITUARY NOTES.

GEORGE TUCKER BISPHAM, of Philadelphia, Pa., died at Newport, R. I., on July 28. Mr. Bispham was born in Philadelphia, May 24, 1838, and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1858, and from the law department of the same university in 1862. He had been practising law in Philadelphia since 1861, acting as counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad and other large corporations, and at one time was professor of law and jurisprudence of the University of Pennsylvania. His best known work as an author was "Principles of Equity."

DR. FERDINAND HOFFMANN, who died at Stockbridge, Mass., July 28, was born at Suhl, Prussia, April 22, 1827. "He was educated," according to the New York Evening Post, "at the Prussian Government school at Pforta, then studied law at the universities of Bonn, (where Carl Schurz was a fellow student,) at Heidelberg, and at Berlin. While at Berlin he witnessed the revolution of 1848, and his resentment at the subsequent reactionary tendencies eventually led to his coming, in 1851, to America. Among his first friends here were Charles A. Dana, Dr. Bellows and the late Henry D. Sedgwick. At their suggestion he came to Stockbridge in 1855, and there, together with Jared Reid, founded the well-known Edwards Place School, which has counted among its graduates many men who have since become prominent. Dr. Hoffmann afterwards devoted his energies to literary pursuits, dividing his time between his library and his garden. He reviewed and assisted in the bringing out of various collections of classical quotations, including 'King's Classical and Foreign Quotations,' 'Buchmann's Geflügelte Worte,' and Fumagalli's 'Chi l'ha detto?'"

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—We regret to learn that Samuel W. Harman, the well-known bookseller on East Fayette Street, has been forced into involuntary bankruptcy.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Loran L. Lewis, Jr., has been appointed trustee of the Henry B. Brown Company, and his bond fixed at $15,000. The scheduled value of the assets is given at about $19,000 and the total amount of claims is $24,000. It was stated at the meeting of the creditors held on July 23 that the company intends to make a composition offer to its creditors. If such is the case it will reduce the cost of administering the estate. The Stationers' Board of Trade of New York reports that its attorney has informed the Board that the referee in bankruptcy is going to make an offer authorizing the trustee to continue the business until September 1, and if it proves profitable he will authorize the continuance until after the holidays.

CAIRO, ILL.—The H. C. Laffin Company, booksellers, intend to sell out and retire from active business.

CEDAR FALLS, IA.—Metzgar Bros., booksellers, have sold out to Benjamin and Albert Hieber.

CLINTON, OKLA.—Williams & Brannon, booksellers, have sold out to Coss & Glymer.

DETROIT, MICH.—Macauley Bros., booksellers, at 172 Woodward Avenue, have just rounded out their thirty-seventh year in the book business in this city, having opened up their bookstore in August, 1869. They have seen the city grow in population from 70,000 to 400,000, and during that time have developed their business from one in a modest little store to one in a large five-story building fitted up to meet the requirements of booksellers, stationers and engravers. They have just completed remodelling the interior of their building, and putting a new front to their store, which gives them one of the most attractive book and stationery stores in the country.

FREMONT, NEB.—S. C. Rowe has opened a book and stationery store here.

INDIANOLA, IA.—John L. Horsley, bookseller, has been succeeded by F. P. Wright.

MUNCIE, IND.—C. A. Penzel, for eight years manager of the bookstore owned by C. W. Graves, of Logansport, Ind., has purchased the book and stationery store of H. A. Shumack, here. Mr. Penzel, who has had fifteen years' experience in the business, will carry a full line of books, stationery, office and school supplies, blank books, etc.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—The Standard Book Company has been incorporated here, with a capital stock of $12,000. The incorporators are: T. E. Allen, J. H. Chiles, T. W. Allen, J. W. Hardy and W. H. Cooper.

NEW YORK CITY.—The National Book-Brokers Association is the name of a book-purchasing agency incorporated under the laws of the State of New York about six months ago. The headquarters of the association in this city are at 27 East Twenty-first Street. The officers are W. H. Bloomer, president and treasurer; J. E. Bloomer, vice-president, and Bertha Bloomer, secretary. The president was formerly connected with P. F. Collier & Son and with Judge. The vice-president is the proprietor of two business colleges operated at Binghamton, N. Y., and at Scranton, Pa. The business is to be conducted upon the old scheme of obtaining subscribers at $2 a year, which is to entitle the subscriber to the privilege of purchasing books at special prices.

SAVANNAH, GA.—It is reported that an involuntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed against S. H. Oppenheim, dealer in stationery and books.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—Henry R. Hunting, successor to H. R. Hunting & Co., has removed his Book Shop from 204 Washington Street to the Fuller Block, 317 Main Street, Room 8, one flight up.

SPRINGFIELD, MO.—J. W. Rose has bought the book business formerly owned by H. N. Ammerman.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just brought out a new edition, in thirty volumes, of the novels of Sir Walter Scott, to be known as the Heather edition.

F. M. BUCKLES & Co. have in press "The Duchess of Padua," by Oscar Wilde, which will be published in the same style as their edition of Wilde's poems.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS has just published the long-promised edition of the new "English Hymnal," with music—an admirable sample of the printing done by this famous press.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish next month a novel entitled "Felix Gwynne," by Miss Mary Moss, whose reviews of fiction in the Atlantic have won the admiration of the discriminating.

THE W. A. WILDE COMPANY is preparing a new ten volume series of Miss Anna L. Burns's "The Nelsen Books," little readers for little folk, generously illustrated, small in size and easily handled.

FORBES & Co., Chicago, will publish on September 15 a book entitled "The Making of a Merchant," by Harlow N. Higinbotham, well known as a partner for many years of the late Marshall Field. Several chapters will be devoted to Credit, on which Mr. Higinbotham is an authority.

MONSIGNOR SCHMITZ DIDIER, nominally the head of the diocese of Springfield, Mass., but for twenty years more intimately connected with the Vatican at Rome than any other Catholic prelate, is in this country to prepare for the publishing of a "Life of Pius x," in the preparation of which he has been assisted by His Holiness himself.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish in this country Lionel Cust's superb work, "The Royal Collection of Paintings at Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle," which is considered one of the most elaborate and important that has been published in many years. The first volume is now ready and the second will be published in the fall.

R. F. FENNO & Co. announce "Letters of a Business Woman to Her Niece," by Caroline A. Huling, a volume full of practical suggestions to young women who contemplate a business career; "The Human Awakening," by Floyd B. Wilson, author of "Paths to Power," etc.; also, an illustrated holiday edition of "Reveries of a Bachelor."

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish shortly a new nature book entitled "All the Year in the Garden." Its compiler, Esther Matson, set herself the happy task of getting all the great authors of many lands and times to unite in the praise of gardens. Their contributions are arranged according to seasons, and a delightfully novel calendar is the result.

HOWARD PYLE has been commissioned by Harper's Magazine to paint a series of pictures illustrating scenes from Thackeray's best-known works. These paintings will appear reproduced in full color in the pages of the magazine. The first one of the series forms the frontispiece of the August issue. It represents Beatrix and Esmond from "Henry Esmond."

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish next month "Patty's Summer Days," by Carolyn Wells. Patty's adventures and pleasures are an automobile tour, a yachting trip, and "fittings" to various summer resorts and country homes. They have in preparation "The Face of Clay," by Horace A. Vachell, author of "Brothers," "The Hill," etc. The scenes of the new story are laid in an artists' colony in Brittany.

THE "Report of the Commissioner of Education for the Year Ending June 30, 1904," the first volume of which has just been sent out by the Government Printing Office, contains an interesting chapter entitled "Notices of Some Early English Writers on Education, 1578-1603," with descriptions, extracts and notes, by Professor Foster Watson, of the University College, Aberystwyth, Wales.

GEORGE P. HUMPHREY, of Rochester, N. Y., has published, in an attractive pocket edition, Field Marshal Viscount Wolseley's tribute to Robert E. Lee, which originally appeared in Macmillan's Magazine for March, 1887. Lord Wolseley writes as an eye-witness of some of Lee's operations, and he shares to the full the Southern pride in the most attractive personality of the Confederacy. The edition is limited to 300 copies.

T. FISHER UNWIN will publish early in the fall a volume by J. A. Hobson, entitled "Canada To-day." The book is the outcome of a journey in Canada taken last year, and deals with the new industrial and social activity in the Dominion. An attempt is made to estimate the economic resources of the country; the civilizations of Canada and the United States are compared and contrasted; and a close study of the fiscal and commercial relations between Canada and Great Britain is appended.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation "A History of Higher Education in America," by Charles F. Thwing, a complete account of college education in this country intended for the general reader as well as for the educator. They also announce George Moore's new book, "Memoirs of My Dead Wife," said to be one of the most remarkable books yet written by this author; and a new book for boys by Ralph Henry Barbour, entitled "Four Afoot," which will tell of the further adventures of the four boys in "Four in Camp."

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY announce four series of Muslin Books ranging in price from 15 cents to 75 cents. The books are printed on a high grade of muslin that can be bent, folded or crumpled but not broken or torn. They are full of bright pictures and verses, and include "Mother Goose Favorites," "Tiny Tot's A B C," "Baby's Toys," "Baby's Pets," four books of 12 pages each, 4½ x 6 inches; "On the Nursery Stairs," "Nursery Pets," "Furry Friends," "My Playmate's A B C," four books of 12 pages each, 6 x 9 inches; "Who Killed Cock Robin," "My A B C," "Baby's Friends," "Baby's Doings," four books of 16 pages each, 8 x 9 inches; and "The Night Before Christmas," "Baby's A B C Book," "Mother Goose Jingles," and "Animal Book," four books of 18 pages each, 8 x 11½ inches.

JOHN LANE COMPANY will publish on the 21st inst. an American love story entitled "The Master-Man," by a well-known author, who for reasons of her own prefers to withhold her name, notwithstanding the fact, it is said, that she has a number of good books to her credit, among them one of the "best sellers" in the trade. They have just ready their volume on Rembrandt, issued in commemoration of his tercentenary, a sumptuous large quarto book, with full-page photogravures and color plates, reproducing some of Rembrandt's most famous paintings, etchings, sketches, studies and drawings. They are preparing for the holidays uniform editions of "The Golden Age" and "Dream Days," illustrated by Maxfield Parrish, bound in ornamental covers, also designed by Maxfield Parrish.

BRENTANO'S have in preparation a work entitled "Triumphs of American Diplomacy," by Dr. Edwin Maxey, whose writings and discussions of diplomatic questions, together with his contributions to the Archives Diplomatiques have been given a high place. The work, which perhaps throws more light upon the diplomatic achievement of the United States than any other volume of equal length, is written in a style which is at once clear, simple and easy, yet vigorous and convincing. The author shows himself entirely familiar with the facts, the forces at work, and the methods used. Throughout the work he emphasizes the frank, straightforward methods which have characterized American diplomacy and shows how, even from the standpoint of expediency, they have proven themselves superior to those of the old school diplomacy.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY on September 1 will issue the first of their fall fiction, "Power Lot," by Sarah P. McLean Greene, the author of "Cape Cod Folks," etc. In this book Mrs. Greene goes back to the strong, quaint folk of the north Atlantic coast—Nova Scotia this time—where she tells of the development of a dissolute city lad, practically exiled into this rugged community. The strong, humorous characters with whom he has to deal give a splendid chance for Mrs. Greene's quaint stories. On September 15 they will bring out a new book by Owen Johnson, author of "Arrows of the Mighty" and "In the Name of Liberty," both of which attracted considerable attention. The new book will be entitled "Max Fergus," and deals with a strong man's revenge. In its broad, impartial viewpoint it is said to suggest the work of some of the great French novelists.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD COMPANY have in preparation in their Brave Hearts Series "Polly of the Pines, a patriot girl of the Carolinas," by Adele E. Thompson, the stirring story of the deeds of Mary Dunning during the Revolutionary years of 1775-1782, with illustrations by Henry Roth; "Helen Grant in College," by Amanda M. Douglas, the fourth volume of the Helen Grant Series, in which the charming Helen Grant's career at college is the subject and is illustrated by Amy Brooks; "Ester Ried's Namesake," by Pansy, (Mrs. G. R. Alden,) dealing with the bright and talented daughter of a western home missionary for whom circumstances make possible a college course, illustrated by Ernest Fosbery; "Little Miss Rosamond," by Nina Rhoades, with illustrations by Bertha G. Davidson, a welcome addition to the famous Brick House Books; also, two new books by Amy Brooks—"Randy Loyalty" and "Dorothy Dainty in the City," with illustrations by the author.

PAUL ELDER & Co., San Francisco, will publish at once a work entitled "San Francisco Through Earthquake and Fire," by Charles Keeler, author of "San Francisco and Thereabout," who, crossing the bay from his Berkeley home early in the morning of April 18th, plunged immediately into the work of relief, with which he remained for many days actively identified. How deeply engraven upon his memory were those tragic events, and how widely was he enabled to view the catastrophe in its many thrilling phases and stages, may be gathered from his graphic descriptions and variety of incident, lightened occasionally by touches of pathetic humor. The work will be illustrated with a double page frontispiece and fourteen full page half-tones in color tone from copyright photographs by A. C. Pillsbury, H. S. Hooper, Oscar Maurer, O. V. Lange, and others, and will be printed in black antique face type on deckle edge paper and bound in heavy, rich-toned cover paper with a two-color cover design by Louise M. Keeler. The New York address of Paul Elder & Co. is 43 East Nineteenth Street.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish early in September "The Evolution of Religions," by Everard Bierer, a comparative discussion of the different great religious systems of the world, and an argument for a universal religion, written from the viewpoint of liberal Unitarianism and for popular reading; "The Acts of the Apostles, Revelation, the Gospel of St. John and the Three Epistles of John," by Dr. Henry P. Forbes, Dean of the School of Theology of St. Lawrence, a new volume of the International Handbooks to the New Testament, a series which has been constructed on a plan which admits of greater freedom of treatment than is usual in commentaries proper; "Five Fair Sisters by Noel Williams, giving the story of the lives of Laure, Marie, Olympe, Hortense and Marie Mancini, the celebrated nieces of Cardinal Mazarin, whose careers were as romantic as they were startling when one recalls Marie's relations to Louis XIV., who but for the determined opposition of her uncle would undoubtedly have become Queen of France, or the clever and unscrupulous Olympe, (Countess de Soissons,) who with her sister, Marianne, (Duchesse de Bouillon,) was implicated in the famous poison trials in 1680, or the lovely Hortense, (Duchesse de Mazarin,) who fleeing from her jealous and bigoted husband to England, became one of the reigning beauties of Charles II.'s court; also, Dumas's "La Tulipe Noire," in the Classiques Français, edited by H. D. O'Connor.

HARPER & BROTHERS have in preparation a new book by Robert Hichens, entitled "The Call of the Blood." The scene is laid in the island of Sicily, the hero and heroine being English. The story, which is marked throughout by Southern passion, tells of the awakening of the Southern nature which was the hero's by inheritance, and of the tragedy in which fate and the environment, rather than his own will, forced him to play the leading part. Among other books in preparation are "By the Light of the Soul," a new novel by Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, which is at once a subtle and fascinating study of the spiritual and emotional development of a young girl's nature and an absorbingly dramatic narrative as well; "Ann Boyd," a story of country life in North Georgia, by Will N. Harben; "Gray Mist," by the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress," etc., a study of the lives of peasants and fisher-folk in a remote village of Finisterre; "Sophy of Kravonia," by Anthony Hope, a romance like "The Prisoner of Zenda," only made doubly effective by having a woman as its chief heroine; also, "Certain Delightful English Towns," by William Dean Howells, a companion to his "London Films," describing Exeter, Bath, Wells, Bristol, Folkestone, Canterbury, Oxford and other equally charming English towns. A new book by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, "The Americanism of Washington," in which the author turns back to the original ideals as expressed by our first President and summed up in his character, and General Lew Wallace's Autobiography are promised for the holiday season.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. have just issued the first two volumes of a series of six reprints of rare and out-of-print seventeenth and eighteenth century works on libraries and their management, edited by John Cotton Dana, librarian of the Free Public Library, Newark, N. J., and Henry W. Kent, formerly librarian of the Grolier Club and now assistant secretary of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City. The primary object of the series is to bring within the reach of persons interested, and especially of librarians, the early authorities on these subjects. The titles of the volumes now ready are "Concerning the Duties and Qualification of a Librarian," a translation of the work of Cotton Des Housayes, who lived in France between 1727-1783; and "The Reformed Library Keeper," by John Dury, (Durie,) which appeared in London in 1650. The books are models of good book-making, being printed by D. B. Updike, (The Merrymount Press,) Boston, and bound in boards with paper labels. Two more of the series are promised for the fall and two for the spring of 1907. The books still to come are "An Overture for Founding and Maintaining of Bibliotheks in Every Paroch Throughout this Kingdom," by Rev. James Kirkwood, which appeared in Edinburgh in 1699; "De Bibliothecis Syntagma," a translation of the work of Justus Lipsius, published in Antwerp in 1602; "Life of Sir Thomas Bodley," written by himself in 1690, with his First Draught of the Statutes of the Public Library at Oxford, (from the Reliquiæ Bodleianæ, 1703;) and "News From France, or, a Description of the Library of Cardinal Mazarini," by Gabriel Naudé, published in London in 1652. The editions are limited to 250 copies of each book and subscriptions will be taken for the entire series only. An edition of twenty-five copies on large paper will also be made ready.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

1st In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

2nd Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

Swinburne, Algernon C. Selected lyrical poems of Algernon Charles Swinburne, including his first volume, "Laus veneris." N. Y., Harper, 1906. c. '04, '06. 7+341 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Includes his first published volume, "Poems and ballads," in which appeared "A ballad of life," "Laus veneris," etc., and to these have been added many later poems.

Syrett, Netta. The day's journey. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1906. [S.] c. 4+309 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A study of a man and woman, both talented, who after five years of married life find they have drifted apart. The man thinks he has found his intellectual affinity in a soulful young woman who has dabbled in all the fads of the day. His wife, cruelly hurt, gathers her strength to work out a new plan of life for herself. Her book is a success, while her husband's work shows steady deterioration. Their final readjustment to each other is only reached after humiliation and disillusionment on both sides. Scenes are mostly laid in London.

T'ai-shang kan-ying p'ien. T'ai-shang kan-ying p'ien: treatise of the Exalted one on response and retribution; tr. from the Chinese by Teitaro Suzuki and Dr. Paul Carus; containing introd., Chinese text, verbatim tr., tr., explanatory notes and moral tales; ed. by Dr. Paul Carus; with 16 pls. by Chinese artists and a frontispiece by Keichyu Yamada. Chic., Open Court Publishing Co., 1906. c. 3+139 p. front. il. D. bds., *75 c. net.

This Chinese classic "will probably have to be assigned the first place of all publications on the globe. Its editions exceed even those of the Bible and Shakespeare." It is a work of Taoist piety and ethics, "the main idea of the title being expressed in the words Kam, response, and Ying, retribution, which means that in the spiritual realm of heaven there is 'a response' to our sentiments, finding expression in 'a retribution' of our deeds." (Introduction.) T'ai-shang is a current name for Lao Tze, the great Chinese philosopher, born in 604 B.C. founder of Taoism; hence the work resolves itself into an exposition of his doctrines, written by various hands, some portions dating from the 6th century B.C., though in its present shape it may not have existed before the 15th or 16th century.

A sketch of the life of Frederick I., surnamed Barbarossa because of his red beard. He was king of Germany in the 12th century and one of the greatest emperors of the Holy Roman Empire. This little volume includes the events which led up to his accession to the throne of Germany, of his various campaigns in Italy after he had received the imperial crown, and of the disastrous third Crusade, in which he took part with Richard the Lion-hearted of England and Philip Augustus of France.

Upton, G. Putnam, tr. Gudrun; tr. from the German of Ferdinand Schmidt. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1906. [S22.] c. 4-134 p. front. sq. S. (Life stories for young people.) cl., *60 c. net.

A romance of the old heroic period, written by some unknown poet of Austria or Bavaria in the thirteenth century. Some of the characters of "Gudrun" are found in the "Nibelungen lied," its scenes are principally laid along the shores of the North Sea and in Normandy.

Upton, G. Putnam, tr. The Nibelungs; tr. from the German of Ferdinand Schmidt. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1906. c. 2-174 p. front. il. sq. S. (Life stories for young people.) cl., *60 c. net.

The Nibelungen lied, one of the world's greatest epics, made its appearance in the twelfth or thirteenth century, in South Germany. Its authorship is unknown. It is a collection of ballads skilfully united so as to form a connected story. Its hero is Siegfried, who possessed the Nibelung hoard; he was treacherously slain by Hagen and the hoard sunk in the Rhine. Wagner used many of these characters and incidents from the German epic in his "Ring der Nibelungen," his material being taken chiefly from the old Norse version.

Upton, G. Putnam, tr. William of Orange; tr. from the German of Ottokar Schupp. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1906. c. 7+138 p. por. sq. S. (Life stories for young people.) cl., *60 c. net.

The story of William of Nassau, usually called William of Orange, also designated as William the Silent. He made a heroic fight with Spain for the liberty of the Netherlands and founded the republic of the United Provinces. He was born 1533 and was assassinated 1584.

Vachell, Horace Annesley. The face of clay: an interpretation. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1906. [S.] c. 4+359 p. front. D. cl., $1.50.

By the author of "John Charity" and "Brothers." A group of English and American artists in Pont-Aven, a Breton village, a Breton priest and Téphany Lane, whose father, an English painter of fishermen, had lost his life in a storm off the coast ten years previously, are the people who make the story. Téphany Lane, after a successful career as an opera singer, returns for a rest to her childhood's home hoping to renew her friendship with Michael Ossory, a great painter and friend of her father. A mystery shadows Michael's life which it takes time to elucidate, involving explanations of Breton customs and superstitions and the waywardness of the artistic temperament.

THE CASSOWARY

BY STANLEY WATERLOO—Author of "The Story of Ab."

12 COLOR
ILLUSTRATIONS

Stanley Waterloo's new novel, "The Cassowary," will delight all red blooded men and women. Primarily a love story; it is full of adventure, and human interest of the most enthralling kind. It is about time for the world-old theme of love to be revived among story tellers, and Mr. Waterloo is a princely entertainer when it comes to this department of his art.

The thousands of admirers of the author's first novel, "A Man and A Woman," will hail with joy "The Cassowary," as a worthy successor to the earlier book. Mr. Waterloo's new story, while entirely different in plot and in all essential features, yet reminds one of his first novel by its intensity and vigor. Its style is that once characterized by a critic as "Waterloo's style of Saxon and honey," and in its conception and execution it shows a mind enriched by thought and experience since the writer's first brilliant novel was written.

JOHN DORN, PROMOTER

Author of "In Hampton Roads," "A Child of the Sun," etc.

A story of modern finance with an idealistic trend. John Dorn, a sturdy young financier of Chicago, is chosen by a rich lumberman of the Upper Peninsula to promote a trust in the principal timber claims of the country. Through the influence of Helen Chadbourne, a beautiful girl, he is inspired to add to the scheme of promotion the idea of re-forestation.

The novel is beautifully illustrated with 16 colored plates by August Abelman. The book is artistically printed and bound, and is sure to be one of the widest read and most discussed books of fiction published in recent years.

POKER JIM, GENTLEMAN

A California Story by a Native Son

This is a story of the old time Californian mining camps by a native son of the golden West. It depicts in graphic terms the oddities and heroism of the early western pioneers and brings out in bold relief the many-sidedness of their characters. The delineation of these characters is a labor of love on the part of the author, who recalls them from his boyhood's days, and as the most picturesque features of his early life. They indeed belong to "the days when there were giants in the land."

SMITH'S

The Tides of Barnegat

This is the greatest story that F. Hopkinson Smith has ever written. Against the strong and stormy background of the Barnegat Shore he has drawn a thrilling and absorbing tale of love and self-sacrifice, of tragedy and comedy, leading up through sunshine and storm to a tremendous ending. The old Captain, the Doctor, Miss Jane, Lucy and Archie are people that live and will live. No writer of fiction to-day is better known and liked than Mr. Smith and this is his best book.

The great success of the story as a serial in Scribner's Magazine proves its popularity.

C. H. FORBES-LINDSAY

Author of "The Philippines Under Spanish and American Rules," "America's Insular Possessions," "India: Past and Present," Etc.

BOOKSELLERS: This work contains in full the information which has not yet been published to satisfy the popular demand, and it is placed on the market at an exceedingly low price.

The Latest Authoritative Information

In the preparation of this volume he has been afforded all the facilities at the command of the War Department and the Isthmian Canal Commission. These opportunities, and the author's familiarity with the ground he describes, enabled him to make an exceptionally accurate, comprehensive statement of present conditions and future prospects in the Canal Zone. This is the only book published which contains a full and definite survey of the Panama Canal as it will actually be constructed. No other book has been written on this subject with all the authoritative details of the situation as it is to-day. Mr. Forbes-Lindsay describes the final plans, projected on the 85-foot level with a dam at Gatun, which have been approved and by which the great water-way will be finished.

Latest Maps and Illustrations

The book contains two large inserted maps, made from the latest government charts; one a profile showing the relative heights and depths across the isthmus and the construction of the canal; the other a surface plan, in two colors, tracing the route to be followed and showing how the enormous difficulties of the enterprise are to be met. There are also explanatory maps in the text and numerous photographs of different points on the course of the Canal, including views of the digging already done and portraits of the principal executives connected with the work.

The Romance of The Canal

Ever since the Spaniards discovered that a great ocean lay beyond this narrow strip of land, ambitious men have devised schemes to cut the isthmus. None was realized; DeLesseps and his gigantic failure seemed to paralyze the world until Theodore Roosevelt made this great benefit to humanity a certainty. Mr. Forbes-Lindsay's telling of this checkered history is very interesting reading, and no less so is his chapter on other great canals of the world compared with that of Panama.

A Popular Book

In handling a subject which might easily have been dry, he has made his "Panama" an interesting as well as a valuable book. It is enjoyable from beginning to end and it gives the reader a complete grasp of the situation.

Man Going to Europe Wants Advance Proofs of the Story.

The interest on the part of one reader of the continued story in The Tribune Sunday Magazine, "The Late Tenant," by Gordon Holmes, is so great that he is unwilling to be deprived of the pleasure of continuing it while on a trip to Europe. He is to sail on August 10, and has asked to have advance proofs of the story so that he may not have to await the outcome until his return.

NOTES IN SEASON.

MCCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have in press A. Conan Doyle's new novel, "Sir Nigel," which may be expected some time next month.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have in preparation a new story by Mrs. Clara Louise Burnham entitled "The Opened Shutters," which deals with the experiences of a girl from the West on a farm near Casco Bay.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just ready the "Buster Brown Antics," "Foxy Grandpa's Frolics," "Willie Westinghouse Edison Smith," "The Tricks of the Katzenjammer Kids," "The Travels of Happy Hooligan," "The Trials of Lulu and Leander," "Jimmy and His Scrapes," "Sam and His Laugh," and "Maud." Each volume is fully illustrated and is authorized by its artist.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish shortly a work on "Great Riches," by President Eliot, of Harvard, who does not view the amassing of wealth by the "favored few" with alarm. He sees counterbalancing forces at work, which will operate as successfully in the future as they have done in the past. In this day of shrieking and denunciation his calm appraisal of the situation is of value.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish on September 29 Gilbert K. Chesterton's "Life of Charles Dickens." The volume is a general justification of Dickens and of the humor of which he was the last survival. His achievement is compared with those of later days. Each of his novels is dealt with in turn, while the last part of the volume is given over to a general estimate of the influence of Dickens.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just brought out F. Hopkinson Smith's new novel, "The Tides of Barnegat." This is a strong and vigorous story written against the background of the shores of Barnegat. It is the best and most thoughtful story that Mr. Smith has ever written. The strength and interest of the characters, the dramatic quality of the story with its tremendous ending and the splendid way in which the whole material is handled make it a very unusual book. Its success as a serial in Scribner's Magazine has been a splendid promise of its popularity as a book.

MOFFAT, YARD & COMPANY announce for early publication John W. Munson's "Reminiscences of a Mosby Guerrilla." Mr. Munson joined the Partisan Rangers in the beginning of their career and was one of the very last to leave Mosby after the war was over. Throughout he was one of the most daring and resourceful of the guerrillas, as he was one of the most trusted by their famous chief. In writing these reminiscences he has had the hearty co-operation not only of Colonel Mosby himself, but of many active members of the command who are still living. He has been at great pains to gather the actual facts of every important raid and skirmish which he describes, consulting Federal and Confederate records as well as the personal recollections of men engaged on both sides. They will publish in September "Her Brother's Letters," which, the Ladies' Home Journal reports, has aroused greater interest and provoked more "letters to the editor" than any serial feature which has appeared in its pages for years. It will be illustrated by Relyea and Wilson. Their new Christy book, to be ready in October, will be entitled "The American Girl as Seen and Portrayed by Howard Chandler Christy," and is considered to be the most elaborate of the books in colors issued under his name.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk *, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Fogazzaro, Antonio. The saint (Il santo); tr. from the Italian by M. Agnetti Pritchard; with an introd. by W: Roscoe Thayer. N. Y., Putnam, 1906. c. 28+476 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Piero Maironi, "the saint," was the hero of "Piccolo mondo antico," an artist and dreamer who fell in love with a woman separated from her husband while his own wife was in the lunatic asylum. On her deathbed the deranged wife sent for Maironi; he was plunged in remorse and for three years was lost to the world. He turns up a lay brother whom the people learn to look upon as a saint. The story is an appeal to the laity for greater independence of thought, a deeper sense of responsibility, a more serious purpose in life; to the clergy for wider tolerance, a more ethical teaching and more perfect disinterestedness. A dramatic scene is the meeting between Pius x. and "the saint." "The saint" has been put upon the Index Prohibitorum of the Catholic church. Fogazzaro is a Catholic, but he ventures to criticise the present attitude of the church towards personal interpretation and pure unselfish living.

Ford, J: The broken heart: a play written by J: Ford; ed., with preface, notes and glossary, by Oliphant Smeaton. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. 16+144 p. sq. 32°, (Macmillan's Temple dramatists.) cl., 45 c.; leath., 65 c.

Forman, Justus Miles. Buchanan's wife: a novel; il. by Will Grefé. N. Y., Harper, 1906. [Ag.] c. 5+291 p. D. cl., $1.50.

By the author of "Tommy Carteret" and "The Garden of Lies." A woman of twenty-five is unhappily married to a very rich man owning an estate on the sea in the vicinity of New York City. While she is entertaining a house party, among them the man she loves, her husband disappears. After three years she identifies the body of a man supposed to be Buchanan and marries the man she has always loved. Then follows a weird, improbable and uncanny story of surprises and fears which seriously affect the remarried wife. Some of the situations are highly dramatic.

The hero, a young West Pointer, meets the heroine, the daughter of the Mexican Minister, by chance, in the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington in 1833. An ideal love springs from this meeting, the starting point of a narrative that shifts its scene constantly from America to Europe, giving itself to the erratic movements of the hero and the mysterious acts of the heroine, who are the principles in many strange adventures. The Masonic fraternity will be interested in some of the chapters. Scenes are included from the war for Texan independence.

These plays are all intended to be read by the characters, not committed to memory and recited or acted. Object is to restore to the Bible the vividness of impression so often missed when text is droned out by one reader. A special character, the "Narrator," indicates the action and change of scene. Simplicity is to be the keynote of the exercise. A diagram for each play shows how the characters should be grouped to make the reading most effective.

Author is member of the American Philosophical Society and Vice-President of the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society of Philadelphia. These deserted fishing stations are found on the shores of all the bays and inlets that indent the low, sandy coastline of New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, where fish and mollusks of unsurpassed quality were abundant. The author describes the prominent characteristics of these stations where they have survived the elements and the ploughman and teaches something of the domestic economy of these ancient fishermen and their means of subsistence.

Author is Emily Sanford Professor of English

Literature in Yale University. Designed for general readers who enjoy poetry but think they might enjoy it more if they found its metrical structure less bewildering. The author distinguishes clearly between conclusions based on scientific reasoning and conclusions based on his own individual taste. In six chapters he treats of Rhyme and metre; The pentameter line; Blank verse; Rimed pentameters; Miscellaneous metres; and Embellishments of verse. Also of interest to scholars and professional metrists.

Written by a woman who has already made a reputation with successful books but prefers to publish this anonymously. The story of a country doctor in Virginia who works day and night for his fellow-men. He is unmarried and his adoring niece keeps his home. She has two lovers; the one she chooses is the son of the doctor's only love. A case of lynching is realistically described, the doctor saving the negro from the mob and incurring the wrath of his fellow townsmen. The girl's lover, a doctor, and the son of a straight-laced minister, becomes the master-man of the town.

By the author of "In the Bishop's carriage." A story of San Francisco in its days of prosperity before the great disaster. The heroine is a newspaper woman, keen, alert, self-reliant, abreast of the times; the hero an idealistic, altruistic dreamer, searching for truth in new religious and new socialistic schemes. He tries every kind of manual labor in his wish to help all in need by example, advice and money. The brilliant up-to-date woman at last yields to her great love for his fine character, but he distinctly tells her she will only take her place in his great scheme for making the world better and happier.

In the garb of catechism and in homely words this book sums up the great case of the validity of Anglican ordinations by giving the main laws and facts in their core and root, so that each may judge for himself and not from heresy. The standpoint is Catholic.

Sinclair, May. Audrey Craven. [Author's ed.] N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1906. 4+328 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

Another of the earlier books of the author of "The Divine Fire." At twenty-five Audrey Craven is introduced as "mistress of her own person, her own income, and her own house in Chelsea, London." She was a person of inordinate physical and spiritual vanity, and was always seeking excitement, amusement and new revelations. She was wholly selfish and flirted with every new thought on art, religion and literature and the men who held them. She proved a bad influence in the lives of her cousin, of a realistic writer and of a painter. After her exacting expectations her marriage offers a surprise.

Author is instructor in political economy in the University of Michigan. He thinks the ideal of railroad control is to give a commission the opportunity of adopting public utility as the controlling principle in rate making, and of giving efficient expression to that principle. Gives a list of cases that have come up before the United States Supreme Court from 1876 to 1902; and a list of cases before the lower courts from 1881 to 1901.

The story opens some fifty years ago in an old house built in early Revolutionary times on the Atlantic coast near Barnegat. Jane and Lucy Cobden are the only surviving members of the family that had built the house. They live alone with a faithful old nurse. Lucy is introduced on the day of her homecoming from a finishing school. Jane, her elder by ten years, had promised her father on his deathbed to be a mother to her young sister. Lucy, beautiful, selfish and headstrong, gratifies her love of pleasure utterly regardless of right, nearly breaking Jane's heart. Jane's story is one of cruel self-sacrifice carried on for many years to save Lucy's good name. The characters are quaint and picturesque, and the concluding scenes dramatic. Published serially in Scribner's Magazine.

Story based upon an imaginary war between Great Britain and Germany shortly after the opening of the Panama Canal. A courageous newspaper reporter is forced to become an eye-witness, almost a participant, of the naval operations in the West Indies. The accounts of the horrors of modern warfare, and the ghastly scenes on board one of the new naval fighting machines in action, are powerfully realistic. How the preponderance of foreign sailors may threaten the English navy is thoughtfully brought before the reader.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 18, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

ARRANGEMENT AND CARE OF A STOCK OF SECOND-HAND BOOKS.*

THE arrangement and care of a stock of old books do not differ much from the arrangement of a stock of current books, except that a dealer in old books will very likely always find it convenient to keep books of a certain class together. The collector, being interested in subjects, will not care to take up his time in "browsing" through the bookseller's stock to find what he knows he exactly wants. After he has exhausted the divisions allotted to the books in which he is interested, he may be tempted to devote his spare time to the remainder of the bookseller's stock—but rarely until then.

Whenever possible, especially if room permits, books should be placed regularly upright on the shelves, and not piled up on their sides, even if a little space may be saved by such a proceeding. It will happen more frequently than is supposed by the beginner that the desired book in such a pile is always at the bottom, and to get at it will necessitate the upsetting of the whole pile, and subsequent loss of time in its rearrangement. Some booksellers arrange their stock alphabetically by authors, others by the numbers the books bear in their catalogues, etc.; but, for the reasons already given, most booksellers prefer to arrange their stock by subjects, depending upon their stock-lists for author and number when books are ordered from catalogues.

The arrangement and care of a stock of books generally, including the building of shelves and drawers, etc., having already been circumstantially described in "The Profession of Bookselling," Part 1, pp. 25-31, a reference to that chapter must suffice. Further suggestions on classification, etc., will be given in a later chapter. It is of the greatest importance that every book be kept in sight, and that the most careful handling of the stock should be insisted upon, because when a number of volumes of a set are doubled up, that is, placed behind their fellows standing in the front row, some of the books may be shifted from the place where they were intended to stand, or fall through to a lower shelf, and thus cause loss of time when they are wanted and sometimes loss of a sale when they cannot be readily found. The same will happen if the bookseller or his assistants do not watch their stock carefully after a customer has pulled out any number of books and either has left them on a ledge or some other convenient resting place, or, what is sometimes worse, has replaced them on the shelves himself. A book misplaced through such a cause may miss a chance of being sold for months unless it is discovered and put in its right place at once. A bookseller thoroughly acquainted with his stock, if he trains himself to attend to such a detail immediately after a fussy customer leaves his shop, would be likely to miss a given book from its proper place at once, and so trace it then and there; whereas if he neglected such a duty he might assume, when another customer called for such a book later, and the book were not in its place, that it had probably been disposed of, and so he might lose a sale. If months or years after he should by accident come across it again, the book may have lost considerably in value. As an illustration of this we recall a characteristic note in one of the late Charles L. Woodward's catalogues calling attention to a book which he was offering at a much lower price than he had asked for it a year or two before, ascribing it to the fact that in some unwatched moment a disorderly person had probably removed it from its proper place on the shelf and stuck it in somewhere else, where it remained forgotten until its timeliness and value had both shrunk.

Rare books and manuscripts will of course be kept in safes or in dry fire-proof vaults. Books in fine bindings and other treasures may be displayed in locked showcases, lined with velvet or other soft material, and should be handled as little and as carefully as possible.

Folios and other unwieldy books, unless there should be sufficiently broad and high shelves at the bottom, should be kept separately, preferably laid flat on their sides, or in drawers. Separate plates, portraits, views and other illustrations are kept in drawers, in portfolios properly classified, and as nearly as possible in alphabetical order to make them available for ready reference.

The shop and stock should be kept well ventilated and well swept and dusted, as dampness and dust are two of the great enemies of books. The stock, especially the more valuable books, should be regularly dusted and from time to time, especially in the spring and fall, a general house-cleaning would be in order, even if an overhauling of the entire stock is not practicable. In these days of electric lighting and steam heating danger from fire is less to be feared. Where these are not available every precaution must be taken by guarding gas flames and stoves, and placing these as far from the books as possible, or, better still, by dispensing with them altogether whenever natural light is sufficient and the weather permits. Indeed, as gas and dry air seriously injure leather bindings, it will be well to keep the room in which books are kept at a lower rather than at a higher temperature, and to invent a system of ventilation that will keep the air, especially that at the ceilings, pure and cool. Besides this, the whole store should be thoroughly aired early in the morning and just before closing time in the evening.

Rats, mice, worms and other vermin must also be guarded against systematically. Traps will probably be effective against rats and mice; if not, a cat might prove a helpful aid in keeping them away. For obvious reasons, poisons should not be used in getting rid of these pests. The smaller vermin may best be dealt with by the frequent inspection of the better class of books, by the careful use of substances offensive to these pests, such as benzine, turpentine, camphor, etc., which may be placed upon cloths or sponges and laid upon the backs of the shelves, or by dusting them occasionally with an insecticide like pyrethrum, which is perfectly harmless to the human system though a powerful destroyer of insects. Against the two-legged pest, the book thief, eternal vigilance is the only remedy, and even that is not always a specific. Strangers with bundles, "grips," dress suit cases and other receptacles, and those with cloaks or loose coats with capacious pockets should be closely watched. It would always be well, as a matter of courtesy, to relieve visitors of their impedimenta and temporarily care for these until they depart. This would prevent a dishonest caller from filling bogus bundles or the "grips" and suit cases with books that the bookseller can ill afford to lose. An honest man would take no offence, and as for the dishonest man, his feelings need not be considered. An unknown customer who may display a weakness for lengthy inspections of rare illustrated books will also bear watching, because "for ways that are dark and for tricks that are vain," the book thief who may want certain plates and rare illustrations "is peculiar."

SEYMOUR EATON, of Booklovers' Library fame, who has recently devoted his advertising and organizing genius to the insurance controversy as the Secretary of the International Policyholders' Committee, at a substantial salary, tendered his resignation last week, to take effect immediately. His own statement of the case is as follows:

"When I accepted this position I believed this movement to be righteous, unselfish, public-spirited, and in the best interest of the great body of policyholders. I have been outspoken in giving publicity to this opinion. I feel that I now owe it to you and to the other eminent gentlemen whom I invited to serve on this committee as well as myself and to the policyholders that I be just as frank and as fearless in expressing my present convictions by a prompt and positive resignation."

The committee under Mr. Eaton's inspiration seems to have undertaken not only to manage the Mutual and New York fights, but to have started a list of policyholders in all mutual companies, most of which have not been affected by the recent scandals. The policyholders who have watched Mr. Eaton's "righteous, unselfish and public-spirited" career in relation with the Booklovers and Tabard Inn fiascos may now breathe easier.

THE ALDEN "WAY OUT."

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: In answering Mr. Sherwood's discussion of the "Way Out," in your issue of the 11th inst., I will omit any argument as to rhetoric and punctuation, as not being material.

If it is a part of the settled policy of the A. P. A. to encourage the small dealer, then of course they have what they want, and the entire fraternity is being gradually and certainly brought down to that "small" condition, except as bookselling becomes only incidental.

As to the Frank Lovell scheme, there probably never will be any plan devised to prevent "agents" breaking their contracts, nor of preventing others from "suborning" them to do so, as Mr. Sherwood illustrates.

But Mr. Sherwood seems pretty fairly to acknowledge the success of the Lovell effort to protect his agents, by his expression of ignorance of the existence of the two following successful books of the series. I think Mr. Sherwood can be safely left in Mr. Lovell's hands.

I think also Mr. Lovell may be trusted to improve somewhat upon his scheme to the extent of recognizing the probability that no single dealer can possibly cover successfully so large a field as Greater New York, and that he can easily sell twice as many books by compelling Mr. Wanamaker either to himself cover the ground by sub-agents, properly distributed, or making his Wanamaker contract subject to Lovell's, otherwise adequately covering the territory while protecting Mr. Wanamaker, so that either a man so enterprising as Mr. Sherwood will be certain to occupy the position of sub-agent or that of general agent, with Mr. Wanamaker as "sub."

As to Alphonse, Gaston and the snowball, I will leave them to take care of one another, but as in the little "Alden experiment" of twenty-five years ago, the dull summer days of June, July and August were sprinkled thickly with telegrams from the best book-sellers of the country to secure his "exclusive local agency" for his one little line, I imagine that when the A. P. A. enters the field, seeking exclusive local agents, they will have no great difficulty in finding competent persons.

I will add further that the "Way Out" is not claimed as an "invention," but only as an application to the publishing business of methods long familiar in other lines of trade, as Mr. Waterland, in the same issue of your paper, sensibly points out.

Sewing machines, insurance, kodaks and other successful lines of promotion cover the ground sufficiently, and with properly qualified exclusive agents butchering prices and breach of contracts are adequately provided against.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN B. ALDEN.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

SIDNEY C. TAPP, author of "The Struggle," is now in Denver, Colo., writing a novel to succeed his former work.

JOHANN MARTIN SCHLEYER, the inventor of volapük, on the 18th of July celebrated the anniversary of his seventy-fifth birthday at Ccnstance, where he has been settled for twenty-one years. Father Schleyer, who is master of eighty languages and dialects, even to-day is busily engaged in elaborating his world-language. Besides publishing his various grammars and text books on volapük, Father Schleyer has also edited several religious anthologies and founded a monthly devoted to religious poetry, entitled Die Sionsharfe.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MISS E. DENROCHE died on August 10, at Belmont, N. Y., aged sixty-eight. Miss Denroche was well known to thousands of the book and news trade through her efforts to better their conditions. She was especially active and emphatic in her protest against the freight charges of the American News Company, and her intelligent methods of inquiry carried weight and influence. Her father was a bookseller of note in Dublin and London half a century ago. Miss Denroche leaves a library of many scarce and valuable old Irish books.

FRANZ J. FREIHERR V. LIPPERHEIDE, the well-known author and publisher, died on July 30 at Berlin. Von Lipperheide was born July 22, 1838, at Berleburg, Westphalia. In 1865 he established himself in the publishing business in Berlin. Among the more important publications of his firm are Die Modernwelt and Illustrierte Frauenzeitung. Von Lipperheide wrote and compiled "Lieder und Sagen vom Rhein," "Lieder zu Schutz und Trutz," "Gaben deutscher Dichter aus der Zeit des Krieges in den Jahren '70-'71," "Mustersammlung von Holzschnitten aus englischen, nord-amerikanischen, französischen und deutschen Blättern," etc. He was the founder of the fine collection of books on costumes, (12,000 volumes and 30,000 plates,) now in the Kunstgewerbemuseum in Berlin.

THE German booktrade has sustained a heavy loss in the death on July 27 of L. W. F. Otto Mühlbrecht, of the Berlin publishing firm of Puttkammer & Mühlbrecht. Mr. Mühlbrecht was born in Braunschweig, February 28, 1838. After graduating from the Braunschweig Gymnasium, he served his apprenticeship in the book business of Bock & Co. in his native city. His journeyman's service was spent in the employ of Vandenhoeek & Ruprecht at Göttingen, at the Universitätsbuchhandlung in Kiel, with Melbus & Co. at Elberfeld, at Amsterdam, London and Paris. In 1866 he returned to Leipzig, where he took charge of the foreign department of T. O. Weigel, and later was connected with B. Behr at Berlin. In 1868 he founded, in Berlin, with Albert Puttkammer, the firm of Puttkammer & Mühlbrecht, publishers of scientific works. Mr. Mühlbrecht was active—in fact a pioneer—in the various copyright movements in Germany, both in person and with his pen. He compiled a valuable bibliography of legal literature entitled "Wegweiser durch die neuere Literatur der Rechts- und Staatswissen-schaften," in 36 volumes, and wrote works on the history of the booktrade in Germany and in Holland; on Beethoven and his works, etc. His most important contribution to the history of book collecting was "Bücherliebhaberei [Bibliophilie, Bibliomania] am Ende des 19. Jahrhunderts," which appeared first in 1896 and in a revised edition in 1898. Mr. Mühlbrecht will be remembered by visitors to the various international copyright and publishers' congresses as a man of impressive personality, over six feet tall, endowed with varied and deep knowledge, yet modest to a degree, courteous and easy of access.

GEORGE ROE LOCKWOOD, one of four generations of publishers who were in business in Connecticut and New York for upwards of one hundred years, died on August 12, at Mystic, Conn., aged eighty-five, having been born in Bridgeport, Conn., March 31, 1822. He entered Yale at a very early age, but was obliged to give up his studies on account of ill health, and at the age of twenty entered his father's business. His business was founded in 1798, in Bridgeport, by his grandfather, Lambert Lockwood, 2d, who removed to New York City in 1816 and established himself on Canal Street. One of his sons, Roe Lockwood, the father of George Roe Lockwood, succeeded to the business and continued it at 411 Broadway, near Lispenard Street, until 1862, when the junior partner of the firm of Roe Lockwood & Son, (George Roe Lockwood,) succeeded to the entire management of the business, and for years continued it at 812 Broadway under the firm name of George R. Lockwood. In 1881 Mr. Lockwood admitted his son, Richard B., one of the fourth generation of Lockwoods to enter the book business, and the firm became George R. Lockwood & Son. In 1888 George R. Lockwood retired and the firm went out of existence. Mr. Richard B. Lockwood continued in the book business until 1890, and since then has been engaged in other lines. The Lockwoods, from the start, were booksellers rather than publishers, their publishing being confined to text books, among which their French and Spanish school books by Robertson, Del Mar and Chouquet, and their series of Ollendorff's manuals for Spanish and French students, edited by Francisco J. Vingut were especially popular. Mr. Lockwood from 1840 to 1861 interested himself in the reissues of Audubon's "Birds of America," reproducing a selection of 140 plates from the first edition in colored lithographs, of which three editions were printed, and a similar reissue of Audubon and Bachmann's "Viparious Quadrupeds of North America." The lithographic stones from which these editions were printed were destroyed in a fire that consumed the building in Philadelphia where they were stored. Mr. Lockwood was in every sense of the word a Christian gentleman who had a host of friends in business and social circles. He held the office of elder, and was treasurer for upwards of forty years in the University Place Presbyterian Church and of the old Mercer Street Church, positions held by his father before him, and was a Ruling Elder of the church in New York City up to the time of his death.

MRS. PEARL MARY TERESA CRAIGIE, better known as "John Oliver Hobbes," the author and dramatist, was found dead in her bed in her London house, on the morning of August 13. Mrs. Craigie, who was in apparently perfect health, left her home on the Isle of Wight on the 12th inst. to keep an engagement in London. Mrs. Craigie was born in Boston, Mass., November 3, 1867, and was educated under private tutors in this country, at Paris and at the University College, London. Mrs. Craigie was the daughter of John Morgan Richards and Laura Hortense Arnold. Her father was the son of the Rev. Dr. James Richards, of New York, and her mother was the granddaughter of Peter Spearwater, who represented Sherbourne in the Colonial Parliament at Halifax for twenty-five years. On one of her visits abroad Miss Richards met and married Reginald Walpole Craigie, a grandson of Colonel Craigie, of the Bengal Military Board. At the time of her marriage she was only 19 years old. In the next four years she suffered much unhappiness, and in 1895 obtained a divorce, returning to her father's house. In 1892 she was received into the Roman Catholic Church. The question of religion having been settled, it occupied her intensely for two years after her divorce. She had written a little and her writings under the name of John Oliver Hobbes had been admired. Within the next two years she had written three plays, all of which were successes. From the day of her decision, until her death, to make literature her life-work, she was seldom idle. Book after book and play after play flowed from her pen. On her last visit to America she lectured on literary subjects, and after her return to England she delivered several lectures on "America's Worship of Wealth." Among Mrs. Craigie's works were: "The Sinner's Comedy," "Some Emotions and a Moral," "A Bundle of Life," "The Ambassador," a play; "Journey's End in Lover's Meeting," a one-act play written for Ellen Terry; "The Gods, Some Mortals, and Lord Wickingham," "The Herb Moon," "School for Saints," "Osborn and Ursyne," a tragedy in three acts; "Robert Orange," "The Serious Wooing," "Love and the Soul Hunters," "Tales About Temperaments," "Imperial India," "The Vineyard," "The Flute of Pan," and "The Wisdom of the Wise." Mrs. Craigie was, as well, a frequent contributor to the newspapers and magazines. At the time of her death Mrs. Craigie was engaged in adapting her play, "A Time to Love," for publication as a novel. Her last novel, "The Dream and the Business," is also ready for issue.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

DAVIS & HARVEY, the auctioneers of 1112 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, have issued a list of thirty-two catalogues of important sales conducted under the management of Stan. V. Henkels, which they are still able to supply with the prices at which the items were sold. The catalogues are all of important sales, containing copies of historical letters, many facsimiles of the same, reproductions of rare portraits, extracts of historical documents, facsimile title-pages of rare American books, etc., embracing material of the utmost importance to the historian, as well as forming a guide for booksellers and collectors of their auction value. Many of the catalogues embrace the papers of departed statesmen that have been sold by their heirs, which through the medium of public auctions have been scattered broadcast, making reference to them impossible, except through these catalogues. The series of catalogues of the Hon. Hempton L. Carson and the Hon. James T. Mitchell sales have been compiled with care, and form the best guide for collectors of engraved portraits of notable Americans. A very few copies of each remain, in some instances only one.

WILHELM JUNK, 201 Kurfürstendamm, Berlin, has published his international directory of second-hand booksellers—"Internationales Addressbuch der Antiquar-Buchhändler." The directory contains the addresses of 2165 dealers in second-hand books, of which number 153 are located in the United States, 13 in Canada, 14 in Central and South America, 5 in Asia, 10 in Australia, 5 in Africa, 523 in Great Britain and Ireland, and the remaining 1442 in Europe, including the following countries: Belgium, Denmark, Germany, Spain, France, Italy, Holland, Norway, Austro-Hungary, Portugal, Roumania, Russia, Switzerland and Sweden. The directory is arranged in three sections: (1) alphabetically under countries, (2) by specialties, and (3) alphabetically by firm name, so that, whether one desires to know what dealers are in Belgium, or in some other country, or makes a specialty of works on fine arts, etc., or where a certain dealer in old books resides, the book gives a ready answer under the three heads. As a first attempt the book is remarkably free from errors, though now and again, in the foreign lists as well as in that of this country, it is apparent that the compiler depended upon second-hand information and so was misled. The list of dealers in old books in the United States might easily be improved by omitting such firms as Baker, Voorhis & Co., Matthew Bender & Co., Funk & Wagnalls Co., James Pott & Co., to mention only a few, who are not dealers in second-hand books, and by including, for example, the names of George H. Richmond, the important old-book department of Charles Scribner's Sons, Ernest Dressel North and others that should find a place in such a list. Martinus Nijhoff cannot be classed as an American bookseller, and as "Woodward, 78 Nassau Street, New York," died in 1903, and his business was discontinued, his name might be safely dropped from a "live" list. But, on the whole, the work fills a gap and will be useful to those who need a list of this kind. Mr. Junk in his foreword speaks of his work "als erstes seiner Art"—a statement that needs qualification, in view of the fact that Mr. Clegg for years has supplied similar information to international booksellers dealing in second-hand as well as in new books. A brief biographical sketch of Bernard Quaritch, accompanied by a fine photogravure portrait, is prefixed to the list. (8+82 p. 8°, cl.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CALLAGHAN & Co., Chicago, announce that "Hutchinson on Carriers" will be published in three instead of two volumes, and will be completed some time in October.

JOHN JOSEPH McVEY, Philadelphia, will bring out in October a new edition, the fifth, rewritten and enlarged, of Dr. Charles Platt's "Manual of Qualitative Analysis and of Medical Chemistry for Physicians and Students."

HENRY ALTEMUS COMPANY will publish next month "The King's Daughters' Year Book," by Margaret Bottomo. This will no doubt be gratifying news to the 600,000 members of the organization of which Margaret Bottomo is the president.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish early next month "The Cruise of the Violetta," the fourth book by Arthur Colton. It is largely in the vein of the author's "The Belted Seas," in which discriminating critics found some of the good qualities of Jacobs, Stockton and Dickens.

GEORGE EDMUND PLATT, the Eastern representative of the Reilly & Britton Co., is established for several weeks at Room 568, Broadway Central Hotel. Mr. Platt has complete samples of the genuine Webster dictionaries controlled by the Reilly & Britton Co., as well as of their large miscellaneous line.

EDWARD STERN & Co., 116 N. Twelfth Street, Philadelphia, will publish on September 1 "The Roosevelt Bears, their Travels and Adventures," by Seymour Eaton. This bear book is intended chiefly for children and will have a picture on each page by V. Floyd Campbell, sixteen of them in colors.

THE AMERICAN SPORTS PUBLISHING COMPANY, 21 Warren Street, New York City, has just brought out "The Olympic Games of 1906 at Athens, Greece," edited by James E. Sullivan, commissioner of the United States to the Olympic games. The work is illustrated with eighty pictures from photographs and contains a summary and table of results.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just ready "Q's" new book, "From a Cornish Window," also, "Jottings of an Old Solicitor," by Sir John Hollams, who has attained the good old age of 86, and reached the highest rank in his profession, whose book contains reminiscences of the great judges of recent times, and of the famous barristers, and deals with certain aspects of legal matters, interesting especially to the "limbs."

A FRENCH journalist recently complained to Tolstoy that the American people were devoid of ideals, and devoted only to the passion of money-getting. Professor Brander Matthews, in an address given before two colleges, set himself to answer these and other sweeping charges made by foreign critics. His address is now being brought out in permanent form under the title of "American Character," by Thomas Y. Crowell & Co.

THE CENTURY Co. has under way a new and revised edition of "The Bible for Young People," which is to sell at one-half the price of the original edition. It will be a large book, with twenty-four illustrations from the old masters. They have also made a collection of the best of the fairy stories, rhymes and pictures that have appeared in St. Nicholas. These will soon be published under the title "Fairy Stories Retold from St. Nicholas."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish in September a new book by Marion Harland, entitled "The Distractions of Martha." It relates the experiences of a young housewife who has set out to manage the affairs of a modest household near a city. Her trials and triumphs, adventures and misadventures are described, and also the way she dealt with the servant question in the suburbs. There will be ten full-page illustrations by R. Emmett Owen.

THE PUBLIC PUBLISHING COMPANY, Chicago, will publish shortly Frederick C. Howe's story, "The Confessions of a Monopolist," which is now running as a serial in The Public. This is a story of the career of a monopolist of to-day, who through acquiring monopolies advances in power and gets a seat in the United States Senate. Two chapters in the book will embody the articles "The Confessions of a Commercial Senator," which appeared last year in The World's Work.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY are now ready to supply orders for C. H. Forbes-Lindsay's book on "Panama, the Isthmus and the Canal." The author has had unusual facilities for preparing his work, and describes in full the canal as it will actually be constructed, giving also a history of the country and the work done towards building a canal through the isthmus from the earliest times to the present. The volume contains two large maps and numerous illustrations from photograph and explanatory maps in the text.

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY have started their list of holiday gift and travel books for this fall with the publication of a new edition of "The Cities of Northern Italy," by Grant Allen and George C. Williamson. This edition is in two volumes, and is illustrated with eighty full-page illustrations. Mr. Allen's work on his travel books was a delight to him, and the intimate way in which he took his readers by the hand and entertained them with his fund of historical and artistic knowledge, well leavened with the wit of his original observations, makes it a delight to the readers also.

HARPER & BROTHERS are announcing for the holidays "A Japanese Blossom," by Onoto Watanna, an amusing story of a mixed Japanese and American family. Picturesque Japanese festivals and customs add their interest to a story told with all the charm and naïveté which Onoto Watanna knows how to impart to her work, and the work is illustrated by American and Japanese artists. For the young there will be "A Little Son of Sunshine," a story for girls and boys by Ellen Douglas Deland; and "The Beautiful Story of Doris and Julie," by Gertrude Smith, a merry tale of two poor little sisters who are adopted by a lonely but wealthy maiden lady, and whose adventures make good reading for little minds from three to ten years old.

THE autumn announcements of Houghton, Mifflin & Co., which will be ready for distribution the last of August, will comprise over forty new titles, together with about twenty books in new and revised form. Their leaders in fiction are new novels by Mrs. Clara Louise Burnham and Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward, and a volume of short stories by Miss Alice Brown. In biography there are the "Life and Letters of Lafcadio Hearn," by Mrs. Elizabeth Bisland, a work of great promise; "Walt Whitman," by Professor Bliss Perry; and "John Sherman," by Hon. Theodore E. Burton. "Shakespeare's Complete Works" appear in the one-volume Cambridge Poets Series, and the "Complete Poems of Edward Rowland Sill" are collected for the first time in one volume at a popular price.

THE AMERICAN GYMNASIA COMPANY, Boston, has in press a book on "The Art of Swimming," by Richard F. Nelligan, instructor of gymnastics, athletics and aquatics at Amherst College. The book is designed partly to present certain important facts regarding swimming and to call attention to the need for including swimming instruction in the school and college curriculums for men and women, as has been done in Germany and England. Means of accomplishing this and an outline of what one American college has already done are told in the book. It also includes a concise practical description of the fundamental and exhibition strokes, illustrated graphically from drawings and photographs. The book brings forth points likely to prove of real interest not only to swimmers, but to educators and those who desire to advance the physical welfare of the people.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation Clara E. Laughlin's new book of advice to women, "The Complete Beauty Book" and "The Complete Home," by the same author, the two to form companions to her "Complete Hostess," "The House of Islam," a new novel of Turkish life and customs by Marmaduke Pickthall, author of "Said, the Fisherman," "The Avenging Hour," dealing with English social life, which is to introduce to American readers the popular English author, H. E. Prevoist Battersby; "The Guarded Flame," by W. B. Maxwell, author of "Vivien," a story about English people; also, the sixth volume of John Bach McMaster's "History of the People of the United States," bringing the history down to 1842. Another volume, bringing McMaster's history down to the beginning of the war between the States, will complete the work.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD COMPANY will publish in October "The President of Quex," a woman's club story by Miss Helen M. Winslow. "Quex" is the fictitious name of a thoroughly up-to-date club, and the story is of a young and beautiful woman suddenly bereaved of all she loves in life, and changed to a recluse in her fine home, to whom the presidency of Quex comes as a revelation and brings a new and larger life. Under the leadership of the president and her loyal supporters Quex becomes a power for social betterment that even a legislature must reckon with, and is especially efficient in respect to that blot upon our civilization, child labor. It comes at a time when the attention of the whole country is focussed upon that very subject, and shows what women's clubs may do in beneficial civic lines. The story has a charming romantic interest, with two love stories involving prominent characters, and a vivid presentation of a modern bachelor maid and bachelor man.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co., announce another book by John Collis Snaith, author of "Broke of Covenen," entitled "Henry Northcote," the story of a criminal trial in which the hero acts as advocate; "Perkins of Portland, Perkins the Great," by Ellis Parker Butler, eight funny stories by the author of "Pigs is Pigs," in which the leading part is taken by Perkins, the Sherlock Holmes of the modern advertising world, giving vivid accounts of his adventures in patent medicines, mineral waters, guinea pigs, book publishing, etc.; also, "The Borderland of Psychical Research," by Dr. James H. Hyslop, vice-president of the Society for Psychical Research, in which the author deals with the abnormal, such as double and triple personality, the secondary self, hypnotism, hallucinations and pseudo-spiritistic phenomena. Dr. Hyslop's former work, "Science and Future Life," dealt with the scientific investigation of trance phenomena, and "Enigmas of Psychical Research" dealt with the supernormal. These and the forthcoming book give a comprehensive account of the findings of the Society of Psychical Research during the last twenty-five years.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will publish in October a new book by Roy Rolfe Gilson, entitled "Katrina," a story of a newspaper writer who lives over again the love of his youth in the little daughter of the woman he lost. The book will have six illustrations, in color, by Alice Barber Stephens. They will also bring out in October a companion volume to their last year's "Christmas Carol and The Cricket on the Hearth" in "Mr. Pickwick's Christmas," with illustrations by the same artist, George Alfred Williams; the first volume of Russell Sturgis's "History of Architecture," dealing with the architecture of Egypt, Western Asia, Greece, Etruria and Rome, an important feature of which will be the careful study of the climatic influences on architecture and of the relations of the domestic to the monumental architecture in various countries; also, a charming book for young people, "Lady Hollyhock and Her Friends," by Margaret Coulson Walker, which instructs children in a pleasant narrative text how to make dolls out of endless things, flowers, fruits, nuts, corn husks, potatoes, snow, rags, paper, dough, etc., etc., at least fifty dolls in all, some of which are peculiarly attractive as they are reproduced in color in the forthcoming volume, and others of which are humorous.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will have ready during the early autumn the Knutsford edition of Mrs. Gaskell's works, on which the editorial work has been done by Dr. Adolphus Ward, Master of Peterhouse, Cambridge. "Wife and Daughter" and "North and South" will appear first in the set. In fiction the books promised include "A Draught of the Blue," translated from the Hindu by F. W. Bain, who did such fine work on "The Digit of the Moon;" "Shibusawa, a Story of Japanese Life," by I. William Adams; and two volumes of children's stories; "Twilight Fairy Tales," by Mrs. Ballington Booth; and "The Enchanted Land," by Louey Chisholm, who is following up a previous series of stories that scored a success with the little people some time since. Of literary and artistic value will be "The Ethics of Wagner's Ring of the Nibelungen," by Mary Elizabeth Lewis; "The Heart of Hamlet's Mystery," a study by Karl Wedder, translated by Miss Elizabeth Wilder, to which Professor W. J. Rolfe has written an exhaustive introduction; and part 1 of volume 2 of J. J. Jusserand's "Literary History of the English People," covering from the Renaissance to the Civil War, to be followed by part 2, volume 2, "From the Civil War to the Pope," and volume 3, "From the Civil War to the Present Day." A record of the very popular motor-car trips will be Michael Myers Shoemaker's "Winged Wheels in France," covering nearly 5000 miles of travelling through the Rhine Valley and into Switzerland.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in preparation "The Dragon Painter," a new Japanese romance by Sidney McCall, author of "The Breath of the Gods," "Truth Dexter," etc., which will be handsomely illustrated; a "Handbook of Polar Discoveries," by General A. W. Greely, who bases his work on his earlier "Handbook of Arctic Discoveries," having brought all the information up to date and adding a summary of the brilliant achievements of adventures in the frozen North within the years that have elapsed since it was published; "Janet," a story for girls, by Anna Chapin Ray, the second volume in the new Sidney Series of books for the young to be issued in the fall, with illustrations by Alice Barber Stephens; "The Silver Crown," another collection of fables for old and young by Laura E. Richards, intended as a companion volume to "The Golden Windows;" "In Treaty with Honor," by Mary Catherine Crowley, a story of the struggle of French Canada for independence in 1837-1838; also, "The Wonders of the Colorado Desert," in which George Wharton James describes his perilous journey made down the overflow of the Colorado River in Southern California to the mysterious Salton Sea. They also announce a new uniform edition of the works of Plutarch. This edition will consist of Dryden's translation of Plutarch's Lives, in five volumes, corrected from the Greek and revised by A. H. Clough, with photogravure frontispieces; also, Plutarch's Essays and Miscellanies, in five volumes, comprising all his writings collected under the title of "Morals," translated from the Greek by several hands, corrected from the Greek and revised by W. W. Goodwin, with an introduction by R. W. Emerson, and illustrated with photogravure frontispieces.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR FALL

Dodge Publishing Co.

40-42 East 19th Street

The following books represent a few of the many good things we have to offer the trade for the coming holiday season. The public looks forward with eagerness each year to the showing of the "Dodge" publications, and in many of the larger stores our unique productions are the central attraction. We would suggest a personal visit to our comfortable sample rooms, if convenient, but if you cannot visit us we promise you careful and prompt attention by mail. Samples will be cheerfully forwarded to responsible booksellers and advertising literature gratis. If you have not got our booklet "Good Things for Booklovers," send for it to-day.

BIRTHDAY BOOKS. An entirely new line, printed from new type, with decorated borders in color by Gerta Schroedter. Three titles—Shakespeare, Longfellow and Emerson. Beautifully bound in decorated cloth, $1.00; full limp morocco, $1.50 half; morocco, hand sewed and tooled, $2.50; full morocco, hand sewed and tooled, $3.50. (Ready Sept. 1st.)

COZY CORNER CONFIDENCES. By WALTER PULITZER. A companion volume to "A Cynic's Meditations." The sayings are even better than "A Cynic's Meditations," (now in its 16th edition), concerning which John Kendrick Bangs said: "Many of the epigrams are delicious," and the London Sketch adds: "We certainly place Mr. Pulitzer far above other American writers of epigrams." Made in unusual size and style. Boards, 75 cents; leather, $1.00. (Ready.)

THE BIOGRAPHY OF OUR BABY.

Verses by EDMUND VANCE COOKE and drawings by BESSIE COLLINS PEASE. An entirely new baby record book. New colored plates by a popular artist; verses by the author of "Chronicles of the Little Tot," and paper made to be written on with pen and ink. These are a few of the points that go to make this the best book on the market at the price. Cloth, $1.50; silk, padded, $3.00; ooze leather, $4.00. (Ready.)

THE INGOLDSBY LEGENDS.

A handsome edition of this favorite classic, beautifully printed and bound. Made in two handy volumes, with frontispiece in photogravure. Cloth, $1.50; limp leather, $2.00. (Ready.)

TOLD TO THE LITTLE TOT.

EDMUND VANCE COOKE's first book for children is going to make a decided hit everywhere. Bound uniform with his volume of poems about children, "Chronicles of the Little Tot," and containing thirty-nine illustrations by BESSIE COLLINS PEASE, nine in full color.

There is probably no one in the world better fitted to tell stories to children than Mr. Cooke. His recent poems about children show a wonderful insight and a thorough knowledge of child life and character, and in a very short time Mr. Cooke's poems have obtained a wide and cordial reception. Cloth, $1.50. (Ready September.)

CHRISTMAS BOOKS

by Charles Dickens, containing all of the Christmas stories, beautifully printed and bound. Two volumes, cloth, $1.50; limp leather, $2.50. (Ready.)

THE PHILOSOPHY OF REST.

By E. A. FLETCHER. A work of great helpfulness to those who would find rest from the nerve-wrecking rush of present-day life. Cloth, 75 cents. (Ready.)

A PRAYER.

By MAX EHLMANN. This beautiful prayer, which has had a circulation of about half a million copies, is printed with several other choice prose poems by the same author in an artistic little volume in gold and two colors. One of the most successful books made this year. Leatherette, 75 cents; ooze leather, $1.50. (Ready.)

GREAT IDEALS. Five new titles are now ready—Duty, An Ideal, Crossing the Bar, The Psalm of Life, Day by Day. Dainty bindings in leatherette padded, 35 cents; English leather, 75 cents. (Ready.)

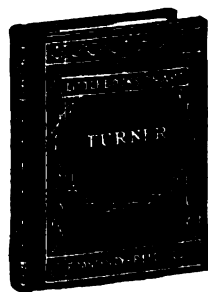

HAND COLORED BOOKS. "Rimes of the Ancient Mariner," "Legend of Sleepy Hollow" and Browning's "Saul." Hand colored initial letters, Japan inserts, original ornaments. Bound in full morocco, $2.00. (Ready September.)

GOLDEN TREASURY OF IRISH SONGS AND LYRICS. Edited with notes by CHARLES WELSH, with the assistance of such distinguished Irish scholars and poets as Dr. Douglas Hyde, Stephen Lucine Gywnn, Lady Gregory, D. J. O'Donoghue, Prof. Robinson, of Harvard; Dr. Maurice F. Egan, of the Catholic University in Washington, D. C., and many others of equal prominence. Two volumes, cloth, $2.50; half morocco, $6.00. (Ready October.)

LITTLE BOOKS OF ART. This series forms an exquisitely artistic little library of art. Daintily bound, artistically printed and copiously illustrated, they are practically indispensable to the art lover. Four new titles are now ready—"Raphael," "Greek Art," "Vandyke," "Millet." Cloth, $1.50. (Ready.)

HUMPTY DUMPTY AND OTHER SONGS. By JOSEPH MOORAT. A very beautiful child's book, containing many of the old favorite nursery rhymes set to music, with illustrations by Paul Woodroffe. Among the compositions are: The King of France, Hush-a-Bye Baby, Rub a Dub Dub, Humpty Dumpty, Bye Baby Bunting, There Was a Crooked Man, Three Little Mice, etc., etc. Boards, $1.25. (Ready September.)

THROUGH THE YEAR WITH LONGFELLOW and THROUGH THE YEAR WITH TENNYSON. Two new volumes in the Through the Year Series. Printed in red and black. Cloth, $1.00; leather, $1.50. (Ready September.)

BY THE AUTHOR OF BROKE OF COVENDEN

HENRY NORTHCOTE

By JOHN COLLIS SNAITH

12mo, cloth, $1.50

Mr. Snaith has written another remarkable novel, which is very original, very interesting, and very powerfully told. It is the story of a criminal trial in which the hero acts as advocate. Mr. Snaith has told the story with all the cunning of his art, which he so well exemplified in "Broke of Covenden."

THE LONDON TIMES ON READING ADVANCE SHEETS SAID:

"It is the most interesting story that we have read for months and months."

BY THE AUTHOR OF PIGS IS PIGS

PERKINS OF PORTLAND PERKINS THE GREAT

By ELLIS PARKER BUTLER

Illustrated. 12mo, $1.00

Eight exquisitely funny stories in Mr. Butler's best vein. Perkins is the Sherlock Holmes of the modern advertising world. The stories give vivid accounts of the immortal Perkins' adventures in the advertising of patent medicine, mineral water, real estate, guinea pigs, book publishing and comic opera. Buy it and laugh. It is to the point.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY will handle in this country Sisley's Children's Classics.

EDWARD J. CLODE, New York City, will have ready September 15 "The Late Tenant," Gordon Holmes's new story of love and mystery, which will be well advertised by the publishers throughout the country.

THE AUTHORS AND NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION will put on sale August 27 "Doc Gordon," by Mrs. Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman, a novel of Southern New Jersey, of which the hero is a famous horse-trader who is full of wit and inexhaustible good humor. Only one store in each city can have this book, and only by ordering a special edition promptly can it get this chance to secure the book of this famous writer.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have been fortunate in getting possession of some deservedly popular fiction. "The Wire Tappers," by Arthur Stringer, needs its third printing, as does also "The District Attorney," by William Sage. The sixth printing is necessary of "The Sage Brush Parson," by A. B. Ward; and the fourteenth printing of "The Wood-Carver of 'Lympus," by M. E. Waller, which has only just passed its second year of success.

LAIRD & LEE will issue at once a new book of the ever-popular Opie Read, under the title "By the Eternal," of which the hero is Andrew Jackson, "Old Hickory." The story gives an insight into the family life of the hero of New Orleans, and shows him surrounded by characters of great interest and much humor. Lovers of fiction, lovers of history and lovers of the American Union will all be pleased by this story of the foggy days of our national life.

HERBERT B. TURNER & Co. announce "The Book of Elizabethan Verse," chosen and edited, with notes, by William Stanley Braithwaite, with an introduction by Thomas Wentworth Higginson. The volume contains the work of 117 authors, comprising over 750 selections, and Mr. Braithwaite has done for the greatest period of English poetry what Mr. Stedman accomplished in his "Victorian Anthology" for the age of Tennyson. The volume is made uniform with "The Oxford Book of Verse," with an addition of a photogravure vignette on the title-page of Whitehall Palace, 1590.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have just ready Marie Corelli's new novel, "The Treasure of Heaven," which has for hero a man of seventy, who has enormous wealth and who, in acquiring it, has never known a day's real happiness. The story shows, we are told, that its author "is convinced that great wealth is the cause of great misery; that there is but little honor, honesty, peace, charity or love in the society where wealth is the touchstone of success; that only among the poor and humble classes, among peasants, outcasts and wanderers does love which is 'the treasure of heaven' find its golden shrine."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will have ready early in September "Whispering Smith: a story of Rocky Mountain Life," by Frank H. Spearman, illustrated in colors by N. C. Wyeth. It is a novel of the West when the railroad first went through, when men fought rivers, mountains and each other with a sure eye and a quick gun, and it has the life and action of an early Bret Harte story. A. T. Quiller-Couch's story, "Sir John Constantine," relating adventures in the Island of Corsica in 1756, is also under way; and Hopkinson Smith's "Tides of Barnegat" is making its way towards a place among the great successes of the year.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

The Arbiter was Mr. Ashworthy, who came of a manufacturing family in the north of England and was a careful steward of the great wealth he inherited. In 1859 he was returned to Parliament and remained till 1885. He voted steadily for "peace, retrenchment and reform," then devoted the rest of his life to study and philanthropy. This Conference was specially summoned to discuss the subject of war. It lasted seven days. The names of the speakers are fictitious, but the summing up is a great argument against war and a great plan for universal peace.

The Earl of Watermead, with an income of thirty thousand pounds a year, is a bankrupt through his own foolish extravagance, six years after his coming of age. His only accomplishment is driving a motor better than any one in London. Finding himself friendless and penniless he wanders into the country and obtains a situation as chauffeur to a doctor and falls in love with a poor but charming girl, ignorant of his true name and position. The little sketch winds up in unexpected, dramatic style.

Downs, Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Forbush, [Mrs. G: Sheldon Downs, "Georgie Sheldon," pseud.] Step by step: a story of high ideals. N. Y., George W. Dillingham Co., [1906.] c. 6-336 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of Louis Arnold, who, bereft of parents and home, is in his twelfth year consigned to the New Hampshire Poor Farm. He runs away four weeks later from this distasteful life, tramping his way to Massachusetts, and enlists the sympathies of a thrifty farmer, who practically adopts him, keeping him until he is twenty-one and giving him a good education. The boy's romance is followed to its happy ending and the past history of his parents' revealed. It is shown that he has been wrongfully deprived of a fair inheritance by an unscrupulous man, who after many years makes restitution. The story inculcates high ideals, and is wholesome and elevating. By the author of "Katherine's sheaves."

On July 4, 1857, a meeting of Protestant Episcopal bishops, clerical and lay delegates met on Lookout Mountain, near Chattanooga, Tenn., and adopted plans for building up in the South a university of learning, meeting the requirements of higher education but associating such learning with religion, which was not permitted in state institutions. After many troubles the cornerstone was laid in 1860. Then came the Civil War. In 1866, the writer, the only surviving member of the first committee, assisted Bishop Quintard to resuscitate the project. The history of the fine university for which so many sacrifices have been made is told by one who loves it.

The writer, a well-known newspaper man who held the position of American Consul at Para, Brazil, made the various journeys described into the area of the upper Amazon at the suggestion of James G. Blaine, when Secretary of State to President Harrison. The chief object of the exploration was to find new rubber territory; a secondary motive was to make known to the world the wonderful natural resources of "Amazonia," a region of equatorial South America, wholly undeveloped, and called by the natives La tierra de manana, ("The land of to-morrow"). The narrative is a succession of pen pictures of a country and people of which the world is almost entirely ignorant. The unexplored forests of India rubber and other indigenous products of Amazonia, as well as its rich gold and silver deposits, have earned for it the name of "the California of South America."

As a play "The lion and the mouse" has had a long run in several theatres. The plot of the play is retained in the novel, but expanded, many interesting details being added not possible in a drama. The plot is built up around a man named John Burkett Ryder, "the Colossus" the world calls him, who has made in oil a fortune beyond computation. To carry through one of his moneymaking schemes he aims to crush a Judge of the Supreme Court he cannot bribe by accusing him of "graft" on false testimony. The Judge's daughter has written a book, "The American Octopus," which the public thinks pictures Ryder. It has been published anonymously, but it is the means of bringing the young author into the Ryder palace, where she beards the lion in his den and succeeds in saving her father's life and honor. An argument against trusts and the present day methods of accumulating colossal fortunes.

A London newspaper to increase its circulation offers a prize of a thousand pounds to the finder of a tin disk buried in an out-of-the-way place. An eccentric middle-aged American woman, travelling in England with her pretty niece, becomes one of the seekers after the buried treasure. The niece is forced to accompany her aunt on her nightly strolls and is arrested by a young Englishman for trespassing on his property. The result is a love story, which is not without amusing scenes.

OBITUARY NOTES.

HOWARD WILFRID BELL, publisher of the "Unit" Books, was drowned on Saturday, August 18, at Loch Arbor, N. J. Mr. Bell was a graduate of the University of California, and had also taken courses at Harvard and Oxford universities.

WILLIAM J. BELL, connected with the Office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY as boy and man for twenty-seven years, died at his home on Monday, August 20, after a long illness brought on by a severe fall three years ago this month. Mr. Bell was born in New York City, in 1864, and after leaving school came to this office when only thirteen years of age. After his accident, which completely paralyzed him, he partially recovered after a year at home and in hospitals, and resumed some work at this office, but his injuries did not admit of the necessary work of a business manager, which position he was holding at the time of the accident. His connection with the office was not severed until 1904. He leaves a wife and two little girls.

REBECCA S. CLARKE, better known as "Sophie May," writer of many books for children, died at her home in Norridgewock, Me., August 16, at the age of seventy-three years. She had been in feeble health for several months. Her "Little Prudy," "Dotty Dimple," "Flyaway," and "Flaxie Frizzle" books were so true to the ways and thoughts of children, for whom they were written, that Miss Clarke was styled "the Dickens of the nursery." She also wrote a number of books for young women. Besides these works Miss Clarke had written the Quinnebasset Series, for young women, viz.: "The Doctor's Daughter," "Our Helen," "The Asbury Twins," "Quinnebasset Girls," "Janet," and "In Old Quinnebasset." These were brought out from 1871 to 1881. She had also written a novel entitled "Drones' Honey," which was published in 1887.

THE REV. DR. RICHARD EDDY, a prominent Universalist clergyman in New England, an author and a historian, died suddenly on August 16, at Gloucester, Mass. Dr. Eddy was born in Providence, R. I., June 21, 1828. He began his career as a preacher while still a student in New York City in 1848, and during the anti-Masonic crusade lectured in defense of the Masonic Order. In recognition of this service he was made a thirty-three degree Mason. He held pastorates in Rome, Buffalo and Canton, N. Y., in Philadelphia, and at Gloucester, Mass. He was the author of a "History of the Sixtieth New York State Volunteers," of which he was chaplain from 1861 to 1863; "History of Universalism in America, 1636-1886," "Alcohol in History," "Alcohol in Society," "Universalism in Gloucester," "History of Universalism, A.D. 120-1890," "The Martyr to Liberty," three sermons on Abraham Lincoln, etc. Early in the seventies he became interested in prohibition, to the propagation of which he devoted much of his time in recent years. He was editor of the Universalist Quarterly Review from 1884 to 1891, and had edited the Universalist Register since 1887.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

AUGUST 25, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE SECOND-HAND BOOKSELLERS' STOCK-LIST.*

THE stock of second-hand books having been sifted, the most important task of the bookseller must next be considered, namely, the cataloguing and pricing of the books. As upon this work depends the ready reference to the books in stock and on the shelves, and, indeed, the very life of the business itself, it need hardly be pointed out that the task of preparing the stock-list is an exceedingly delicate one, not to be undertaken hurriedly or performed carelessly, and should therefore be attended to either by the owner himself or by an experienced assistant under his employer's direction or in consultation with him.

The titles of the books should be written on separate cards, allotting one card for each book so far as it is possible to do so. A card 3 x 5 inches in size, of good, flexible stock, has been found the most convenient and serviceable by cataloguers. If one card should prove insufficient it is better to use two or more rather than to write the continuation of the title on the reverse of the first card. The cards as completed, each alphabet being separated with a colored card having the alphabet printed at the left-hand corner on a raised shank, should be kept in a metal tray open at the top, or, better still, in a cabinet such as are now furnished by the Library Bureau and other manufacturers of library and office fixtures.

*Continuation of the series of "The Profession of Bookselling." A list of authorities quoted will be given on conclusion.

There is a wide difference of opinion among booksellers as to the form of the title. Some booksellers transcribe the title verbatim et literatim, while others aim at the utmost brevity. Both these systems have their faults. Verbose titles are apt to be tiresome, and, if persisted in, smack of pedantry, while titles that are baldly and indiscriminately abbreviated may become difficult to understand. The correct method, therefore, lies between these two methods. If the title be altogether too diffuse the bookseller may conscientiously omit the unessential and purely ornamental verbiage. In cataloguing important early-printed books, on the title-pages of which our forebears may have unburdened the entire secret of the "inwardness" of their beloved literary offspring, it may occasionally, as a matter of curiosity, be desirable to retain its original and often absurd wording even to "lining" the title, that is, separating each line of the title-page with a perpendicular dash |. Evident errors even in the wording and spelling of such a title should be preserved, the bookseller unburdening the responsibility for such errors with a (sic) upon the author or compositor who may have "rested in the Lord" for centuries past.

Each stock-list card should give the following information of the book which it represents:

Catalogue Number. This, of course, is changeable and in many cases may not yet exist at all.

Subject.

Author, editor, or, if neither is given on the title-page, the first word, (not an article,) of the title, or a subject catch-word. Writers using a pseudonym should be catalogued under their own names unless they are better known by the pseudonym, as for example, George Eliot, George Sand, Voltaire and others.

A title card as written on these lines would read as follows:

Windelband, W: History of philosophy; tr.

Macmillan, 1901. 8°, cl. Waterstained, binding warped. ? [$3.50] o. p. $2.00

which may be translated, (reading from left to right,) as follows: Number in printed catalogue, 850; subject, philosophy; author, W:[illiam] Windelband, W.; according to the American Library Association rules, being the abbreviated form of William; title, History of Philosophy; translated by J. H. Tufts and revised for the second time; published in New York by the Macmillan Company in 1901, in octavo, bound in cloth. The book is in disreputable condition as noted, was bought for?, publisher's price $3.50, and because out of print, and not likely soon to be reprinted, is offered at $2. The shelf number is 1820 and the source of purchase Libbie's auction room.

Other memoranda for the bookseller's own information such as whether duplicates of any book catalogued may be obtained from the publisher, or from another dealer, at a reduced price, with quotations for single copies and quantities, etc., may be entered upon the title card at the bookseller's discretion, thus giving a complete account of the book since it came into his possession. Of course, many of these details will be dropped in preparing the titles for the printed catalogue. Even in cataloguing the stock for the bookseller's own use some of the details will be found superfluous or impracticable as in the case of minor books, pamphlets, periodicals and newspapers which are bought in bulk and often sold in the same manner. And there will be some who will scoff at the suggestion of keeping a stock-list of any kind, preferring to grope by the hour through their accumulation of junk in the vain hope of finding what they think they once might have had, until the impatient customer, tired of waiting, turns away in disgust. Others claim to depend upon their phenomenal and inflexible memories in lieu of a stock-list; but a man who can as instantly and unfailingly locate a book in a stock of ten thousand volumes or upwards as another less gifted person can refer to it in an orderly and well-kept stock-list, does himself an injustice by remaining hidden away in a bookshop. He is a prodigy whom Fortune, if she but knew of him, would surely entice to invade broader and more profitable fields than the second-hand book business can ever afford him.

THE TRUTH ABOUT "BEN-HUR."

How "Ben-Hur" came to be written and published has been told many times, but, unfortunately, few of the prevalent tales concerning this remarkable work are in accordance with the facts. Recently it has been stated in a popular magazine that "Ben-Hur" belonged to the long list of manuscripts which met with repeated rejection. This is not the fact. The story was first submitted to Harper & Brothers for publication and promptly accepted. The book, moreover, was a reasonable though not a remarkable success in its first year. The fact which surprised the publishers was that its sales were doubled in the year following. It advanced, from year to year, by geometrical progression until it became one of the most widely selling books in American literature. Many interesting facts concerning the inspiration and growth of "Ben-Hur" are set down by General Wallace in his autobiography, which will be one of the important books on the fall list of Harper & Brothers.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE ALDEN "WAY OUT."

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: There appeared in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of August 18 nearly 600 lines of advertising under the heading of Books Wanted; during the busy season I should place the number at 1000 lines. In the entire list there appears the name of but one department store for a single book. If the exclusive agency plan is to be carried out many of the agencies would undoubtedly fall to the department stores; who then is to take care of the buying public who are constantly demanding out-of-print books? This class of custom must be taken care of.

I quote from the New York Times of April 22, 1905, in review of "A Publisher's Confession." . . . "With all the display of activity on the part of the trade and despite the account of 'big sellers' scattered over the land by the hundreds of thousands, our publisher is convinced that a very small proportion of possible readers is reached at all. And this he attributes to the very imperfect development of the means of distribution, the lack of the retail dealers in books in other than the larger towns."

Can anything be more convincing and conclusive than the above in which all publishers agree? Now, according to Mr. Alden's reasoning, the publishers are to be asked to put in operation a plan which would greatly decrease the number of distributing agencies, thus cutting down the total output of their publications. The retailers on their part are asked to combine to coerce the publishers to inaugurate a system that practically will force eighty per cent. of them (the retailers) out of business. I may be dull of discernment, but I fail to see any harmony or equity in this.

Mr. Alden's experiment of twenty-five years ago had to do, as I understand it, with non-copyright publications, titles of which could be purchased of other publishers in different editions, consequently the dealer was enabled to always have a sufficient supply, even although he was not the agent; but we are dealing now with copyright books, of which there is one edition made by one publisher, and any restriction placed upon them which in any way would decrease the number of outlets would seriously affect the general sale.

In entering these discussions one of my desires was to bring out expressions from other dealers, although up to the present time nothing has appeared in print, but I have not given up hope. "Come in, the water's warm." As far as I am personally concerned, these letters are written in a friendly spirit, with the object of bettering trade conditions if possible, and it is not my desire to exhibit any animus, but I must deny emphatically the gentleman's charge of subornation. Honi soit qui mal y pense. Found, hidden away in the files of twenty-five years ago in a certain jobbing house in this city was a circular over Mr. Alden's name offering special inducements to jobbers to buy Mr. Alden's publications, the reasons alleged therefor being overproduction and stagnation of business during the summer months; yet Mr. Alden at that time did not sell to jobbers but to "exclusive agents."

Would any member of the A. P. A. refuse to sell me a hundred copies of a book merely because they had sold two hundred copies to my local competitor? Certainly not, provided my credit was good and I agreed to maintain the schedule retail price fixed by him. On the other hand, had I gone to Mr. Lovell for a hundred copies of his publication, could I have gotten them after showing a willingness to make any and all concessions?

In the gentleman's last paragraph he leads us to infer that kodaks and sewing machines can be purchased in the city at one agency only. The fact of the matter is they can be purchased on nearly every block, the selling price being the same in all stores.

The day the exclusive agency method is put in operation by the A. P. A. I sell a business which nets me fifteen thousand a year.

Yours sincerely,

R. E. SHERWOOD.

NEW YORK CITY, August 22, 1906.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE August issue of The Burlington Magazine, published in this country by Robert Grier Cooke, Inc., contains the fifth part of Sir Richard R. Holmes's interesting account of "The English Miniature Painters," treating of the work of Edward Cooper, illustrated with a number of specimens of his best-known work; the seventh instalment of Lawrence Weaver's papers on "Some Architectural Lead Work," treating of Scottish lead spires, with illustrations; the third of the articles on "The Development of Rembrandt as an Etcher," by C. J. Holmes, with three plates, and several other articles of general interest to collectors and art students. In the department of Art Books of the Month are criticisms of a number of recent books on Rembrandt, etc. Art in America is reviewed by F. J. Mather, Jr., and Roger E. Fry, and Art in Germany by Professor Dr. Hans W. Singer.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

L. C. PAGE & Co. publish this week a holiday book made up of little masterpieces of Hawthorne, entitled "In Colonial Days," and "The Giant Scissors," the third story of Mrs. Johnston's that has been put in a special holiday edition, completing the trio of Little Colonial Stories, which were originally published in the Cosy Corner Series.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has just ready a volume of recollections by Bishop Tuttle, of Missouri, Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, entitled "Reminiscences of a Missionary Bishop." The record of the past four decades in Church and State, particularly in the West, is touched upon in this book by an eye witness whose vantage ground was particularly favorable for observation. The book affords an opportunity to study at first hand the marvellous rapidity with which modern civilization has developed within that period.

LAIRD & LEE will publish in October two handy books for automobilists, namely, "Krausz's A B C of Motoring" and "Krausz's Complete Automobile Record." The "A B C of Motoring" contains practical every-day information for owners of automobiles, with a dictionary of terms, description of the mechanisms of different types of cars, troubles of the roads, speed laws of each State, etc., accompanied with tables and illustrations and prefaced with an introduction by John Farson, president of the Automobile Association. The "Complete Automobile Record" will be found useful in keeping a record of expenses, starting and objective points, miles run, cost of repairs, etc., arranged in daily and weekly columns for fifty-two weeks.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD Co. will publish on Saturday, September 1, George Cary Eggleston's latest novel, "Blind Alleys: a Novel of Nowadays," in which he leaves his distinctive Southern field and gives instead a strong story on love and mystery, with its scene laid in New York; also "Hearts and the Cross," by Harold Morton Kramer. Mr. Kramer, an editor of the Morning Times, of Frankfort, Ind., is new to the ranks of novelists, but from the excellence of his work is destined soon to be widely known. This house will also publish at once eighteen cloth bound, illustrated juveniles by such authors as Margaret Sidney, Edward Stratemeyer, E. T. Tomlinson, A. T. Dudley, Amanda Douglas, Nina Rhoades, Amy Brooks and other favorites, forming the largest line of this description issued by any American publishing house.

BRIMLEY JOHNSON & INCE, Ltd., have issued under the title of "The Two Arcadias" the plays and poems of Rosalind Travers, for which the introduction was written by the late Richard Garnett, who said some very appreciative words of the young and thus far unrevealed writer who showed "a truly poetical fancy, united with a practical concern for contemporary interests and [was] competent to exalt them to the sphere of poetry by investing them with the glamour of imagination. Miss Travers's little volume may be regarded as weight seasonably cast into the scale of refinement and true civilization." The poet shows much humor and trenchant satire when rhyming on the striking features of the present age and throughout her verses, serious and in lighter vein, bear witness to ripe scholarship and cosmopolitan reading.

REILLY & BRITTON Co. have just ready "The Twinkle Tales," a set of six little volumes separately entitled "Mr. Woodchuck," "Bandit Jim Crow," "Prairie-dog Town," "Prince Mud-Turtle," "Sugar-Loaf Mountain" and "Twinkle's Enchantment," in all of which Twinkle, a happy little girl, is the heroine. In her many waking and sleeping dreams she becomes intimately acquainted with all the animals around her father's farm. This house also sends "Tony Tompkins: the Lion Tamer," by Harriet Scott Barber, with remarkable illustrations by Clyde J. Newman, which is a very pretty specimen of book making. The story is a little sad, as it tells of a lion with a head too big for his little body, imagined lions on the wall-paper of his room and did royal battles with them, but it is full of poetry and optimism and appeals to readers sure to prove appreciative.

DUFFIELD & Co. will issue August 29 "The Masters of Fate," by Sophia P. Shaler, (Mrs. N. S. Shaler.) This work, which has for its sub-title "The Power of the Will," aims to show that invalids or cripples have often as good a chance to get along in this world as anybody else. "For the suggestion of the book," says Mrs. Shaler, "and for most of the scientific material contained in it, I am indebted to my husband. In his opinion, the whole field of invalidism in its relation to intellectual and moral development deserves a consideration which it has not hitherto received. His personal acquaintance with many youths who start in the race of life with a burden of grave disabilities resting upon them made it plain to him that the sense of their handicap was a load that needed to be lightened. It seemed worth while, therefore, to prepare, with special reference to this class, a brief statement of the achievements of noted persons who, under the stress of grave difficulties, have shown skill in marshalling their physical and spiritual forces to play the part of men."

BUSINESS NOTES.

LIBERTY, Mo.—Senter & Sharp have opened up a bookstore here. They will be pleased to receive the latest catalogues of publishers and booksellers and the lists of manufacturers of school supplies, etc.

NEW YORK CITY.—Baker & Taylor Co. will use their office, 43 E. 19th Street, exclusively as a sample room, and all orders should be referred to the manufacturing and shipping department, 203 Fulton Street, Brooklyn. A full line of publications will also be found at 33-37 E. 17th Street, New York City, where list orders can be immediately supplied.

NEW YORK CITY.—F. M. Crosset Company, 156 Fifth Avenue, has been incorporated and will succeed to all the business of Crosset & Bates, dissolved after the retirement of Hayden J. Bates. The new corporation publishes the oldest maritime trade journal The Nautical Gazette, a weekly, established in 1871, and Pediatrics, a standard medical journal devoted to the diseases of children. Through the corporation's offices issue the Seventh Regiment Gazette, New York Athletic Club Journal and Building Trades Employers' Association Bulletin, edited by Frederick M. Crosset.

PITTSBURG, PA.—Charles F. Davenport, until recently with Gimbel & Co., of Philadelphia, has taken charge of the book and stationery department of the Joseph Horne Company here.

SCRANTON, PA.—J. F. McDermott has resumed the book and stationery business at 427 Linden Street.

SCRANTON, PA.—Miss A. J. Wilcox has removed her bookshop from the Commonwealth Building, where she had a room on the third floor, to a ground floor store at No. 110 Washington Avenue.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

ANNOUNCEMENT NO. 2

THE BOOK OF Elizabethan Verse

Chosen and Edited with Notes

By WILLIAM STANLEY BRAITHWAITE

With an Introduction by THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON

16MO. MADE UNIFORM WITH "THE OXFORD BOOK OF VERSE,"

WITH AN ADDITION OF A PHOTOGRAVURE VIGNETTE OF WHITEHALL PALACE, 1590, ON THE TITLE PAGE

Bound in Cloth, Stamped in Gold, Full Gilt Edges, $2.00 net. By post, $2.10.

Bound in Full Limp Morocco, Full Gilt Edges, $3.00 net. By post, $3.12.

¶ In this Anthology of the Elizabethan age Mr. Braithwaite has done for the greatest period of English poetry that which long has been left undone, and on the model of completeness which Mr. Stedman has accomplished in his Victorian Anthology for the Age of Tennyson.

¶ THE VOLUME CONTAINS THE WORK OF OVER 117 AUTHORS' COMPRISING OVER 750 SELECTIONS.

¶ It has been the purpose of the editor to make representative, besides the more familiarly-known poets, those who are in many respects equally as great, but whose works have been limited to the few appreciative students of the period.

A partial list of the poets included as given below cannot fail to invite the enthusiasm and interest of the lovers of poetry:

W. Alexander, Earl of Stirling	John Ford	George Peele
Sir Robert Ayton	George Gascoigne	Francis Quarles
Barnabie Barnes	Richard Greene	Sir Walter Raleigh
Nicholas Breton	F. Greville, Lord Brooke	Thomas Randolph
William Browne	James Graham, Marquis of Montrose	William Shakespeare
Thomas Campion	William Habington	Sir Philip Sidney
Thomas Carew	George Herbert	John Shirley
William Cartwright	Lord Herbert, of Cheshire	Sir John Suckling
George Chapman	Robert Herrick	Thomas Sackville, Earl of Dorset
Henry Constable	Thomas Heywood	Robert Southwell
Richard Corbett	Thomas Howell	Edmund Spenser
Richard Crashaw	Richard Barnfield	James Still
John Daniel	Francis Beaumont	Henry Howard, Earl of Surrey
Samuel Daniel	Sir John Beaumont	Joshua Sylvester
Sir William Davenant	Edmund Bolton	Chidick Tichborne
Sir John Davies	Ben Jonson	Edward Vere, Earl of Oxford
Francis Davison	Henry King	Edmund Waller
R. Devereux, Earl of Essex.	Thomas Lodge	Thomas Watson
Thomas Dekker	John Lyly	John Webster
John Donne	Jasper Mayne	George Wither
Michael Drayton	Christopher Marlowe	Robert Wisdome
William Drummond of Hawthornden	Thomas Middleton	Sir Henry Wotton
Sir Edward Dyer	Anthony Munday	Nicholas Young
John Fletcher	Thomas Nashe

DOC GORDON

MARY E. WILKINS-FREEMAN'S Latest Novel

Fourth of the Famous $150,000 Series

Could David Harum be brought back to life he would find himself cast into outer darkness in the matter of horse trading. For years he was the synonym for all that is cleverest, sharpest and most amusing in the devious art of swapping horses. But now a rival not only challenges, but eclipses his honors.

This rival is "Doc Gordon," of Alton, N. J.; a man of mystery even to the villagers and farmers among whom he passes his days. The story of his latest horse trade is on all lips and is the talk of Southern New Jersey. It is the most amusing and unusual anecdote of the year. Strangely enough it has had a thrilling, well nigh tragic sequel, which adds new and strange interest to the tale.

A graphic and wholly delightful account of this famous horse trade and its consequences is given in "Doc Gordon," Mary E. Wilkins's newest and greatest novel. This novel is a complete and utter departure from everything else Miss Wilkins has written. In fact it is not the sort of a book that a woman usually writes, for it has a strength and intensity of humor that are thoroughly masculine.

It is the famous author's first story of the sort, and is full of mystery, stirring adventure, and dainty, natural love interest. "Doc Gordon," the hero, is a man that will live in the reader's memory far more permanently and vitally than David Harum. Whether or not Southern New Jersey folk will relish the mercilessly realistic fashion in which Miss Wilkins portrays their laughable weaknesses is another matter.

New York World:

"A delightful romance—the author's latest success."

North American, Philadelphia:

"The plot baffles the reader's ingenuity and maintains his interest to the very end."

Baltimore American:

"Far and away the best work of Mary E. Wilkins Freeman."

Pittsburg Dispatch:

"This really great novel of human interest, charming love interest, extraordinary action and deepest mystery."

Richmond Times Dispatch:

"A decided departure for Mary E. Wilkins; the most startling novel of her successful list."

Louisville Courier Journal:

Kansas City Journal:

"It has a strength and an intensity of humor that are thoroughly masculine."

Denver News:

"Nothing like it since 'David Harum' was published. A delightful romance of action and mystery."

Albany Press:

"Will live in the reader's memory far more permanently than 'David Harum.'"

Grand Rapids Herald:

"A delightful love interest is skillfully blended with surprising mystery and dramatic action."

Terre Haute Star:

"One of the author's best pieces of work."

Blindfolded

Earle Ashley Walcott's Great Novel

Blindfolded

A modern melodrama in its highest state of cultivation.

The story glows and glories in its adventure; it dazzles and bewilders with its mystery; it lures and fascinates with its romance.

Modern as a problem play, and as up-to-date as a newspaper extra, Blindfolded is an eye-opener.

Read it and remember you are getting melodrama, not of the ancient order, but of the new—adventure, mystery, romance in the melodrama of the moderns.

Two Striking New Novels

A story that shows a wonderful knowledge of the psychology of crime

The Wire Tappers

By ARTHUR STRINGER

"A dashing romance of love and the fascination of crime. The author has displayed much ingenuity in spinning his story, which is certain to compel interest from first page to last."—Duluth Herald.

"In 'The Wire Tappers' the clever novelist, Arthur Stringer, presents a story which may without exaggeration be termed startling. It is the history of two young people, a man and a girl, who through force of circumstances have become involved in nefarious money-making schemes. Their methods for tapping the wires is a decided revelation to the general reader who is unversed in the workings of electrical apparatus. . . . The story is one of absorbing interest in its combination of love and electricity."—Evening Wisconsin.

"A novel of unusual theme, intensely modern in characterization, plot and incident. . . . In fiction of this class it will be difficult to find two more human characters than Durkin and Frances. And Mr. Stringer has also given without any apparent conscious attempt a wonderfully vivid impression of a great city. The rush of the torrent on the surface, the eddies of the undercurrent are all within it."—Chicago Journal.

The District Attorney

By WILLIAM SAGE

A fine story of contemporaneous life

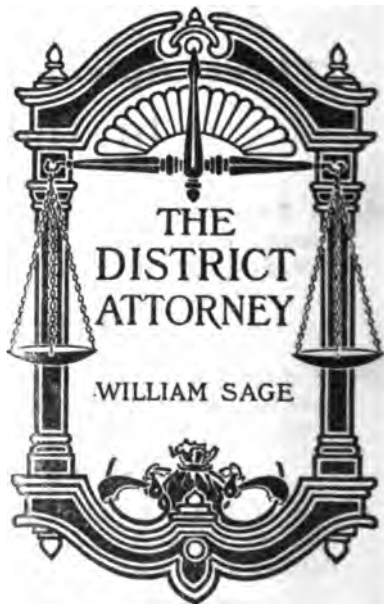

"Written with an engaging simplicity and an absorbing wealth of incident."—New York World.

"A good piece of work . . . a strong and telling novel, with modern political and financial life in America for opportunity and background . . . the tale is convincingly true to facts."—Chicago Record-Herald.

"Richard Haverland proves himself a very Joseph W. Folk in his unrelenting prosecution of political grafters and financial boodlers. A delightful romance is introduced in the story and adds to its interest. The 'District Attorney' is not only an interesting novel, but is wholesome in sentiment and meritorious in the morals it inculcates."—Illinois State Register.

"A magnificent story—a novel that deals with the things of to-day. . . . Nothing more vital, more stirring, and, alas, more true, has been set forth in the guise of fiction for a long time. . . . Mr. Sage has employed his color with restraint; he does not become sensational, although his story is full of dramatic situations and alive with incident. . . . It is a strong story, full of realism, dealing with actual conditions, the whole depicted in a fashion which leaves a vivid impression on the reader."—Nashville American.

The Heart That Knows

A Tale of Exquisite Imagery and Tense Dramatic Interest

Mr. Roberts's new novel deals with the adventurous life of the sailors and fisher-folk of the region at the head of the Bay of Fundy. The winds and the waves and the salt fragrance of the sea are in its pages; and the strength of the tides that fight the great dykes of Tantramar. The vehement passions of these simple people in whose hearts emotion runs riot; and their deep natures which partake of the richness and steadfastness characteristic of the exhaustless meadows, make it a land where romance walks by day. The action turns upon the mystery of the heart's wisdom in discerning truth and love where reason saw but deceit and betrayal. "The Heart That Knows" is a great human story in which the author has employed to their uttermost his unique gifts of rich fancy and genius of expression as well as that craftsmanship which has had so splendid a development during the years of his successful career.

NOTES IN SEASON.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. have just issued "Richard the Brazen," by Brady and Peple, which within four days shows signs of being in demand; and a little later they will issue anonymously "Her Brother's Letters," which is eagerly awaited by the curious and by those who know it has literary merit as well as literary mystery.

L. E. PAGE & Co. publish to-day Charles D. Roberts's new book, "The Heart That Knows," a tale of tense, dramatic interest dealing with the adventurous life of the sailors and fisher folk at the head of the Bay of Fundy. It is a great human story by an author whose books so far as published have all been printed for the fifth, sixth and fourteenth times, and always in large editions.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY have now ready Robert W. Chambers's new novel of upper social life in America to-day, entitled "The Fighting Chance," and the 50,000 copies with which they thought to start comfortably are ordered and the presses are running night and day to keep up with the steady demand for this book in quite a new line for the popular author, which made its mark while running as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS have in course of publication their New Century Library edition of George Eliot's Works," complete in twelve volumes, of which seven are ready and the remaining five are promised during the next three months, so that the completed set may be among the most beautiful of holiday gifts. The New Century Library now contains Austen, Bunyan, Burns, the Brontës, Carlyle, Cervantes, Dickens, Dumas, Kingsley, Lever, Lytton, Tennyson and Thackeray.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS, (American Branch,) have two most timely books in "The King's English: the common errors into which writers are liable to fall and how such errors can be avoided," by H. W. F. and F. C. F.; and "The Problem of Spelling Reform: a lecture delivered before the British Academy, May 2, 1906, by Professor W. W. Skeat. Of lasting interest are "The Canadian War of 1812," by C. P. Lucas, whose account is pronounced graphic and impartial, and "The First Year of Roman Law," translated by Charles P. Sherman from the French of Fernand Bernard.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & COMPANY will have among their earliest fall books Clara Louise Burnham's new love story of Casco Bay, entitled "The Opened Shutters," illustrated in color by Harrison Fisher; and Elizabeth Stewart Phelps's new novel of mystic devotion and of simple romance called "The Man in the Case," illustrated by Henry J. Peck. An authoritative "Life of Lafcadio Hearn," by Elizabeth Bisland, giving his letters and many anecdotes, will be in two profusely illustrated volumes; E. Boyd Smith follows up the success of "Noah's Ark" with "The Story of Pocahontas and Captain John Smith" in a series of twenty-six historical pictures in colors as interesting as they are artistic; Whittier's "Snow Bound" will be put in a new holiday edition printed in six colors with decorations on every page and many full-page illustrations by such artists as Pyle, Enneking, Garrett and their peers. "The Complete Shakespeare" in one volume, edited by Professor W. A. Neilson in the Cambridge Poets Series, will be worthy of a place among these marvels of fine book-making.

The adventures of a young English girl who finds herself in Paris without a protector. She has been sent to study art, her chaperon dying the very day of her arrival. Being of an extremely romantic disposition, and having yearned all her life for things to happen, she does not inform her father of her exact position, but takes an apartment, joins art classes and views Parisian life alone. Two men enter into her life; the three seem to be "incomplete" amorists, as scarcely for a moment does one of them know his or her mind. Written with the pleasant humor that made the author's juvenile "The Wouldbegoods" so attractive.

For years he and "Bill" Williams, the great Texan land speculator and cattle king, had been friends and partners, but on this trip they have a bitter falling out. Richard the Brazen is the son of the cattle king. He has the good luck to save Harriet's life and falls in love with her at sight, but dares not follow her to New York on account of the feud. By an odd chain of events he has the chance to enter the household of his father's foe in the guise of a British nobleman. The masquerade results in numerous amusing scenes.

Three years ago a little volume, entitled "Letters from a Chinese official, being an eastern view of western civilization," attracted considerable attention. The letters were thought to have been written by a Chinaman, but it was finally admitted the author was G. Lowes Dickinson, an Englishman. However, he so exaggerated Chinese virtues, found so much fault with Western government methods, and criticised so severely both the Christian and the Christian home, that the world was thoroughly deceived. Mr. Bryan's book gives the other side of the question—shows that Chinese civilization is overrated, Western civilization underrated, offers common sense views upon the folly of Chinese isolation and labor saving machinery, defends Western government and Western homes, and adds a chapter in conclusion on "Christianity versus Confucianism."

Chambers, Rob. W. The fighting chance; with il. by A. B. Wenzell. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. [Ag.] c. 6+499 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

In a house party of rich, idle, sporting New Yorkers, assembled in a beautiful country home, are found the characters of the story. The love of Leila Mortimer, a married woman, for Beverly Plank, a bachelor of untold wealth, and the husband scheming of some of the minor characters form the background to an ardent love story between Sylvia Landis, brought up to marry wealth and engaged to Howard Quarier, a multi-millionaire she has accepted without any pretense of love, and Stephen Siward, a charming young fellow of ordinary fortune she meets after her engagement. Their love story has many ups and downs, as Sylvia will not break with her rich fiancé. These two are studies in heredity, neither having more than a "fighting chance" for happiness, so burdened are they with the worst qualities of their ancestors. Several of the men characters appear to be portraits of well-known New Yorkers.

Corelli, Marie. The treasure of heaven: a romance of riches. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1906. [Ag.] c. 8+427 p. por. D. cl., †$1.50.

David Helmsley, one of the richest men in the world, in his seventieth year, and without a blood relation to leave his wealth to, is forced to ack-knowledge that his millions have not brought him happiness, and that he does not possess one loving, unselfish friend. Disgusted with the hollow surroundings of his London life he starts on a tramp through the country to the place of his birth. He takes another name, changes his appearance, and goes about miserably poor and feeble. His aim is to test the virtues of the poor. He is the recipient of many disinterested kindnesses from those apparently no better off than himself, and finds a permanent home with a lovely and lovable woman of the people. His immense fortune goes to those who have been good to him. The first authentic portrait published of Miss Corelli appears in this book.

In merry jingle and with comic pictures are told the funny adventures of Teddy B. and Teddy G., "the Roosevelt bears." These intelligent bears one day determined to leave their home in the West and see the sights of the East. From the beginning when they board the Pullman car the fun is unceasing. Enjoying everything, full of tricks and frolic, they have the time of their lives. There is scarcely space to record all they did, but for a short time they lived on a farm, then visited a district school to the intense delight of the children, saw the sights of a country fair, met their brethren at the circus, took an automobile ride, and inspected the great cities of Chicago, Boston, New York, etc. This amusing narrative was first published serially in twenty leading newspapers. A number of the original pictures are here printed in colors.

By the author of "My Lady Peggy goes to town." So many men are infatuated with Judith Harriman the magnificent, that her life becomes a succession of thrilling adventures. First the Duke de Montresor travels from Paris to New York and is almost successful in carrying her off by force. Next she marries an attractive blond man, a popular author, whom she soon discovers she hates. Her next move is to resume her maiden name and to accept a position of private secretary to a wealthy self-made New Yorker. This Mr. Travers turns out to be a man who had once saved her life in France and had never forgotten her. Judith's husband is killed in an auto accident and she is enabled to marry her rich employer.

"Lost Shoe Creek," a wretched mining camp in the Klondike, is the scene. Its miserable inhabitants match their surroundings in poverty and picturesqueness. They are miners, prospectors, escaped jail birds, highwaymen and abandoned women. A New York girl searching for her father, who has mysteriously disappeared, is stranded here without friends or money for a year. Sergeant Scarlett, of the Mounted Police, a handsome young Irishman recently left a title and an estate, takes in the camp in his round of duty and becomes deeply involved in its history, losing his heart of course to the beautiful New Yorker. He finds her father,

"Lucky" Durant, who has discovered a gold mine, marries the girl, and together they reform "Lost Shoe Creek." The situations are often humorous and the dialogue bright and clever.

Leakage currents from electric railway returns have a corrosive action that is very destructive. Europeans have experienced far less trouble than Americans from this danger. The reports of "horrible cases" in America caused them to call for investigations in their own countries, and it is from reports of these investigations, printed in various periodicals, that this book has been compiled under the Head Engineer at Charlottenburg, Berlin. The translator has added a bibliography (8 p.) and some footnotes from American practice.

Dr. O'Malley is pathologist and ophthalmologist to Saint Agnes's Hospital, Phila. Dr. Walsh is adjunct professor of medicine at the New York Polyclinic School, and professor of nervous diseases and of the history of medicine, Fordham University, New York. Pastoral medicine presents that part of medicine which is of import to a pastor in his cure, and those divisions of ethics and moral theology which concern a physician in his practice. It sets forth facts and principles whereby the physician himself or his pastor may direct the operator's conscience whenever medicine takes on a moral quality, and it also explains to the pastor, who must often minister to a mind diseased, certain medical truths which will soften harsh judgments, and other facts, which may be indifferent morally but which assist him in the proper conduct of his work, especially as an educator.

Jack, the boy "born to the blue," is the son of a captain of United States cavalry stationed at a frontier post in the days when Indian warfare was at its height. His military training begins at an early age. Every phase of garrison life is included in the story, which is accurate in every detail. The boy has many adventures which appeal to readers of all ages. Mrs. Russel, the author, is in every sense an "army woman," the daughter of an officer and born at a frontier post.

Gabriel Vlaud was a tender-hearted, clever little French lad who was color grinder and assistant to the monks of St. Martin's many years ago, before the printing-press was invented, and all books were written and illuminated by hand in the monasteries. Gabriel's parents are cruelly treated by their Norman landlord, and that they may be helped Gabriel inserts a little prayer in a beautiful 'book of hours' he has watched Brother Stephen make for the bride of the King of France. The result is a beautiful fairy tale, with everyone happy.

The author has written biographies of Madame Récamier, Madame de Pompadour, Madame de Montespan and other celebrities of the court and stage. The "five fair sisters," nieces of Cardinal Mazarin, were brought by him from Rome to Paris in the height of his popularity with the Queen-Mother Anne of Austria. He was ambitious that they should make great marriages, and used all his great arts of intrigue to gain his purpose. The careers of these five young women are closely followed, their loves and marriages described frankly. Mazarin's own chequered life is a romance in itself. That he was the lover of the Queen-Mother finds belief in the numerous letters embraced in the text. The story of the beginning of Louis xiv.'s reign, his early amours, and his marriage to Maria Theresa form part of the narrative. Illustrated with reproductions of famous portraits.
